THE FARM CALENDAR FOR JULY.

Where MIXED FARMING is the rule, many opportunities occur for the cultivation of various crops that are not looked for where wheat alone is grown, and YOU CAN NEVER TELL UNTIL YOU TRY what will succeed, and prove a profitable transaction.

Sow Onions (broadcast or in drills), Rape, Wheat (late crop) for grain and hay, Oats for late crop and green stuff (late districts); Barley, Cape and Skinless, for green fodder; Rye for green crop; Tobacco in seed bed, planting out in October; Potatoes (see special list).

Skinless Barley is becoming more and more popular, as it yields a heavier crop of green fodder than the "Cape," and is fit to cut much earlier.

For good Onion Seed you cannot do better than ANDERSON MARKET MODEL, 7/ per lb. It is the finest type of solid, good-keeping Onion.

STANDARD MARINE OIL ENGINES.

AS RELIABLE AS STEAM AND FREQUENTLY MORE CONVENIENT.

Purchasers of Marine Oil Engines must frequently be sorely perplexed at the great variety of engines offered to them, and the very extravagant points of superiority claimed for many of these engines. Intending purchasers should therefore make all possible investigation before purchasing an Engine, because, where life and property are at stake, as at sea, it is very obvious that only a high-grade Engine should be considered. There is no sense or reason in buying an Engine just because it is low-priced; in fact, the engine may not even be worth the amount paid for it, however cheaply it has been bought. There is unqualified satisfaction in owning a boat fitted with the "STANDARD;" also there is never any difficulty in selling a boat fitted with a "STANDARD" Engine. It is not possible to find a better engine than the "STANDARD." If it were possible, the "Standard" Company would build it.

"STANDARD" ENGINES can also be supplied for STATIONARY, PORTABLE, and HOISTING purposes. Australasian Depot for "Standard" Engines, WAUGH and JOSEPHSON, Goulburn-street, Sydney.

FAIRBANKS MORSE MARINE OIL ENGINES.

JUST LANDED, LATEST MODELS, MEDIUM and HEAVY DUTY, HIGHEST POSSIBLE GRADE at LOWEST POSSIBLE FIGURE.

8½ to 24 h.p., in stock, 1 to 4 Cylinders. These Engines are standardised throughout, and Spare Parts are ALWAYS in STOCK. LAUNCHES for any purpose or speed supplied COMPLETE. If you desire more POWER in your PRESENT HULL, SATISFACTORY ARRANGEMENTS CAN BE MADE. ENGINES INSTALLED, COMPLETED UNDER EXPERT SUPERVISION, and handed OVER SUBJECT TO SATISFACTORY TRIALS. As it is now TIME to ARRANGE for your NEW BOAT, INSPECTION OF STOCK IS INVITED. Catalogues on application.

RELIABILITY AND EFFICIENCY ARE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE "UNION."

RELIABILITY is the cardinal feature of the "UNION" MARINE OIL ENGINE. That is why Frank Stone installed one in the schooner he built for Alaskan fishing grounds. It's the largest oil engine ever built—weighs 150,000lb, develops 500 h.p., and has 8 cylinders. It will meet rough weather, heavy sailing conditions, and probably ice-studded waters. Isn't this the sort of engine you desire? We have them in practically all H.P.'s, and will be pleased to hear from you if you are looking for a really GOOD ENGINE.

THE SKANDIA CRUDE OIL ENGINES are something of interest to Fishermen, Trawlers, and all users of power boats. They are built to RUN, and do it. Have no intricate valves, gears, or electric sparking devices, and work equally well on CRUDE OIL, KEROSENE, or NAPHTHA. Over FOUR THOUSAND in daily use in Northern Europe, and giving every satisfaction. Made in SIZES from 4 to 400 brake horse-power. DEMONSTRATION BOAT running in Sydney Harbour. Arrangement for inspection by applying to NELSON and ROBERTSON, 11-15 Loftus-street, Sydney.

WHAT MELBOURNE CRITICS SAY:

MELBOURNE "AGE."—"Too great prominence cannot be given to David Bispham's presence in our midst. Until he himself returns to us 'we shall not look upon his like again.'"

MELBOURNE "ARGUS."—"He has an instrument of many strings in his finely sonorous baritone; perfect vocalisation, clear enunciation, a quick wit, a fund of anecdote, and the gift of being able to conjure up pictures in song so vividly that they at times take on the character of little dramas."

MELBOURNE "HERALD."—"David Bispham, an American singer, appeared, sang, and conquered at his first concert."

"PUNCH."—"It is a voice one so rarely hears here that all budding singers should hear it, study its methods, and, above all, the uses to which the owner puts it. There is yet time to do so. Do not miss it."

CARNEGIE'S PIANOS

The POPULAR FAHR PIANOS.

The FAHR Piano is the result of years of Study and Scientific experiment along highest artistic lines.

The FAHR Factory has been long established — since 1846. FAHR Pianos have been sold in Australia for more than 45 years. Over 42,000 are in use.

The tone of the FAHR PIANO is peculiar to itself, possessing the rare quality aimed for by many makers, but realised by few. It is pure, mellow, sympathetic, of much volume, and of the most pleasing and refined character.

The Action of the FAHR Piano possesses all the requisites demanded by the most exacting artist, and is the best that human ingenuity and skill have yet devised.

The Case Designs of the FAHR Piano are very artistic. The Cases are all doubly veneered. The Veneers used are the finest to be found in the markets of Europe.

FAHR Pianos are made in different Styles, and range in price from £48 upwards. The £48 Fahr Piano is 4ft 1in high, and has been proclaimed "The Ideal Piano for the Home."

FAHR Pianos can be purchased on very easy terms, a small deposit, and 20s per month.

"To please people perfectly" is our motto. To give best value for the least money.

COUNT OLAF.

"If you please, Sir Ian, I think the gentleman is ill, and he seems very strange in his manner."

This was the news which Richards brought when he roused me the next morning from the heavy sleep induced by my strenuous experiences, and anxieties of the last few crowded days.

"Why, what's the matter?"

"I don't know, sir, I sat up with him as you told me, and about an hour ago, just 7 o'clock, he began to get restless and muttered things, and I thought he'd either been drinking or had been drugged. After a bit he began to cry, and he's been crying ever since off and on; so I thought I'd better come and tell you."

"I'll get up. Go back to him and wait till I come."

I dressed hurriedly and went to the Count's room. He certainly looked bad enough. Drawn, haggard, and white in face, and trembling like an ague patient, he cowered down in the bed as I entered, stared at me in manifest fear, and burst into tears.

I sent Richards out of the room and went to the bedside. "You needn't be afraid of me. I am a friend," I said gently.

This had no effect, however, so I drew a chair close to the bed. "Look at me well. I am a friend. Give me your hand."

He made no response, so I took his hand and pressed it. It was thin and emaciated as if with a long illness. I pitied him intensely; but I was desperately embarrassed to find him in such a parlous condition.

"You are Count Olaf of Praamene, and I am your friend. Don't you understand that? I wish to help you. I brought you here last night from Dr. Hammond."

At the mention of the name he started and looked round the room, almost wildly.

"He is not here," I said reassuringly. "You won't see him again. I brought you away from him to take you back to your father, Prince Osca, and your sister, Countess Evala."

The quiet tone in which I spoke had some calming effect; his hollow eyes fastened on my face and as he appeared to make an effort to recognise me, the look of alarm was less obvious.

"The doctor. Where is he? He'll give it me," he muttered.

"He is not here yet," I answered, carefully suppressing my astonishment. "What is it he will give you?"

A grin of cunning spread slowly over his face. "I want him. He knows."

I guessed something of the truth then, and taking his hand again I turned up the sleeve and saw the marks of a hypodermic syringe.

"You'll give it me?" he asked at once with an eagerness which told its own story.

"You must wait a little while;" and I rose. It was clearly a case for a doctor; so I told Richards to wait with the Count and telephoned to my friend, Dr. Arbuthnot, to come round at once.

My letters had arrived, and I was glad to see one in Valtoun's writing, to say he had returned to town. I called him up directly.

"I want you to come here, Bob; I've got a pretty considerable surprise for you. Come at once, and you can have breakfast with me."

"I've just sat down to it here."

"Never mind. Leave it and come here. It's very urgent."

He agreed, and I turned back to my letters, and found one from Prince Osca. I opened it hurriedly, and to my surprise a cheque for £500 dropped out of it; but my surprise at the letter itself was even greater.

"I return you the loan you made me with a motive and for a purpose which had I understood them at the time would have absolutely prevented my accepting it. I consider that the confidence I placed in you was shamefully betrayed; and you will understand that all relations of every sort between us must be considered at an end."

In view of what I had just done in effecting the release of Count Olaf, I could afford to laugh at this; but there was a good deal of annoyance in the laugh. I read the letter a second time and had just finished when Valtoun arrived.

"Well, what's the surprise, Ian? I hope it won't keep breakfast waiting, for I'm as hungry as a pack of hounds."

"I've got someone in bed here, and I want to see if you recognise him. We'll just go in, and you can have a good look at him; but don't say anything before Richards."

"What's all the mystery about?" he asked, laughing.

"Come on in; we can talk afterwards."

"I don't want to talk, man; I want to eat."

We went in then, and I said something to Richards, while Valtoun stared at the Count.

"Well?" I asked, when we had gone out.

"If I didn't know the man was dead, I should swear it was Count Olaf," he said.

"It is. That's the surprise I promised you. I'll tell you the story over breakfast," and I did so.

"I think he is. I've sent for Tommy Arbuthnot."

"What are you going to do?"

"Take him down to The Chase to-day if Arbuthnot says he's well enough. I expect him any minute now."

"Old Bergstein's doing, of course. What a wily old beast he must be? But what's his object with him?" and he nodded toward the other room.

"Can't pretend even to guess. But I know what mine is; and that's enough for me—to prove that I had no hand in killing Olaf."

"I suppose there's no doubt that it is Olaf."

"Not a bit. I knew him in a moment, just as you did. But I was prepared to see him and you weren't. That's why I didn't tell you anything before you saw him."

"Phew! It's a pretty kettle of fish. How have they managed to keep the thing so quiet all this time?"

"I don't know for certain, but I've a devilish unpleasant idea. I'm afraid the fellow's an imbecile; I'm sure he's an opium fiend. He's been blubbering like a kid all the morning, and I can get nothing out of him except that he wants the doctor because he will give it him. 'It,' I expect, is opium. Hello, here's Arbuthnot. We shall soon know."

Tommy Arbuthnot was an old Harrow friend of us both, and his reputation as a very clever specialist was rising fast.

"I feared to find you in bed, Calmadale," he said, after the mutual greetings. "What's the matter with you?"

"Nothing wrong with me, Tommy, thank you, but I've got a man here I want you to see; and I shouldn't have called you at such a time if it was not very urgent. Come along," and I took him in to the Count.

"I think you'd better leave me with him," he said after a moment.

I went back to Valtoun, and we resumed our talk.

"Do you really believe the chap's a lunatic?"

"I am afraid he is; but, of course, I don't know. I think it because, of course, it would make it much easier to keep him shut up."

"I suppose he didn't remember you."

"Oh, dear, no."

"Do you think old Wasner lied when he told us it was Count Olaf. It would be just like Bergstein to put up a yarn of the sort and fool us all."

"It's possible, of course. But anyhow the tale was spread everywhere that it was Olaf who was killed that night, and as I'll swear that this is the fellow I fought with, the thing's good enough for me."

"[illegible] to him, too. But it'll be a bit [illegible] if you dump him down in the [illegible] family, and they meet you with a [illegible] 'that's not the Count.'"

"I [illegible]. Well, we shall see. [illegible] old Menna's story to you, Bob."

"[illegible] but you never know what these [illegible] are after or what they're out for. I'd like to be present at The Chase."

"I want you to come with me, if you will. You're interested in matters as my second in the [illegible], and, judging from a letter I've got this morning, there may be ructions."

"I'll come like a shot. Only too glad."

[illegible] and he was reading the [illegible] letter when Arbuthnot came back.

"[illegible] very interesting case, Calmadale. Can you give me any history of it?"

"No. All I know about him is that he led a very wild life until some five or six years ago, and I believe that from that time he has been under some sort of restraint. What do you make of him?"

"He's next door to a lunatic as the result of opium. His nerves quite gone, and he'll need great care. He's on the borderline of insanity, in fact."

"Would he pull round with proper care?"

"I shouldn't like to say. He might. There's a chance, but not a strong one. His physical condition's all to pieces, too; that's the worst of it. Who is he?"

"Count Olaf, a Hungarian."

"He speaks English. I got him to talk a bit, and he wants to go back to some place you've taken him from; but doesn't know where. Has he been in an asylum?"

"No. He's been in the care of a man named Hammond; used to be a doctor, and got into prison some years back."

"What, that infernal blackguard? Gregory Hammond? The biggest scoundrel who ever escaped the gallows. If it's the man I mean, there isn't a crime in the calendar he wouldn't commit for five shillings. I wonder the poor devil's alive if he's been in his hands."

"That's the man. If you've had anything to do with him, I'll lay a sovereign he's had the best of you somehow."

I had an uncomfortable twinge as I recalled the scene of the previous night and my constant suspicion that Hammond was tricking me.

"Is the chap in the next room too ill to be taken ten or twelve miles in a car?" asked Valtoun.

"Oh, no; but the sooner he's in proper hands the better. A good nursing home where they understand nerve cases is the place for him. I can give you the names of one or two if you like."

"I'm going to hand him over to his friends," I said.

"I shouldn't be long about it then."

"Is he rational now?" asked Valtoun.

"Babbles a bit; more like a kid than anything. If you want him to be at his best, I'll write you out something you can give him. If he was going to be in my hands I shouldn't stop his opium all at once. Get it down by degrees. Of course I don't know how much he's been having. Give him a dose of this," he said as he handed me a prescription; "and if one isn't enough, give him another half an hour later."

"Just a last question. Is he likely to recover sufficiently, I mean in the long run, to take hold of a difficult and very responsible position?"

Arbuthnot laughed. "That fellow? I should think he was born a fool, has been growing a bigger one ever since, and will die an idiot. Get him off your hands. That's the best thing you can do, Calmadale;" and with that he went.

"A promising heir to a throne," said Valtoun. "I should take Tommy's tip, if I were you, and get rid of him at once."

"I must go and sit with him while Richards gets this stuff made up."

"What shall I do?"

"Come in with me;" and we went into the bedroom. I sent Richards to get the medicine, and we sat by the bedside.

AUSTRALIAN BODY ACTIVE.

For some time the Commonwealth Football Association (British Association Rules) has been moving in the matter of being represented at the next Olympic Games, to be held in Berlin, in 1916. At present the scheme is progressing favourably, and it is probable that a team will be sent.

Amongst the many progressive items submitted to the last Australian conference, which was held in Melbourne last Easter, was one regarding the representation of Australia at the Berlin Olympic Games in 1916. The proposition created general interest amongst all concerned. Prior to the conference each affiliated State association had been circularised regarding its attitude towards the proposition, and, in the main, though all were cognisant of the great financial obstacle to be surmounted, opinions agreed that such representation was desirable, and that steps should be taken to put a scheme for attaining the end into being. Each delegate was thus prepared to discuss the proposal with his State association's opinion as a solid backing, and the proposal was thoroughly discussed.

An obstacle in the shape of a channel for affiliation, which also implied a way for entering the competition, was encountered, but as a result of communicating with the English Football Association, a reply has been received this week which has all the elements of providing a way out of the difficulty. The soccer games are controlled by the representatives on the Olympic committee of the Federation Internationale de Football Association, or, to be short, the International Federation. This body is composed of representatives of all the national associations playing the association game, and an affiliation to that body by the Commonwealth Association seemed imperative. Delegates were not prepared to desert the English Football Association, which has been the backbone of the game since its first progressive step, and it appeared that an impasse had been arrived at, till a solution presented itself in the rules governing the soccer competitions at all Olympic Games.

By rule, each nation is entitled to send four teams, and the hon. secretary Commonwealth Football Association was instructed to write the hon. secretary English Association, asking for his opinion of a proposition to enter as one of the British reserve teams, although competing as an Australian team. The reply to hand reads:—

"I am pleased to receive your letter of April 8 with regard to your representation at the Olympic Games of Berlin, 1916. I am of opinion that if the Commonwealth Football Association, or each of the States which form the Commonwealth Association, is affiliated with the Football Association, that Australia will be entitled in its own name to send a representative team to Berlin, and that it will not be necessary for the Commonwealth Association to be directly affiliated with the International Federation.

"Having regard to the attitude of certain Continental countries towards the four national associations of Great Britain and Ireland, I am not able to advise the Commonwealth Association to directly affiliate with the International Federation.

"Believe me, yours very truly,

"F. J. WALL, secretary."

This reply is regarded as being satisfactory, and with the major part of four years in which to organise, there is no reason why Australia should not be represented in the soccer events as well as in the cycling, swimming, rowing, and athletic tournaments at the next Olympic Games.

GREATER SYDNEY.

CONTROL OF THE AREA.

Alderman Brae, Mayor of Rockdale, said he believed in a Greater Sydney consisting of two zones. He thought it would be desirable, however, if the whole of the city services were controlled by a commission of three instead of by a council. There was more efficiency in the services of the Harbour Trust and Water and Sewerage Board than was displayed by municipal departments. A great many aldermen were quite unfitted to hold that office. He considered it would be unfair to pool assets and liabilities at the present time. The responsibility of the existing loans should, during their currency, be borne by the various areas for which they were raised; but new loans should be common. His scheme for the repayment of current loans would involve a system of local rating. He did not think it would be necessary to make any provision for the employees of the present municipalities. They had no vested rights in their positions. The matter was one that could be safely left to the good sense of the new council. There was great need for the regulation of pedestrian traffic in the city. The City Council had absolutely neglected this matter. It was a subject on which they had much to learn from Melbourne.

Alderman Neill, of Dundas, said he realised that a Greater Sydney must come, but he thought it would be a mistake to start with too large an area. For the present only those municipalities immediately abutting on the city boundaries should be taken in.

The Commission adjourned till Monday afternoon.

WESTERN SUBURBS HOSPITAL.

SPECIAL GRANT WANTED.

A deputation from the Western Suburbs District Hospital approached the Vice-President of the Executive Council yesterday afternoon, and asked for a grant towards the erection of additional buildings. It was stated that the proposed new structures—nurses' quarters, new ward, isolation ward, and laundry—would cost £6100. The hospital authorities have £2700 in hand.

Mr. Flowers, in reply, stated that he appreciated the good work which was being performed by district hospitals. He would accept the invitation of the committee to make a personal inspection. They could rest assured that he would do "the right thing" in regard to their application for financial assistance.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

A GOVERNOR'S PROGRESS.

"How I Became a Governor," by Sir Ralph Williams, is not, as the name might imply, a manual to guide the footsteps of aspirants to Vice-Regal honours. It is the record of an adventurous career in five continents, which was crowned with important administrative positions. The author was a rolling-stone, but his story gives the lie to the proverb, and when he retired from active service a few years ago he had achieved the dignity of being the representative of the King in a self-governing colony. In the meantime he had, both on his own account and as a member of the Colonial Service, had experiences in various parts of the globe, such as fall to the lot of few, and their recital fills an interesting volume of reminiscences. The author was born in a Welsh rectory, during the late 'Forties, and he is old enough to remember when life in the Principality was much less sophisticated than it is now. In many respects it retained the characteristic of the 18th century, and his stories of elections and assizes and Church affairs seem to belong to another age. He was destined for the law, but finding it incongenial, decided to try his luck abroad. He chanced to see one day in the paper the name of the "Peter Stuart," a sailing ship of Devitt and Moore's line, bound for Melbourne, and then and there resolved to join her. Like a Secretary of State on a former historic occasion it was necessary to send for an atlas in order to learn where his destination might be.

The author arrived in Melbourne in 1876, and the first thing to strike him was the pilot who took the ship through Port Phillip Heads. "The Melbourne pilots of that time," he writes, "were said to make large incomes, and had a curious cult of their own of avoiding all semblance of a sailor. I found the pilot when I went on deck in the morning walking with mincing steps and speaking in a finikin voice. He was dressed in a grey frock-coat, light trousers, a white macintosh, and a white tall hat, and in his hand he carried a neatly rolled silk umbrella. How anyone in such a kit found his way on board in a fresh breeze of wind has always puzzled me. However, he knew his business, and we beat through the somewhat tricky entrance of Port Philip, and ere long found our way to Sandridge." Melbourne of those days delighted the author hugely. It was a charming place, he says. "Even then it had fine buildings, bright and broad streets, and shops where more things and better things could be bought than can be bought to-day at such great towns as Johannesburg and Capetown. Even then its hotels were good, its theatres fine, its actors far above the average, and, above all, its society delightful." About the only criticism he has to offer is that the male half of the population talked and thought of little but money and wool; the feminine half, however, more than made up for this little failing. In due course he left Melbourne for a station in Riverina, near Hay, whose mailman, a few months before, had been the Tichborne claimant. Work and holiday trips to other parts of Australia filled up some pleasant months, and then the author felt the wanderlust again. He and some friends organised an expedition to hunt for buried treasure in Terra del Fuego. They found no treasure, but had a good time hunting in Patagonia with the natives, and travelling through other parts of South America. Then followed visits to Canada and Spain, and a long trek with his wife and child into the almost unknown country which is now Rhodesia. His wife was the first white woman to see the Victoria Falls.

Up to this point Sir Ralph was scouring the world as a free lance, and his reminiscences, though interesting, are the ordinary ones of travel a generation ago. But in 1884 he joined the public service, and put his foot on the lowest rung of the ladder of promotion. Henceforth his duties brought him into contact with those who were making history; he himself took part in great events, and he was in a position to see all that went on behind the scenes. His memoirs now begin to possess a deeper significance, and his intimate knowledge of affairs in the Transvaal between 1884 and the Jameson Raid helps us to unravel the tangled skein of the history of those years.

He had been with Sir Charles Warren on the Bechuanaland expedition, had met Rhodes and Kruger, and was known to have a thorough acquaintance with the Transvaal. In consequence of this he was appointed British Agent in Pretoria in 1887. His position was a very delicate one, as relations between his own Government and that of the Boers were perpetually strained. However, he contrived to get on excellently with President Kruger, of whom he has many complimentary things to say, and he seems to have carried out a difficult task with tact and credit.

Sir Ralph Williams would have liked to remain in the Transvaal in order to share in the stirring times which he knew to be brewing, but the Colonial Office decreed otherwise. He was appointed Colonial Treasurer at Gibraltar, rising in due course to the post of Captain of the Port. He has much to say of life on "The Rock," with its pleasures and disadvantages, and of the tobacco smuggling into Spain, which he was expected to suppress. Next, in 1897, came the Colonial Secretaryship of Barbadoes, where he was present during the famous hurricane of 1898, and in 1901 he was given a post of great responsibility, namely, that of Resident Commissioner of Bechuanaland. He was a mourner at the funeral of Cecil Rhodes, of which he gives a remarkable description. "Such a sight," he writes, "has surely rarely been seen; thousands of people gathered together from all corners of South Africa, all met to do honour to South Africa's greatest hero. . . On nearing the top we reached the natives assembled in their thousands, who crouched down, giving every sign of mourning for one whom they held in extraordinary honour. The burial-place is a round knoll of solid rock, and immediately around the grave are grouped eight or nine huge rocks, standing upright, exactly like Druidical remains. It is an extraordinary natural monument of a dignity which it is beyond the ability of man to create. Here on the summit and within the circle lay the coffin, with, below it, the shallow chamber hewn out of the rock into which it was to be lowered. The words: 'Here lie the remains of Cecil John Rhodes' are all that are inscribed upon it. Not even a date is given." But perhaps the most notable event of these years was his settlement of the tribal succession. Two rivals, Sekgoma and Matibi, each claimed it, and there was a prospect of a general conflagration among the natives. With a small following the author crossed the Kalahari desert, and after hearing evidence decided in favour of the latter. For a time it was touch and go with the little expedition, and had Sekgoma turned nasty not only would they have been wiped out, but their massacre might have been the signal for a native rising. However, Sekgoma bowed to the inevitable. It is interesting that on this occasion the author pays a very handsome tribute to an Australian, Lieut. Arnold Hodson, stationed in the Kalahari, of whom he writes: "He was without doubt the best police officer I ever had, and to his untiring work in the Kalahari desert is largely due the elimination of numerous incidents which must have brought about serious friction between the German Government and ourselves."

Next came the summons to govern the Windward Islands, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Grenada, and thither the author accordingly went. Whether or no the Governor has much to do in a self-governing colony there can be no doubt at all about his arduous duties in a Crown colony. He has legislative powers, as well as a wide, indeterminate authority over the places committed to his charge. Moreover, he is responsible for their good order. Sir Ralph Williams had soon ample opportunity of proving his mettle. In St. Lucia the negro population rose en masse, and began to pillage the island. The handful of whites were in extreme peril, and the days that followed were full of exciting incidents, which the author describes with a graphic pen. It was no time for half-measures, and, thanks to the energy and courage of a few men, the rioters were kept in check until a Dutch cruiser opportunely arrived. Had it not come this book would never have been written. Then Sir Ralph Williams reached the summit of his ambition, and was appointed Governor of Newfoundland. The transition from absolute to limited monarchy must have been rather abrupt, and the author's comments on responsible government in the colonies are perhaps biassed on that account. At any rate, Newfoundland is hardly representative of the larger dominions if his somewhat caustic remarks are justified.

It is impossible to indicate a quarter of the interesting things to be read in these pages. The author has much to say about the distinguished men he has known, and the places he has seen. He is an acute critic of the methods of the Colonial Office, and of various episodes in the later history of the Empire; also he is a keen observer with a developed sense of humour, which has garnished his narrative with many an amusing anecdote. (John Murray.)

THE OPEN ROAD AND THE COUNTRYSIDE.

One of Rudyard Kipling's stories tells of an American couple who came over to England for a holiday, and were so taken with the charm of the English countryside that they never went back, but remained to found a family in the fair vales of Sussex. Another American lady seems to have had a similar experience. She and her husband came to England, and determined to settle in the country. The story of her search for the ideal rural home and its success are told in "The Odd Farm House," the author of which has christened herself "The Odd Farm Wife." It was no easy task to find just what was wanted. "I was determined," she writes, "to live in none but an old house—an American does not come to England to live in a new one." At last perseverance was rewarded, and in Kent the ideal was attained. "It lay in a dimple of the downs; all round it were meadows full of browsing sheep. A long, low Jacobean house of simple but beautiful lines, with a group of farm buildings clustered in the background. The squat vast towers made the coachhouse look like a chapel, and on the outside their bulk was embraced by plum and pear trees espaliered on the walls."

Here the Odd Farm Wife prepared to enjoy the delights of simple rusticity, and she writes of them with a great deal of quiet charm. The book is a record of small but pleasant things; little meetings with the neighbours, gentle philosophisings on national characteristics; the song of birds, and the delicate bloom of flowers. And all is redolent with the fragrance of the Kentish countryside. (Macmillan and Co.)

From the beginnings of history England possessed four Royal roads, four great thoroughfares—Watling-street, the Foss Way, Ermine-street, and the Icknied Way—two of them extending across the breadth of the land and two throughout the length. Tradition ascribes them to the Romans, but long before ever a Roman set foot on the islands these were trading routes for the native drovers. To-day they still survive. In some places they are the foundation of the modern high road, in others they wind through the fields, hedge-lined strips of turf, used only by lovers, poachers, and an occasional drover.

"The Icknield Way" is an account of one of the famous four roads by Edward Thomas. The Icknield Way used to connect the old kingdom of East Anglia with that of Wessex. On its voyage from Suffolk to Wiltshire it passes through some of the fairest bits of England. The green ribbon wanders through Herts, Bedfordshire, and Bucks, along the Chilterns, over the chalk downs of Berkshire on to the great rolling sweep of Salisbury Plain. Every mile of its course is stored with memories of the past. Mr. Thomas shares these memories with us, and intersperses his antiquarian and historical lore with agreeable gossip on the joys of wayfaring in general and the incidents of his journey in particular. (Constable.)

"Wayfaring in France" is the title of another book of the countryside by Edward Harrison Barber. The author's orbit was from Auvergne to the Bay of Biscay, and in the beautiful valley of the Dordogne he saw much that makes us long to follow in his footsteps. "Behind the actual—the charm of the picturesque and the attraction of an interesting and kindly peasantry, strongly attached to their old customs and traditions—this Dordogne country has a history which is like a vista of romance. Especially must it appear so to the people of British race. As a part of Aquitaine it shared in all the commotions and vicissitudes of those three centuries of battle, adventure, and troubadour minstrelsy which closed the Hundred Years' War and the death of Talbot at Castillon. There is scarcely a town or even a village of Perigord that has not vivid traditions of the "temps des Anglais." They are never flattering to our own virtue, but there is some comfort to be drawn from the reflection that the "Compagnies Anglaises," a name given to the armed bands of free-booters who, during the Hundred Years' War, infested the rural district of South-western France, were, in the main, natives of the soil, and English only in the sense of partisanship." It is a delightful book, admirably illustrated, and the author's wanderings end all too soon. (Macmillan.)

"DAUBER."

Mr. John Masefield has firmly established himself as the poet of the unconventional. In "The Everlasting Mercy" and "The Widow of Bye-street" he has chosen themes which would hardly commend themselves to the ordinary songster, and he has treated them in language which might make an older generation of readers turn in their graves. Perhaps the fount of inspiration at which he drinks is a trifle muddy, but it is impossible to deny the vigour of his new fashion in versification. Whether the whole of it is poetry is quite a different matter.

"Dauber," his latest production, is less startling than the other two, and is a curious combination of genuine imagination and bathos. Dauber is a young countryman, who dreams of being an artist, and, in particular, of painting the sea as no one has ever done before. To learn its moods and to catch its spirit, he ships before the mast on a voyage round the Horn, and has rather a rough time of it. He becomes the butt of an unsympathetic fo'castle; he is an inefficient land-lubber, and only after he acquits himself well during a storm does he find his feet and win the appreciation of the crew. In the end, just when the future seems brighter, he falls from the mast, and death frustrates all his schemes.

So much for the story, which has distinct possibilities. Mr. Masefield's manner of telling it reveals an extraordinary lack of self-criticism. When he likes to use them, his descriptive powers are admirable. Thus:—

Darker it grew, still darker, and the stars
Burned golden, and the fiery fishes came.
The wire-note loudened from the straining spars,
The sheet ropes clashed together, always the same;
The rushing fishes streaked the sea with flame,
What unknown joy was in those fish unknown?

And at other times he seeks to convey realism by what can only be termed a parody of himself. Thus the conversation between Dauber and the mate when the former's drawings have been maliciously destroyed:—

"Please, sir, they spoiled my drawings." "Who did?"
"They."
"Who's they?" "I don't quite know, sir." "Don't quite know, sir?
Then why are you aft to talk about it, hey?
Whom d'you complain of?" "No one." "No one?"
"No, sir."
"Well, then, go forward till you've found them, go, sir.
If you complain of someone, then I'll see.
Now, get to hell, and don't come bothering me."

This may be true to life, but it is impossible to call it poetry, and whole stanzas of the kind bring into "Dauber" an element which all the fine descriptions cannot make acceptable. (Heinemann.)

THE JAMES BROTHERS.

Few countries can boast such a distinguished pair of brothers as William and Henry James, of whom William the elder, psychologist and pragmatist philosopher, died not long ago; while Henry, the novelist, still lives. The latter now gives us under the title of "A Small Boy and Others" the first volume of an autobiography. Henry was born in 1843, and his recollections of his school days seem to take us into a different age. Although the purpose of the book is "to place together some particulars of the early life of William James and present him in his setting, his immediate native and domestic air," William does not figure very largely in the narrative. One anecdote illustrates a phase in the career of the future philosopher which he probably outgrew. Henry asked his brother to play with him, but William, arrogant on account of his 16 months' superiority, retorted, "I only play with boys who can curse and swear." Henry, not having acquired these manly accomplishments, had on that occasion to forgo the pleasure of his brother's society.

For the rest we get pictures of social life and educational institutions, both in America and Europe as they were 60 years ago. We get glimpses of Charles Kean and Matthews, and Emerson and the young French Empress with the baby Prince Imperial. "I like to remember," writes the author, "that I listened to that rarest of infant phenomena—Adelina Patti—poised in an armchair that had been pushed to the footlights, and announcing her incomparable gift." Again we have the comment of Mr. Thackeray on the juvenile dress in vogue in the U.S.A. at that time. "The great Mr. Thackeray had come to America to lecture on 'The English Humorists,' and still present to me is the voice proceeding from my father's library, from which some glimpse of me hovering at the door prompted him to the formidable words: 'Come here, little boy, and show me your extraordinary jacket.' After asking me if this were the common uniform of my age and clan he remarked that in England, were I to go there, I should be addressed as 'Buttons.'" It is a pleasant book, full of rambling charm, and we shall look forward to the next instalment.. (Macmillan.)

SOME NEW NOVELS.

To this enlightened age ghost stories as a rule are not very convincing, but even the most sceptical will confess to a thrill if they read "Carnacki, the Ghost Finder," by William Hope Hodgson. Carnacki is a professional investigator of evil spirits whom people send for to lay ghosts as they would a man to lay carpets. His spooks are no mere commonplace bogies that clank armour and howl dismally down corridors; they are mysterious, awful manifestations of the occult, baleful influences which materialise in a monstrous hand, or mouth, and so forth, and seek to destroy both body and soul. Carnacki, however, has a theory that out of every hundred of these cases ninety-nine are capable of rational explanation; the hundredth is a manifestation of supernatural powers. His experiences embrace both. Some of the "hauntings" which seem most eerie turn out to be the work of man; others, again, which, to begin with, suggest nothing but a practical joke, are found to be very terrible emanations from the unknown world. That Carnacki escapes at all is only due to his knowledge of ancient ritual and esoteric learning. Mystic Pentacles, with strange signs, circles of garlic and hyssop, runes, and barriers of holy water are the devices by which he defies the assaults of the evil forces, and his escapes make a most hair-raising narrative. It is emphatically a book to read, but a nervous person should be careful of the time and place chosen for its enjoyment. (Bell and Sons.)

"A Little World," by Arnold Goldsworthy, gives rather an unpleasant picture of London suburbia, which, according to the author, is mainly composed of snobs and hypocrites. The Dellands have a hard struggle to be "received" by the society of the neighbourhood, because the head of the house is in the retail trade. However, at last they succeed, when no sooner are they established than Mary loves not wisely but too well. Before he can make amends her lover is killed in an accident, and she has to endure the indignant scorn of her former friends. She suddenly inherits wealth, and as suddenly the outraged guardians of morality change their tune. Those who had taken the lead in her persecution now ask her hand in marriage, but she has had enough of these inconsistent gentlemen, and bestows her hand on one who had always stood by her, and believed in her. Mr. Goldsworthy's plot cannot pretend to much novelty, but he has handled it capably. (G. Allen.)

Mr. H. F. Prevost Battersby is able to write forcibly and picturesquely about the work of those who are governing the Empire, but, unfortunately, when he ventures off that path he is not very convincing. The result is that "The Silence of Men," his latest book, is curiously unequal. The hero, John March, an English soldier of the strong, reticent type, has escaped manifold perils only to fall a victim to the usual shipboard infatuation. The object of his affections is quite unworthy of him. She can neither sympathise with his aspirations nor can she appreciate his sterling qualities; but, nevertheless, she marries him secretly in Calcutta for want of a bigger quarry. When a more eligible party turns up she marries him with a lordly disregard for the previous ceremony. Indeed, marriage appears to be quite a hobby of this young lady, for we subsequently learn that before even she met March she was a married woman. Meanwhile, although March has met his fore-destined mate, he does not speak, for to do so would ruin the undeserving Lynne Ashburton. In fiction, however, if not in life, such chivalry does not go unrewarded, and in the end, by a somewhat mechanical chain of coincidences, March is able to break his silence. The book is not a great achievement, but it is redeemed from dulness by the description of the works and days of a British resident in an Indian native State. (The Bodley Head.)

"The Night Nurse," by the anonymous author of "The Surgeon's Log," is rather a good story, in which love and medicine are the principal ingredients. The scene is laid in a big Dublin hospital, where the hero, a rising surgeon, falls a victim to the beauty and sweetness of one of the nurses. There is the inevitable misunderstanding and estrangement; for a time the pair are at cross purposes, and Fitzgerald chivalrously becomes engaged to another to save her from being compromised. However, in the end they meet in a western village, where they are fighting an epidemic, and all is well. So much for the story, which is not conspicuous for its originality. The chief interest of the book is the picture it gives of life in a big hospital, a little world of its own, with its intrigues and heroisms; loves and quarrels, its comedies and tragedies, all bound together by an esprit de corps and all subordinated to the common purpose of healing the sick. (Bell and Sons.)

Mr. James Blyth is an assiduous manufacturer of uninspired romances, which, nevertheless, enjoy a certain vogue. In "Respectability" he continues his short and simple annals of the town of Holmbithe, which, according to this author, contains more than its fair proportion of snobs and scandal mongers. The heroine is a girl who loves a married fisherman too well, and outrages the moral susceptibilities of high and low, though few of them are in a position to cast the first stone. Indeed, almost the only one to treat her with human kindliness is the widow of her drowned lover, and for doing so she, too, incurs the hostility of the unco guid. In the end, of course, Rose Gaunt finds that after all life holds love and happiness for her, but in the interval Mr. Blyth, with righteous indignation, paints for us the pettiness and hypocricy of one sort of provincial town. (Bell and Sons.)

"Chance The Piper" is a collection of stories by Agnes and Egerton Castle, whose leit motif is that fortune, though seemingly blind, generally manages to bring the right man at the right hour. The stories are widely different in period and setting: London under the plague, the Regency, South Africa, China, the Continent during various wars—all these provide the canvas on which the authors paint their theme, and in some cases they have touched a high level of dramatic power. MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"Welcome the coming, speed the going guest," a line which Pope made famous in his Satires by the simple process of borrowing it from Homer, whose translators generally preferred "parting guest," must now open this column to cover to-night's farewell to Oscar Asche, and the arrival in our midst of Lewis Waller. Mr. Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, when they sail from Albany for Durban by the Nestor on August 13, will have remained in Australia for 60 weeks, greatly raising the spirits of all who love Shakespeare by gloriously staging and ably acting several of the immortal poet's works. Mr. Lewis Waller, replacing them with Miss Madge Titheradge in "Henry V.," will revive a historical play which could not readily be seen here without him, as he is the only eminent artist of the day who is ever seen in the part. Incidentally, it is a coincidence that Sydney should be parting with an Australian actor manager and an English leading lady, in exchange for an English actor-manager and an Australian leading lady. "King Henry V.," during the generation before Waller made a hit in the play at the London Lyceum in 1900, was more often, and more effectively, seen in Australia than elsewhere, the long residence here of George Rignold causing Sydney to be peculiarly blessed in that respect. That great actor relinquished the character before old age stole upon him. It is a terrible part for any actor, young or old—Harry of England is the whole play, in fact, without pushing such a phrase to any very absurd exaggeration. In the memory, Fluellen also stands out, with shadowy recollections of the soldier Williams, Pistol, the great speech of Chorus, and the French princess. In the eighteenth century the drama used to be staged because the public loved to see reproduced the scene of George III's coronation. Macready revived "Henry V." sumptuously in 1839; then came Phelps at Sadler's Wells, and Charles Kean at the Princess's. Charles Calvert grandly produced the drama at Manchester in 1872. George Rignold's ascendancy dates from the production at Booth's Theatre, New York, in 1875, followed by his great success at Drury Lane in 1879, and he several times drew crowds with it on this side both before and after that date, opening Her Majesty's, Sydney, with it in 1886. Though revived again some years later, "Henry V." is practically unknown to all young, or youngish, playgoers of this city, so that Mr. Waller's decision to open here in a character so romantic will meet with the most cordial approbation on all sides.

The writer of "A Woman's Letter from London" visited the Lyceum Theatre on May 22 for the production of "Ivanhoe" under the Melville Brothers' direction, and writes of it: "Melodrama is a misused word; it does not always bear the construction placed upon it. Sir Henry Irving at the same playhouse produced in his artistic way the big thing. Melodrama, of course. There are many of them written by Shakespeare himself. It is in the playing and language that the difference lies. 'Ivanhoe' is a challenge to an manager. It calls up our cherished dreams of Sir Walter Scott, who perhaps less than any author had the stage in his mind, and yet it may be that from the mine of wealth that lies in the Waverley novels we may yet resuscitate historical drama. 'Ivanhoe' was as magnificently put pon the stage last night, as smoothly produced, with as big effects as if it had been done by the presiding genius of the old Lyceum. The cast was a fine one. Miss Tittell Brune reaped whirlwinds of applause as in the role of Rebecca, the much wronged Jewess, she played her scenes with an Isaac of York rendered with immense cleverness and taste by Mr. Hubert Carter. These two artists suit each other wonderfully well. Both are powerful without any straining of effect. The play is, of course, right in the heart of romantic drama, and, with the magnificent dresses and accoutrements of the Knights-Templars well played by the young actors, amongst them Mr. Lauderdale Maitland as Ivanhoe, the correct interiors and magnificent glades of forest scenes, knights in armour, tourneys, and Robin Hood and his men in Lincoln Green, it is a magnificent production, and the papers to-day praise it with the headline of 'A Triumph.' The thing is awake, and manly, and one only hopes in these days of dull drab 'slices of suburban life,' we may yet see something of the more picturesque pictures of the past, the spacious days in which our country was more correctly described as 'Merry England' than it is to-day."

In New York, the general manager of the Metropolitan Opera House sailed for Europe in May to conclude contracts for the season towards the close of the year. Mr. Gatti-Casazza, it will be remembered, married Frances Alda, of this city, the one-time fairy queen, now a soprano in grand opera, whose husband has been at the head of such affairs in New York for several years. Before sailing, he notified the works that would be new, or new to local subscribers, and these included the "Rosenkavalier" of Richard Strauss, Charpentier's "Julien," a sequel to the French composer's "Louise," Tchaikowsky's "Eugene Onegin," previously heard only on the New York concert platform, Giordano's "Madame Sans-Gene," and Victor Herbert's one-act opera, "Madeline." Sydney folk will take an interest in Giordano's new work, as they heard his tragic opera on "Fedora," splendidly acted by Dalla Bassich, the dark Dalmatian diva, and charmingly sung by Carlo Dani, under Signor Hazon's direction. The work was full of beautiful music, but the last act was exceedingly weak, and when it reached Covent Garden three or four years after the Sydney production, it failed to catch the public taste. Giordano's "Siberia" similarly just failed to hit the mark, but the composer is understood to have a clever libretto founded on Sardou's Napoleonic drama, and, with Geraldine Farrar in the title-role, may at last attain a decided success. There will be another new Italian opera, popular in Milan under the title of "L'Amore dei tre Re" ("The Love of the Three Kings"), composed by Montemezzi; and the Russian opera, "Boris Godounow," is likely to be repeated.

Mr. William Desmond, who left Sydney with his wife (a sister of Miss Nance O'Neill) early in the year, after a successful stay of over two years as leading man in this country, on reaching San Francisco at once rejoined the Stock Dramatic Company at the Morosco Theatre, Los Angeles. The handsome Irish-American is a great favourite there, and on his appearance in the central character of "Old Heidelberg," was heartily cheered, and called upon for a speech. The actor declared that he had been very happy in Australia, but was glad to be back once more with Manager Morosco. The papers make much of the returned one, whose accent is declared to have become "quite English," and it is evident that the change is not in any way resented, but rather admired as an improvement. Personal friends of the Desmonds will be sorry to learn that Mrs. Desmond's injured knee has caused her a world of pain and trouble, and that she has been confined to her room for long weeks of suffering.

The Royal Sydney Liedertafel will on Wednesday next re-introduce "Uller the Bowman," the cantata written by W. J. Curtis, and composed by W. Arundel Orchard, so favourably received on its original performance in 1909. Since then the work has been published both in England and in Germany, and seems likely to find a place in the repertoire of male-voice choral societies, remote from the land of its birth. Uller, it will be remembered, is the legendary God of Winter in Norse mythology. The poetic libretto enshrines the episode in which he met and loved the dainty Skadi, his wedding festivities with whom terminate the cantata. Mr. Orchard is never likely to conduct his own music again with as fine an Uller as he will have on Wednesday, since Mr. David Bispham, America's representative operatic baritone, has been engaged for the character. This distinguished visitor, who opens on the following night his farewell song-recitals, prior to his return to America, will be heard in Mendelssohn's "I'm a Roamer," and also "On the Norse Seas," a Viking song, composed by Heinrich Hofmann, a Berlin composer, who died in 1902. Hofmann was responsible for five cantatas and five grand operas, as well as chamber and vocal music, and achieved an immense popularity a generation ago, which, however, has already faded. His opera, "The Trumpeter of Sackingen" has been performed all over Europe.

Oliver Bernard, the scenic artist of the Quinlan Opera Company, which has already begun its South African tour on its way here, has painted some gorgeous settings for "Samson and Delilah," "La Tosca," and "Manon Lescaut." The costumes for these three operas will also be of an exceptionally beautiful character, while the casts will represent the cream of the company in every branch. Franz Costa will impersonate the role of Samson, for which he is peculiarly fitted in physique and voice, while Delilah will be entrusted to Edna Thornton. Felice Lyne, the new and youthful lyric soprano, will sing in "La Boheme," "Rigoletto," "Tales of Hoffmann," and "Barber of Seville."

THE CHURCHES.

RELIGION IN GERMANY.

A curious controversy—not unlike that which recently took place in London and in Sydney on the question of the drift from the churches—is now exciting the attention of German theologians. A number of German religious journals are lamenting that unbelief has gained ground in Germany, that religion in the family and family worship have become practically non-existent, and that parents have for the most part become indifferent to the religious training of children. Once confirmed, they had no further use for Bibles. A secular journal in one of the Rhine provinces says: "Our family life is becoming more raw and immature. The old affections which characterised our race are rapidly disappearing. Instead, we have parents with no conception of their duty as moral guides, and children who resent all discipline, all parental control, and are taught by example to be self-indulgent, and to follow pleasure and gain as the aim and object of life. Entire districts are reported where it is all but impossible to find young men for ordination to the ministry. In consequence, home missionary effort in South Germany is almost at a standstill. Such is the shrinkage of divinity students that a South German journal predicts that, if it goes on for five years more at the present rate, there will be none left in any Protestant university in Germany."

On the other side, however, Dr. Adolf Harnack, Professor of Church History at the University of Berlin, writing to the New York "Outlook," states:—"Such general judgments as the above, concerning present religious and social conditions of any nation, are indisputably and scientifically almost worthless. They are based upon a few observations in certain great cities. But what significance has that with regard to a nation of sixty-five million souls? It is a fact that the study of theology in Germany is increasing. It is a fact that religious interest, the study of religious questions, and an earnest idealism—as opposed to materialistic and sceptical views—are also increasing. This is confirmed by Herr von Chappins, Under-Secretary in the Ministry of Education and Worship, and by the Rev. Dr. J. F. Dickie, formerly pastor of the American Church in Berlin, and who still resides there. So far from there being a lack of religious progress in Germany, Dr. Dickie declares that in no country, so far as he knows, has religion made as much progress in winning the hearts and influencing the lives of the people. With regard to church attendance, Dr. Dickie notes an increase, and with regard to the home missionary zeal 'a marvellous increase,' while 'a very notable foreign missionary spirit has secured and is constantly securing the gifts of rich and poor.' The Students' Forward Movement for the Evangelisation of the World has taken deep root. The work of both the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Association is carried on in every large German city, as is also the work of Christian hostels and hospices. As to the number of candidates for the ministry, we learn that there are at present over 4200 candidates, 2600 Protestant and 1600 Catholic.

RETURN OF THE PRIMATE.

Anglicans all over the Commonwealth are anticipating with interest the return of the Primate, Archbishop Wright, who will arrive in Sydney this morning by the Niagara. During his tour of America and England Dr. Wright was able on many occasions to put in a word for Australia. In his address at Cambridge University the Archbishop said:—"You in England must recollect your obligations to us. We ask, and we have a right to ask, that you take up your due share in our life. You and we are one. Not only are your saints and benefactors ours, but amongst the men who made us what we are, shine out many who ought to be canonised by you as an eternal inspiration to you—Broughton, of Australia, with his statesmanlike outlook, Selwyn, of New Zealand, with his endurance, his labours, and his vision, Grey, of South Africa, with his indomitable courage, Field, the hero amongst the snows of Newfoundland, and others to recount whom time would fail. But this debt to the race and the Church calls for payment from you. The Church at home cannot at present leave the Church amongst the daughter nations altogether without material support from herself. She must follow up her emigrant population with money for their spiritual needs during many years to come. Still more necessary in many dioceses is the supply of men for the ministry. We are drawing more largely each year upon the sons of the soil for recruits for our ranks, and a splendidly effective type of clergyman they supply. But we call upon the best sons of the old land to come over and help us, not the failures (we have no place for them), but the men of grit and practical power, who are willing to take, if need be, obscure posts at first for Christ's sake. A glorious prospect of happy work awaits the man who will try it, and who will not expect the impossible, and nowhere more so than in Australia. I see it away in its southern home across the leagues of ocean, a continent, unique in the world, a Christian continent of one face, of one tongue. It has every variety of climate, from the snows of Kosciusko to the sultry heats of the tropics. It has beauties of scenery which those who know it love, sunlit stretches of undergrowth beneath the tall stems of the gum-trees, plains waving with wheat crops, pastoral reaches dancing with mirage, but home of innumerable flocks, mountain gullies rich in vegetation, where the shadows fall under a summer sky. It has a people warm-hearted, strong, responsive to spiritual truth when presented by a Christianity that is manly."

Dr. Long, Bishop of Bathurst, speaking at All Saints' Cathedral on the question of the broad churchman, referred to the "debt they owed the broad churchman for his work in stripping the things that were thought to be true, and showing that they were only human opinions." The Bible, he said, was not an infallible book, as had been stated. They knew to-day how the Bible had been built. In the old testament they saw how necessary the process of selection was. It did not do to hold an individual text, they had to take the organic whole. They had to subtract the human element from it, and get to the kernel that lay behind. They could not come to him, the preacher, and say, "Here is an infallible book." They must submit reasons. Some of them might say that he (the Bishop) was not as good a Protestant as he should be. However, he knew where Protestantism lay in the freedom of the human mind, in the right, properly understood, of individual judgment, in the refusal to submit to any outside infallibility as such. He could not accept infallibility. He quite believed in central authority. By becoming the best of Protestants he became the best of Catholics. Freedom of inquiry had characterised the early Church, but subsequently came the ages of despotism, and then infallibility, and outside authority left no real appeal to the individual mind. The reforms later arrived, and, notwithstanding the anathemas that might be sent, free inquiry could not be burked.

The 45th issue of Crockford Clerical Directory has just been received in Sydney from London. The reading matter of this big volume occupies 2070 pages. It treats of fact and figures connected with the Anglican Church throughout the world, and among other details gives a list of the various provinces and dioceses. The stipends of the Australian and New Zealand archbishops are given as follows:—Sydney, £2500; Melbourne, £2000; Christchurch (N.Z.), £1400; Wellington (N.Z.), £1100; Nelson, £1000; Adelaide, £1000; Brisbane, £1000; Hobart, £800; Carpentaria, £300.

Rev. J. Ravenshaw, R.N., who has been Dockyard Chaplain at Garden Island for some years, left by the Makura on Monday for England.

In St. George's Hall, Newtown, recently, Mr. V. Roinel spoke on "the coming of the World Teacher, the Christ." He said the Supreme Teacher was generally worshipped by adherents of the great religions under various names. To Christians He was Christ Jesus; to Parsees, Zoroaster; to Buddhists, the Boddhisattva (the Wisdom-Truth); to Hindus, the Jagat Guru (World-Teacher); and to Jews, the Messiah. The teachings varied according to the receptivity of the race. Formerly nations had been isolated by natural barriers, which were being removed to-day by mechanical ingenuity. His manifold Personalities were much clouded by legendary accretions, but there could be perceived the underlying fact. To-day, when tolerance was so general, an ideal, it seemed likely that all the nations might 'hear His voice' and that there might in some actual sense, "be one fold and one Shepherd."

The Roman Catholic Bishop of Bathurst (Dr. Dunne) on Sunday last solemnly blessed and opened the new wing of the Brigidine School, Cowra, and delivered an address on the necessity for Catholic education.

The Rev. Father Sydes, S.J., of St. Mary's, North Sydney, has been absent in Queensland for the past fortnight, conducting a mission at Nudgee College. He returned to Sydney on Friday.

A handsome tablet has just been erected in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, North Sydney, to the memory of the Rev. James Kinghorn, who was minister of the congregation for eight years, and who died in August, 1912. The unveiling will be performed in the course of the service on Sunday morning.

The Presbytery of New England met at Armidale on Wednesday, the Rev. W. G. Moulton, of Walcha, presiding. Amongst the business was a call presented by the congregation of Tamworth in favour of Rev. Jamison Williams. The Presbytery decided to sustain the call. The induction will take place within a fortnight.

The seventh grand sacred musical afternoon will be celebrated in the Lyceum Hall to-morrow. The Western Suburbs Philharmonic Society, with 150 voices, will render "The Song of Peace" (Sullivan), and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah."

Rev. James Wilson has been doing good work lately on the lecture platform in aid of the Protestant Orphan Homes.

The Rev. A. W. Brough, of Erode, Southern India, and Rev. F. P. Joseland, of Amoy, South China, passed through Sydney during the week on route to Queensland, where they will be engaged for a few weeks on deputation work in connection with the London Missionary Society. They will visit Sydney again next month.

In connection with the Livingstone Centenary celebrations, the London Missionary Society in New South Wales is promoting a great missionary exhibition, to be held in the Concordia Hall, Elizabeth-street, from August 12 to 16. The six principal courts will represent India, China, Africa, Madagascar, South Seas, and New Guinea, and all the courts will be decorated with curios from these fields. One of the features of the exhibition will be the pageant of Darkness and Light. The proceeds of the exhibition will be devoted to the fund for establishing and maintaining a Livingstone Memorial Mission in Central Africa. For this £1000 is required, and the N.S.W. Auxiliary has promised at least £500.

There are now 8589 branches of the Y.M.C.A. in 54 countries of the world.

It is a significant sign of the times, as showing the increasing interest of men in the work of the Church, that the classes in connection with the Association School of Christian Training, at the Sydney Y.M.C.A., have full enrolments. The school is designed to train men for effective lay leadership in the Church.

Over 600 men and boys use the building of the Sydney Y.M.C.A. every day. It supplies the need of a safe, wholesome young men's club in the city.

With a view to consolidating and extending the work of the Chapman-Alexander Mission in Adelaide, there has been established the Australasian Chapman-Alexander Bible Institute. The headquarters, [illegible], Adelaide, is a magnificent residence presented to the institute by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. White. To further the scheme, Mr. J. M. M'Bride gave £3000. There will be advisory boards in all the States.

The Right Rev. C. H. Gill, D.D., Bishop of Travancore and Cochin, in South India, will arrive in Sydney on September 4, on his way to the Brisbane Church Congress. Bishop Gill was formerly C.M.S. missionary in the United Provinces, and will represent the Indian Church at the congress.

The theme of study is the "Life of Christ," and the circle meets on Wednesdays, at 7 p.m., under the leadership of Miss Ethel M'Credie (educational secretary).

At the Young Women's Christian Association last Saturday evening a social to welcome new arrivals to the city was given by the secretaries. During the evening Mr. East, secretary of the Bush Missionary Society, and Missionary Mailer gave short addresses, illustrated by lantern views of New South Wales. This social is held on the last Saturday evening of every month at the association, in order that strangers from other lands may meet each other and find a welcome during the first few weeks of their stay in Sydney.

The Rev. Lyman Abbott has been expelled from the vice-presidentship of the American Peace Society because he favours an increase in the Navy. He contends that the history of the world would be poorer if it contained no war records, if there had not been heroes who dared to fight for liberty and justice, and if there had not been any William of Orange, Cromwell, or Washington. Christians have not stood, and do not stand, for peace at any price; they have recognised that there are worse things than war.

A correspondent writes, pointing out that while it is customary for the Tramway Department to send an officer to each church on the route of a tramline on Sundays, who, by signalling with a coloured [illegible] by day or a light by night, sees that cars [illegible] slacken speed, and goes slowly past [illegible] while Divine services are being [illegible] other class of vehicle [illegible] the signal of the church. Individuals [illegible] totalled 350, 21 evangelistic meetings were held, the attendance being [illegible] temperance meetings, attended by 256 people. The roll at the Sunday school [illegible] 52 meetings were held, and the attendance was 6325. The receipts for the year amounted to £263, all of which was expended. Sister Atkins' report showed excellent work on her part among the girls and women. She made an appeal for funds for a seaside home for poor children, the land for which they had already at Cronulla. Rev. E. Moore, general secretary, supported the appeal and eulogised Sister Atkins' noble work. The Minister for Justice, Mr. R. D. Hall, Rev. Stevenson (missionary), and Miss Doris Moore (mission sister). The musical part of the entertainment was given under the auspices of the David Jones Entertainment Society, assisted by the City Mission band. The annual report, submitted by Mr. Stevenson, referred to his magnificent band of workers. The progress of the work done in all the branches of the mission had been satisfactory. Despite the circumstance of many financial calls, the income this year was £61 more than the previous one. The Rev. E. Moore also spoke, and alluded to the early days of the mission as forty years ago.

At a recent meeting of the Illawarra Presbytery it was unanimously resolved, in accordance with the new regulations for the election of moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, to nominate the Rev. LONDON THEATRELAND.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

(BY ARTHUR MASON.)

LONDON, May 30.

To go the round of London theatreland is a big undertaking. It is almost too big an undertaking for a person otherwise occupied. At present there are 32 theatres proper, and 11 variety theatres of the better sort, open in London theatreland. And on the Bayreuthian Thespot, as at the Coronet in Bayswater, or the King's at Hammersmith, and in other suburban places, are touring attractions of the first order. They, too, have a way of buttressing themselves upon notice—and who is to say the Kensington forbear when Marie Tempest or the Kennington, near the Oval, or when Julia Neilson is at some other place not specifically in theatreland?

London theatreland is, as you know, in the throes of a dispute as to why, precisely, the public is discovered as coy in its patronage. Quite a number of theatres are complaining. Other theatres lie low and say nothing. The obvious explanation is that the public wants to be interested, and in some of the programmes it finds no interest. Sometimes, too, the public does not discover interest that really exists. The Japanese play, "Typhoon," is a case in point. It is quite wonderful—as a study of the Japanese outlook on life, and as an exposition of the acting genius of Mr. Lawrence Irving, the younger of the gifted sons who carry on a great stage tradition. Well, "Typhoon" was put up at the Haymarket, and in a few weeks was playing to half houses. Then, letters from eminent persons began to appear in the press, urging the public that if, as they said, they wanted good plays and only good plays, here was a wonderfully good play in danger of defeat for lack of patronage. Gradually the appeal had its way, the houses grew, and now "Typhoon," transferred to the Queen's, looks like having a long run. It deserves it. Mr. Irving's performance is one of the most masterly things to be seen in London just now. The play itself throws into vivid light the self-sacrificing patriotism of the Japanese, and his use of opportunity for study of Western peoples to patriotic ends. A colony of Japanese students in Paris is censured. They are headed by one Takeramo (living), who is engaged upon a great work for other periodically, and they have a delightful way of "going to Nippon," by drawing up screens, donning kimonos, and turning off the lights, what time, sitting in semi-darkness, they tell each other patriotic stories to the wondering melody of Japanese music. There is more in it than that, of course, and its main theme is their enthusiasm of sacrifice in the cause of Nippon. It is an impressive play.

Now and again from out the bluff and "take" which surround London theatreland, as they surround every other theatreland I have ever heard of, comes a blast of honest purpose. Sir Herbert Tree is presenting a wonderful entertainment at His Majesty's, in the interests of which he has swept away the pit seats, and extended the stalls—at one guinea and 20 shillings each. It is an English version, by Mr. Somerset Maugham, author of "Lady Frederick," of Moliere's comedy "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," plus an interlude at the dinner scene wherein is produced Strauss's new opera "Ariadne in Naxos," by favour of Mr. Beecham, and star singers from the Berlin and Vienna opera houses. The "Times," in a long and brilliant notice on Monday, denounced Tree's—and Mr. Maugham's—conception of the immortal Jourdain as vulgar. Tree replied. To-day the "Times" has a leader which, while allowing that Tree is "by artistic nature an actor of fastidious delicacy and impeccable taste," shows him to have completely misunderstood the character he is representing, to have caught merely "at the husk of Jourdain, the superficial vulgarity of the man, and dropped the kernel, the true character of him, which was not vulgar at all." As for the language put into his mouth by Mr. Maugham that "is the flat jargon of every literal translation, the scraps of modern slang thrown in to liven it up, like the notes of a cornet at a beanfeast." In Australia, first-rate actors and actresses complain if criticism does not discover them as eminent artists. Here we have the leading English actor of this province which is programmed for nine night only and is costing hundreds of pounds a night—not only trounced, indeed, but flayed to his innermost detail of acting ability.

"Milestones" has passed its 500th night at the Royalty, and still is running well. I found it far better than the Sydney production in the first act, but no better in the succeeding acts, save only that the exponent here of the part of Gertrude, the spinster, gives a quite wonderful character study throughout. Mr. Leslie Victor's Sydney performance of Lord Monkhouse is not equalled here, and the other Sydney characters were a surprisingly accurate copy of the originals. The successive quarrel scenes, however go with a "snap" here that was missed in Sydney. "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" has had a fair run at the Queen's. It is now done with. Mr. Hale Hamilton played the leading role well, but Mr. Niblo's performance would easily stand comparison with it, while as to the rest of it, and the general "atmosphere" of the piece, the Sydney performance, especially before it became too noisy, was much the better. Here, the American flavour was largely lost by reason of the English cast of characters.

Mr. Kenneth Douglas, an esteemed actor, having gone into management, has revived "Strife" as his first production. It is a wonderful play, with a real "grip" in it. It needs fine actors, and it has them here, especially in the case of Mr. Norman McKennel and Mr. Fisher White. Miss Ethel Irving is also in management, at the Globe Theatre. She began with a failure in "Vaunty," but has revived "Lady Frederick" with great success. Miss Irving is always a distinguished artist. Her character-drawing is as delightful as ever.

Mr. Forbes Robertson, concerning whom rumours of an Australian tour are afoot, is in the last weeks of his long farewell at Drury Lane. Latterly he has played both Shylock and Othello. In the former he made no more than the success expected of an actor of culture and a great elocutionist. As Othello, while he lacked the physical qualities necessary to the part, his playing of it had some wonderful moments. In the quieter scenes at the beginning the whole house sat spellbound under his golden voice and the music of the great lines it uttered. In the late scenes he presented a movingly powerful picture of the anguished Moor.

There are many other things to be seen in London theatreland. Space forbids even mention of them. But one ought to say that the number and calibre of the actors and actresses here far exceed the number and calibre of the plays available. One is astounded at the acting all over London—sometimes in big parts, sometimes in small. Why does Australia never see these accomplished people, or the plays they appear in—many of them quite excellent plays, and some of them splendid plays, and only a few of them the poor failures we have heard of? For that matter, quite good plays often fail in London. The theatre, like marriage, is a lottery.

A BODYGUARD OF GIANTS.

The Prussian Guards, whom King and Kaiser review, were originated by Frederick I., whose ambition it was to form a Royal bodyguard of giants. Every country (says the "Daily Chronicle") was ransacked by his agents to supply recruits, and no head that towered above the crowd, even in the bazaars of Aleppo or Cairo, could escape the crimps of the Prussian King. The most extravagant sums were offered to men of exceptional inches, and an Irishman, more than 7ft high, who was picked up by the Prussian Ambassador in London, received a bounty of £1300.

CORDOVA.

(BY A. B. PIDDINGTON.)

I.

"Cordoba Muerta," says the Spaniard, and says it, not with the contempt with which the Italian talks of "Pisa Morta," but with the tone of regret for vanished glory which haunts the verse of some of the modern poets of Spain—a regret which has only of late years been displaced by the manlier music, calling, in harmony though not in unison, for a national resurgence, which is heard in the speeches of Spain's orators of every party, in the songs of her theatres, and the writings of her public men.

In truth, by no comparison than by that with Death itself, could the impression be conveyed which this ancient capital produces by its melancholy, its silence, and its whiteness, and the ever-present sense that here a myriad human activities have been stilled and frozen as if touched by the very wing of Azrael, the Angel of Death. The streets, as narrow in many places as a cart-track just formed in our own virgin bush, give back but rarely any echo from their grass-grown cobble stones, which look as if they did but hold their own against Nature's ever-present effort to retrieve what man has won from her. It is a city where it would always be siesta but for an occasional peasant moving slowly by his donkey's side, or a shovel-hatted priest in flowing soutan, who paces on, his mouth covered with the end of his capa as if to protect him from pestilence, the pictured embodiment of the leisured dignity proper to a shepherd unencumbered by the care of many sheep. And yet, for generations of the Arab dominion in Andalusia, the name of Cordova was like a trumpet at the lips of warlike Moors, and in the ears of coveting Christians. Its rulers aimed at greatness in business as well as in religion, anticipating thus in the days of high romance the combining genius which has been so often feted in Exeter Hall.

Here was the famous but now decayed craft of the filagree workers, as well as a great industry in Morocco leather and the kindred trade in the stamped and gilded leather known as "Cordovan," to supply material for which there must have been hecatombs of goats in the hills of the neighbouring Campina, just as there are now in India for export to our industries at Botany. It was probably this Cordovan leather that Whistler smothered in the gorgeous blue and gold of the Peacock Room against the paltry and ignorant predilections of the owner according to Menpes' amusing story. Next perhaps to Toledo, Cordova was for centuries the richest centre of Spain in the days of Spain's glory. And when the Christians came it sent forth the Gran Capitan Gonzalo Hernandez; and over its bridge rode forth the fanatic knot of regenerating cavaliers who are said to have suggested Don Quixote's adventures. And earlier still, in this same Mosque at Cordova, which was a Western Mecca to millions of Mohammedans, must have worshipped that learned Arab "Averroes" whom Dante honours with a place in the limbo of the good not Christians as having made the great commentary (Che il gran comento feo) on Aristotle, "the master of those who know." This tribute to the intellectual greatness of Averroes may well remind the Australian wandering in this land of golden memories that is was from a Moorish, or, at least, an Arabian source, that Dante, himself a master of the learning of his time, came to hear of the Southern Cross, becoming so fired by the thought of such a miracle that he feigns to have seen it at the beginning of his journey on the Hill of Purgatory. And since ours is the one country which can say that a part of its national flag was celebrated 600 years ago by Dante, I may be pardoned for quoting the passage—

All' altro polo, e vidi quattro stelle,
Non viste mai fuor ch'alla prima gente.
Goder parea il ciel di lor fiammelle.
O' settentrional vedovo sito,
Poiche privato sei di mirar quelle!
—Purg., I., 22.

Then turned I to the right and gazed awhile,
Where in the other pole four stars appear,
Their crescet seemed the very heavens to cheer.
O' widowed region of the northern sky,
That may'st not look upon that glorious sphere!
—(Badham).

But to return to the "settentrional vedovo sito." There is in Cordova one spot where life, vigour, and movement are still to be found, and that is in the morning market. Here, as in the markets of all the older European towns, you see the local and characteristic life of the people not yet planed down and sandpapered to a uniform type, such as the dress, the wares, the doings, and the manners tend to attain in the commercial parts of all capitals. In the morning the peasant, munching his mouthful of bread and raw onion, brings in his mule, loaded with produce from what was once a very rich campina outside the city, but has now fallen into poverty, with the neglect of the old irrigation (another science in which the Moors everywhere excelled), and by 7 o'clock the market-place is packed so densely with laughing, quarrelling, cheating, and bargaining men and women, that you can hardly see the merchandise for the merchants. When you do see what is for sale, a market in Southern Spain eclipses in brightness and in the suggestion of richness and diversity, the more business-like Halles of Paris or of Brussels. The exotic colouring of semi-tropical fruits and vegetables contributes to this, and so, too, does the fact that both small stock and poultry are more often sold alive than as meat, while quaint cheeses and bright unfamiliar fishes startle the eye and sausages, rivalling those of the Fatherland in variety, and equal to a Dutch picture by Snyders for gorgeous colouring, appeal to the picturesque in the stranger, and to the practical in a race defiant of the virulence of ptomaine. But, above all, in its suggestion of the Orient, is the redolent atmosphere of peppers and spices that feelingly persuades the visitor how Southern Spain still treasures what was brought to it from Arabia—the fabled land of frankincense and spices. And thus prompted, you understand why the Spaniards (as, indeed, all the southern races of Europe) are such good cooks. England is said to have a hundred religions, and only one sauce; in Spain there may be only one religion, but there are certainly quite a hundred condiments. Another point of interest in this market is that here, as elsewhere in Europe, the absurdity still prevails of the Octroi and officials of the Customs seeing sharply to it that no peasant woman sells a basket of eggs, a sucking pig, or a string of garlic before it has paid its good round ad valorem. The seller on her side, like a village Hampden in petticoats, fights valiantly against the tyranny of the taxgatherer.

Leaving the Mercado, it is but a short walk to the famous Mosque (La Mezquita), as everyone still calls it, though the Church authorities have baptised it as the Cathedral of Santa Maria de la Sede, this being the title they always gave to a captured and consecrated mosque, a being worth all the faith. On the way, line after line is passed of low, quiet houses, all fresh from the whitewasher's brush, the "brocha del blanqueador," which is never at rest in Andalusia, and which has covered up so much in decoration and even indeed in the actual construction of the older buildings. It is another point in which the Moorish practice persists in the life of the common people even against their own racial promptings (for the Spaniards are a nation of colourists), and the contrast is sharp between these universal dead white Andalusian buildings and the brilliant exuberance of house colouring seen, for example, in Naples, and visibly the offspring of the pigments used before Vesuvius blotted out Pompeii. In the old days the population must have been densely crowded in these great cities—it would take, for example, only 20 minutes to walk all round Toledo, a city once containing 200,000 inhabitants, all of whom lived within the walls, and for the best of reasons—because away from the walls there was more certainty about death than uncertainty about life. It is not, therefore, a lifesome stretch from the market to the Mosque through what is a cemetery almost as much as a city, but the view is hemmed in so that not even the Campanario of the Mosque is seen till you reach the encrenellated walls, studded with watch towers, which now seclude as they once protected the House of Allah. The entry to the Mosque is by the Door of Pardon (Puerta del Perdon), in the western wall, and on the kerb, opposite to this door, is a string of half a dozen stunted columns, said to be milestones taken from the Roman roads. All the pavement spaces between this line of posts and the door was in Christian times "sanctuary," into which any criminal could come, if swift enough, and be sure of immunity from the civil arm. The Puerta del Perdon served, therefore, just the purpose of the old sanctuary crosses still to be seen in some English towns, the touching of which gave safety to the hunted murderer or thief. Strange that when our Australian youngsters reach "home" in the game of "Tibbie, tibbie, touchwood," they keep alive the memory of the humane practice of a barbarian age which gave its name to this Puerta del Perdon.

HARROW-ON-THE-HILL.

(BY HELENE CROSS.)

It is a poor half-hearted creature indeed who does not look back upon his or her school-days and thrill with pride at some remembered episode, some deed of interest or daring which has clung to the memory throughout the ever-changing years. The feelings of many, however, go still further, and their memories cling fondly to their school lives, teachers and companions. As the swiftly-falling years pull down one soft misty curtain after another between us and the bright sunny landscape of our childhood's days, they become not exactly dim, but etherealised by a thin atmosphere of romance and tender feeling. Our school-days are so swift in passing, so hardly realised until they are over and done. Is there a man worthy the name who does not remember fondly the old associations of comrades and masters? I say "man" advisedly, for in the past it has been the men chiefly whose privilege it was to go to a school, the traditions of which have been kept up from generation to generation. In the future the women, too, will take a like pride in the school which was their mother's before them.

Who does not feel a thrill when he is again reminded of his boyhood's days by hearing the snatch of a long-remembered tune, by seeing the old colours, or by revisiting the scene of his education and sport? I dare aver that there is not a man or boy the world over whose heart does not give a thrill at hearing once again the words of the song:

O the great days in the distance enchanted,
Days of fresh air, in the rain and the sun.
How we rejoiced as we struggled and panted—
Hardly believable, forty years on!
How we discoursed of them, one with another,
Arguing triumph, or balancing fate,
Loved the ally with the heart of a brother,
Hated the foe with a playing at hate!

It was my own delight and privilege to be invited as a guest to go to the school, whence those lines emanate, and to hear them, and many more like them sung by the lusty throats of the Harrow boys at their musical society's concert. It was a Saturday afternoon, and the fine speech-room was filled with boys of all ages and sizes, boys of the present and boys of past generations. Fathers were there, and grandfathers, who were also old Harrow boys, met this one day of the year, once more revisiting the scenes of their youth, and singing with their comrades the words of their school song. The choir faced the audience under the organ, and didn't their voices ring out, and did they not all join lustily in the choruses. Every word was clear and distinct, showing careful training. Some of the singers, too, had just come in from playing at a football match, and had battled so well that they had hardly a leg left to stand on, but like young Britons they treated with disdain any suggestion of tiredness, and so stood up among the rest.

Being a mere woman, and thus everlastingly unable to have got nearer Harrow than through the medium of brothers and cousins, even I was seized with excitement and pride on seeing those young faces, and hearing the tuneful voices. "Grandpapa's Grandpapa" had been there before them! What an interest they take in the school to which they must seem to belong as a right. Father was there, and when they were tiny chaps he told them stories of his doings at the school they were to become part of some day. Father's loyalty to the traditions of his school is still even now more than theirs, for he has battled with the world, and knows the meanings of things. Father can tell them of famous men who were at school with him. But the boys themselves are only famous men in the making, so, after all, to every generation a great part of the interest of school life is only to be apparent in after years. It is the boys and men of to-day who appreciate the fact that Byron was once a Harrow boy. His contemporaries at school knew nothing of the honour that was theirs. And so with scores of famous men, whose names are revered at Harrow to-day, some of whose portraits are hanging in the library for all the boys to see.

It is scarcely possible that the memory and example of the famous soldiers, statesmen, philanthropists, and writers, who trod the school floors before them, and played in their playing-fields, should leave even the most callous of natures unmoved for always. Sooner or later a time must come in the life of every Harrovian, when the splendid example of one of his forerunners at the school must stand at his elbow, and point the way for good. It may be a long time coming, but come it must. A Briton is loyal before everything—to his King, to his country, and in after life, if not at the time, to the traditions of his school.

Many boys have hundreds of times stood up and sung the stirring words of the old school songs. On childhood's ears they often fall heedlessly. A boy understands the words:

Give yards to him! yards!
Can you take it?
Three yards!
Well given! Well taken! Well kicked!

And he sings it with energy from his lusty young throat, as the vision of the football field comes to him.

But in after-years he discovers that there is something more in that song than the words of the chorus. And through the mist of time come other words, half-heeded when he was a schoolboy, but fitting now into the meaning of life as a sword fits its sheath:

Then tell us the world is a scrimmage,
And life is a difficult run,
Where often a brother shall finish
A victory we have begun.
What matter?—we learnt it at Harrow.
And that was the way that we won.

That is a verse worthy to be learnt by every boy at every school in our Empire. To begin a victory, and let another finish! That is the secret of the standard of fight which a Briton puts up. And not only so, but the true Britton can lose as well as win, in the same noble spirit. The whole world has been just now touched to the quick by an example of this sort, in the bravery of Captain Scott and his noble companions. Had they succeeded in their quest and come back from the frozen South with flying colours they would never have touched so deep a chord of admiration and pride in the bosom of the nation as they did in their noble and brave failure. They did as is sung in another chorus of a Harrow song:

Play up, you fellows, play up!
Who cares a jot if a man be got,
Whether the game be killing or not?
Play up, you fellows, play up!

One thing particularly to be borne in mind about a school such as Harrow is that it depends on the traditions of generations, and even of centuries, more than upon the popularity of one particular man as headmaster. But just as the pupil seems to inherit by a kind of instinct the general feeling of a school, by some subtle kind of instinct or telepathy, so do the masters seem more or less to carry on the same feeling on their account also. It is the school atmosphere which clings to it more or less all through that is so subtle, so unexplainable, and yet so real. Every school has it in some measure or another, and children who go freshly to a new school feel it quickest without being able to put the feeling into words.

But the concert is nearly over, and these philosophical remarks likewise. I look at the programme, and find they have got to the song, "Forty Years On," part of which has already been quoted. And then I see a very interesting sight. All the non-singing boys who are sitting together on the right of the great hall rise, and amongst the rest of the audience of mothers, fathers, and friends I see men stand in their feet also. Every man in that hall who has been a Harrow boy stands up while the song is sung, and joins in. I want you to imagine that large audience. There were young men standing singly, older men, and very old grandfathers, and they sang together the song of their schooldays, their voices mingling with those of the fresh, young boys. There were many people in that large audience who could not listen unmoved.

Forty years on, when afar and asunder,
Parted are those who are singing to-day,
When you look back and forgetfully wonder
What you were like in your work and your play;
Then, it may be, there will often come o'er you
Visions of boyhood shall float them before you,
Echoes of dreamland shall bear them along.
Forty years on, growing older and older,
Shorter in wind as in memory long,
Feeble of foot and rheumatic of shoulder,
What will it help you that once you were strong?
God give us bases to guard or belaguer,
Games to play out, whether earnest or fun;
Twenty, and thirty, and forty years on!

Then all Harrovians joined hands for "Auld Lang Syne." Near me was an old, old gentleman, who was a long way off from anyone belonging to his school. But he leaned across two seats and clasped the hand of a young man who was evidently a recent pupil, and the quavering old voice joined the young one. Pride in one's school is a lovely feeling to carry through life. Just let me quote one verse more for a finish from the Harrow song, "The Voice of the Bell"—the school bell:

Long, long life to the bell and its ringing,
Hark how the bell is ringing—
Ding-a-ding-ding-ding.
Hark how the bell is ringing—
Ding-a-ding-ding.
Long while it chimes to a newer life and sweeter,
Stronger than we, and better, and completer—
Ding-ding-a-ding.

THE HOME TRACK.

(BY BOYD CABLE.)

Although life on The Track is packed full of little pleasures for a man who is fond of such an outdoor life as it gives, strangely enough the supremes of happiness are touched at two directly opposite points. Although to me there is nothing to beat the joy that comes as we leave the last outposts of civilisation and realise our freedom and independence, it is almost, if not quite, equalled by the feelings that come as we near the end of "The Long Trail" and find ourselves again within touch of all those things that we were so glad to leave behind for a time.

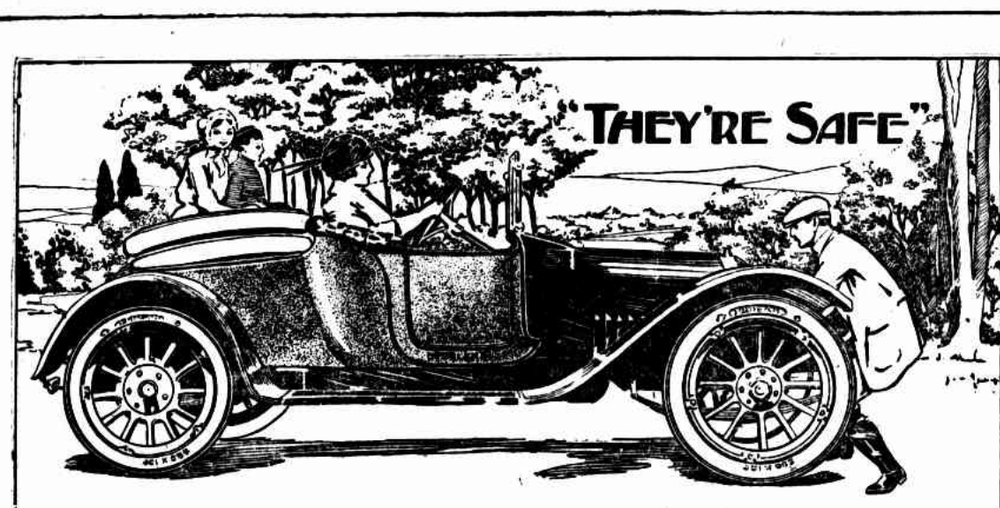

Usually the realisation of The Home Track comes suddenly. You may have been thinking of it more or less for days or weeks, you may have talked of it idly, and had it somewhere in our mind without really feeling its grip. Then some trivial remark or incident wakes the real spirit of the Home Track. It floods over you with one sweep that leaves you tingling and thrilling. You will sense it with something of a shock—a shock of pleasure that, oddly enough, has in it a touch of pain—but from that moment on, till you swing out of the saddle and beat the dust out of your clothes, or tie up at the landing-stage and sling your kit ashore, or walk into the railway township hotel and hitch the swag off your shoulder—till that moment the feeling will not leave you day or night.

Each of the little commonplace everyday things you do will bring the same thought to your mind. As you measure out a handful of the tea which has still to last so many more days, you will say to yourself, "In a week I can have all the tea I want." As you put the hobbles on your horse you will think, "In so many more days it won't matter to me whether he strays in the night or not." As you take off your jacket and boots and loosen your belt before rolling into your bluey at night, you will remember that in another night or two you will undress completely and get into a bed which has been already made for you. You will chuckle to yourself as you stoop over the stream to wash—and the chuckle will be deeper and more contented if you're in dry country and are trying to wash your face in a scanty tinful of water, and say, "Presently I'll only have to turn on a tap and have all the water I can possibly want." As the days and hours wheel past, the feeling will grow stronger, till at last it reaches fever point on the last morning, when you break the last camp for the last time. When you wake on that last morning at the first long chuckle, and laugh of the kookooburra before the first glint of light has wakened the other birds, the thought will flash into your mind, "This is the last morning." If you have never experienced it, it is hardly possible to make you realise how delicious the thought is. You will scarcely appreciate how we enjoy every trivial act of what has been our daily life of the track for weeks past, and how we invest each task with almost the solemnity of a ritual. We rake together the ashes of last night's fire, and rekindle it—for the last time. We brew the tea, and prepare our breakfast—for the last time. We go out and find the horses, and saddle them, or stow the camp gear in the boat, and roll the blankets—all for the last time. The provisions are packed, with remarks, perhaps, on how light they are, and how well or how badly the quantities we took were figured out. The bag containing a handful of haricot beans or flour is looked at, and there may be a little hesitation as to whether the contents should be thrown away. "We won't need this any more," we say; but all the same the probability is that the bag will be tied up and packed away, for the lessons of carefulness and don't waste have been ground too deep. So the bag goes in its accustomed corner in the waller or swag, and in it will find its way aboard the coach or steamer or train that bears us home, and there will be thrown aside in some box or drawer, to lie till some day when we are overhauling the kit again in preparation for the road; or it may be turned out accidentally, and opened with a wondering query as to what on earth this is. And the contents will be tipped out, and—"Look. Do you remember? We packed it away the last morning, as we came in off the Condamine trip"; or the Burragorang camp, or the Murrumbidgee holiday, or the Dogwood track, as the case may be. And instantly our minds will fill with happy memories of the camp or track, of flickering fires or gleaming, sunlit waters, of wide vistas of prickly pear or parched plains, long, cool avenues in the shade of the scented gums, or golden fields of sweet wattle bloom. And the talk will start and shuttle to and fro, and weave again the pattern of The Track—of horses and saddles and packs, swags and guns and knives, forty-five calibres and No. 4 shot, and "twenty-two long" cartridges. And the web of talk will be starred with sweet-sounding and memory-stirring names—the Silver Mines, Wild Duck Lake, Cow-bell Camp, The Lagoon Track, Black Snake-road, Big Timber Creek, Tea-tree Hill, Kangaroo Crossing—each with its own clear picture. Pleasant memories all of them, so it is as well that we refrain from throwing away the little bag of flour or beans that is such a wizard to conjure up visions.

And when the packs are stowed and adjusted, and the buckles are drawn tight and fastened—each and all for the last time, remember—we may sit down for a moment to smoke off a pipeful of tobacco and load and light our pipes. The pipes are lit with a glowing stick from the fire, and someone is always carrying a bit of the last campfire along in our teeth; the fire is stamped out and sand heaped over it, and the usual last look round given to see that nothing has been left behind. And then we turn away from the last camp, and, as we jog off on our way, we are fairly into the home stretch, and our thoughts run ahead, and our talk is of the pleasures before us. Of the mail that will be waiting, with a stirring of long-dormant curiosity as to what the outside world and all our friends have been doing all this time; of plans for the next few days; of dressing in clean linen; of hot baths; of hotels and theatres; of bar-rooms and restaurants and dinners and suppers; of girls in evening dress, or clean, cool, white dresses; of sitting in armchairs, and of long, cold drinks; of trains and time-tables and taxi-cabs; of the life and bustle of city streets, and the jostling crowds on the pavements; of everything which we were so eager to escape from when we were setting out a little time, which somehow seems so long, ago.

The first close touch with the old life of civilisation is perhaps when we stop and ask someone what the time is. Watches are a useless encumbrance on the track, rather a useless encumbrance on the track, and if anyone was not able to break away from habit and leave it behind at the start, it is almost certain that before many days on the track it was forgotten and left unwound. Or it will be found to require too much care and watching to see that it is not banged about, or wet or damaged, when it is carried in a pocket, and presently it will be wrapped in a spare sock and buried away in a corner of the pack, along with our money, that is so useless on the track. Time by the clock has not been much use to us lately. We have been rolling out of our blankets at daybreak, or when the kookooburra called, and we have taken the track when we have had our breakfast and made ready for it. We have halted for our "nooning" when the sun was about overhead or as the demands of hunger or thirst dictated. In the bush time is our servant, instead of the other way round as it is in the towns. We sleep when we are tired, wake when we have slept enough, eat and drink when we are hungry or thirsty. The sun and the stars are clocks made for us. We start to look for a suitable camping ground as the sun is getting low, and reckon to have camp pitched and the fire going soon after sunset. After cooking and eating we smoke and talk, and stay awake just so long as we feel inclined. If we awake during the night to replenish the fire, the amount of wood burnt gives a rough idea of the time, even if we don't have the Southern Cross to tell it by. And anyhow, if we had nothing, what matter? It is not time to get up, for the smell of dawn is not in the air yet, and the birds are not awake. So we turn in and sleep again.

But now, suddenly, it becomes a thing of pressing importance to know whether it is noon, or a quarter-past, or half-past. The hotel people will be getting dinner about 1 o'clock, and we want to be there in time. Or it may be a question of what time a train starts, and we have to piece out the train's running, and connections and junctions and times of arrival at termini. We are coming back under the yoke and in to the collar, and, strange though it may seem, there is a delight in resuming our chains and the bond-slavery of conventional life. It is natural, perhaps. After all it is home that calls, and to the wanderer and vagabond it is always the home voice that calls strong, even although when he be there the voice is still, or loses it power to hold him. And so it is that we breathe a sigh of satisfaction and spur our horses to a canter, or square our shoulders and hitch the swag back and lengthen our stride, or sit up and pull a longer and stronger stroke on the oars, as the last mile of "the long trail" dwindles and runs out in the last stretch of the home track.

PERSAN TYRES

Consider the matter of Tyre-Safety. as well as Tyre-Service . . . Each is fully provided by Persan Tyres.

Too little care is exercised in the selection of tyres—too little consideration given to the matter of SAFETY. The PERSAN TYRE is a good tyre throughout, and is made so well that it will carry excess weight more easily and more safely. The risk of punctures and blow-outs is decreased to a minimum. The tread is particularly effective in resisting rough usage, such as is inevitable on Australian roads. These tyres are made by the manufacturers of the famous Palmer Cord Tyres. Many motorists familiar with Palmer Cords would place their faith in PERSAN TYRES for that reason alone. The PERSAN is the cheapest good tyre that you can buy—not only by reason of its extra service, but because of its low cost.

SOCIAL.

[All contributions and accounts of weddings or other social entertainments intended for the "Social" column in Saturday's issue should reach this office not later than Friday morning, and be fully endorsed.]

The beautiful, bright winter days experienced during the latter part of the week have been keenly enjoyed after the incessant and heavy downpour of rain on Monday last. The town is full of visitors from the country and other States, having come to Sydney for the sheep sales. The week has been full of social engagements, with concerts, matinees, dinners, weddings, and dances, and with the polo to follow next week and several large balls, the winter season is not quite so dull as was at first anticipated it would be. His Excellency the Governor and Lady Edeline have upon several occasions entertained visitors at luncheon and dinner, and his Excellency is now formally visiting all our industrial factories.

Amongst the passengers expected to arrive early this morning by R.M.S. Niagara, from Vancouver, are the Archbishop and Mrs. Wright, who are returning from a short visit to England. Also Mrs. Arthur Allen, accompanied by her son, Mr. Denis Allen, the latter coming out to see his father before going to Oxford. Miss Joyce Allen and her youngest sister, who went as far as Honolulu to meet her mother and brother, are also passengers by the Niagara.

The matinee at Her Majesty's Theatre yesterday afternoon is one long to be remembered by everyone present, and the organiser of the entertainment, Mr. Hugh Ward, is to be heartily congratulated upon the great success of his undertakings in the cause of charity. A little note heading the programme of the entertainment stated that "the object of the colossal programme was two-fold—to raise money directly, and to concentrate public attention upon the needs of the Women's Hospital, so that all may be encouraged to give generously to the fund established by the Lady Mayoress." The result achieved is greatly due to Mr. Hugh Ward, who deserves the warmest thanks, not only for the enjoyment he afforded to the densely-packed and crowded audience by the excellence of the programme submitted, but from the hospital and the many poor women who so frequently have to go there for succour and assistance. The difficulty of Mr. Ward was not in finding artists willing to assist him, but in having to select from the large number who offered their services. Mr. George Titheradge, who recited, and Mr. Hugh Ward, who made his reappearance for this occasion only, received a hearty welcome from their old friends and admirers. During the intervals flowers, sweets, and programmes were sold for the benefit of the fund, amongst the sellers being Mrs. G. L. Goodman, Mrs. George Matheson, Mrs. R. W. Beeston, Mrs. M. Luke, Mrs. Stavely, Mrs. Anderson, and Mrs. Holloway, also the Misses Goodman (2), Brunton, L. Parkes, Lalor, M'Laren, Dunne, Skinner, Stoneham, Raleigh, Petersen, Piper, Smeaton, Gray, Messrs. Dudley, Morrice, R. Greig, and 12 nurses from the hospital. Madame Clara Butt wore pale yellow paillette silk over an underskirt of chiffon marquisette, and the bodice, having a band of blue forming a deep square, was finished with a touch of black and a pink rose, her large black velvet hat being trimmed with light fawn coloured feathers. Miss Titheradge was in pale pink satin charmeuse, veiled with amethyst ninon, edged with dark fur, and wore a large hat to match.

The matinee at the Little Theatre on Wednesday afternoon, organised by Mr. Buckler and Miss Violet Paget, was a great success, the house being crowded in every part. Mrs. Buckler had some beautiful bouquets handed to her, one being from the committee of the Lady Mayoress's fund. Madame Clara Butt, who generously contributed several songs during the afternoon, wore pale grey charmeuse draped with grey ninon, and a large green silk hat, with a posy of flowers in front, and her ornaments were amethysts and pearls. Many beautiful floral tributes were presented to her, one being a huge star of violets, with "C.G." formed of yellow jonquils, in the centre, and tied with pale heliotrope ribbons, hand-painted, and inscribed with the date; and the committee of the "Special Appeal" fund presented a lovely posy. Judge Backhouse, president of the hospital, thanked the artists and management generally for their magnificent help. Miss Eadith Walker declared the matinee open, and was presented with a bouquet of beautiful violets. During the afternoon sweets, flowers, and programmes were sold by a bevy of young ladies, wearing white dresses and white mob caps and aprons, with touches of heliotrope, which realised the sum of £63. Mr. Little sold by auction several articles which brought in £40. Amongst those helping to sell were:—Mrs. Reynolds Denniston, Miss Tempe Pigott, Miss Shirley Huxley, Miss Legette Parks, the Misses Falk, Mrs. C. and Miss Shepherd, Miss Rose Merivale, Miss Forrest, Miss D. Galbraith, Miss M. Earp, Miss D'Arcy Irving, Miss Lyndall Solomon, Miss Annis Hollender, Miss Val Osborne, Miss M. Bettunce, Miss Colleen Ruth-Cohen, Miss Mayne, Miss Jean Morton, and the Matron and nurses from the hospital. Mrs. Lewis Packer was in charge of the tea, and was assisted by Mrs. Sparkes and some of the men from the fire station next door. Lady Cullen was present, accompanied by Miss Strickland, also the Lady Mayoress, Mr. W. J. Layton, Mr. and Mrs. Holman, Lady Hay, Mrs. C. G. Wade, Mrs. Barff, Mrs. Stuart Osborne, Mrs. Worrall, Mrs. H. Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Earp, Mrs. G. J. Cohen, Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Mrs. R. Davies, Mrs. D. Maughan, Mrs. Bullimore, Mrs. Burnett Cohen, Mrs. L. W. Levy, Miss Allison, Miss Edith Hill, Mrs. A. Lee, and very many other well-known people.

Madame Clara Butt has the great power of drawing immensely large and enthusiastic audiences to the Town Hall upon each occasion she gives one of her most enjoyable and delightful concerts. Her season in Sydney has been the greatest success, and thousands and thousands have been fascinated by her wonderful voice, and at the matinee on Thursday several hundreds were unable to obtain seats, the orchestral dais and every part of the house being crowded. Not only has Madame Clara Butt taught us how songs should be sung, but she has given us many valuable ideas of how to dress. We cannot all—and, indeed, but few of us can—afford to have such beautiful clothes made as our distinguished visitor, but we would fain ask our many young women to notice that Madame Clara Butt never wears those tight and almost indecent dresses that we regret to see so frequently in the streets of Sydney and in our ballrooms. All Madame Butt's dresses fall in graceful folds, both those she has worn at afternoon and evening concerts, and, as our visitor has come from England, we know she brings with her only the best and latest fashions. At each concert a different toilette has been worn. Last Saturday evening it was a most handsome velvet of a rich persimmon colour, which suited the singer to perfection, a large black rose catching the drapery in front of the skirt in a most effective way; the bodice was relieved with fine cream lace and diamante trimming and diamond ornaments. On Tuesday evening Madame Butt appeared in a lovely hyacinth blue paillette silk draped with ninon, with blue iridescent passementerie, outlined with diamante edging on the bodice drapery and the long scarf end which hung at the left side, her ornaments being diamonds and sapphires, and her blue butterfly scintillated on the corsage. Quite a different style was chosen for the matinee concert on Thursday afternoon, when the great singer appeared in a lovely dress, which resembled some beautiful old picture. The colour was mignonette-green, and the material paillette silk, which opened over a sous jupe of soft cream silk, the green draperies caught back in pannier effect at the side, with large deep pink satin roses; the front of the bodice showed a swathing of the same lovely shade of pink beneath the green silk, and fine cream lace fichu fastened with a single rose, and diamond ornaments. The colouring and the combination of shades were perfect. No hat was worn, following the American fashion for matinee dress. Floral tributes have been showered upon the great singer at her concerts, and a sheaf of lilies, with a few purple iris tied with crimson ribbons, presented on Tuesday, formed a charming contrast to the beautiful blue dress worn. We noticed with pleasure two innovations at these concerts, one being the decoration of the front of the orchestral dais, which upon two or three occasions was decorated with a profusion of lilac, intermixed with greenery, and pink roses, and white roses were used at other concerts. These decorations formed a picturesque setting for the artists on the platform. The other innovation was the red baize carpet put down on the passages in the reserved part of the hall, which not only deadened the sound of those going and coming, but gave a great air of comfort to the hall.

Mrs. John Waugh was "at home" at the Queen Victoria Club yesterday afternoon, when about 200 guests were invited to meet the Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Cook, and Mrs. Cook. Mrs. Waugh, who was dressed in grey, with touches of aluminium trimming, and a black velvet hat, relieved with tangerine-coloured velvet and black feathers, was assisted by her daughter, Miss Waugh, in a black and white striped coat and skirt and black and white hat. Mrs. Cook wore a mole-coloured cloth coat and skirt, with an amethyst velvet hat, with self-coloured feathers and a black boa. The rooms were prettily decorated with flowers and pot plants, and several songs contributed by Madame Perry added to the enjoyment of the guests. Tea and light refreshments were served during the afternoon, which passed quickly and pleasantly. Amongst those who accepted invitations were Sir Henniker and Lady Heaton and Miss Heaton, Sir Albert and Lady Gould, the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress, Sir William and Lady M'Millan, Mr. Geo. Fuller and Mrs. Fuller, Lady and Miss Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wade, the Consul for Germany and Mrs. Kiliani, Lady Hay, Colonel and Mrs. Macarthur Onslow, Colonel and Mrs. Ryrie, Colonel and Mrs. J. H. The Civil Ambulance ball will be held in the Paddington Town Hall on Thursday evening next, July 10, and promises to be largely-attended. The committee hope to make it "the" ball of the season, coming as it does in polo week, and as many members of the Polo Association will be in town, and many country matrons are on the committee, besides a large number of well-known Sydney women, they are confident of the ball being a social and financial success.

In aid of funds for the Woolloomooloo Day Nursery, a matinee children's plain and fancy dress ball is to be held in the Paddington Town Hall next Friday afternoon, July 11. The day nurseries in Sydney are well worthy of support, for they are a boon to the poor working women in the needy sections of the city, for they know they can leave their babies to be properly cared for and fed during the hours when they are obliged to work. The juvenile ball on Friday next promises to be a great success, and as many of the children are going in fancy dress, or to represent poster advertisements, it should be a pretty sight. Mrs. Sawkins and Mrs. C. Heydon are the hon. secretaries of the ball committee, and Mrs. Antill and Miss Icely the hon. treasurers.

It is somewhat of a coincidence that by the last mail a correspondent from England should write saying that Mr. F. S. Kelly was playing at a charity concert in London in aid of the federation of working girls' clubs, and that his brother, Mr. T. H. Kelly, should this week have played at the Little Theatre matinee, also for charity—to benefit the Women's Hospital. It is gratifying to think that these musically gifted men should allow the public the pleasure of hearing them upon such occasions. The Princess Victoria of Schleswig Holstein was amongst the large and fashionable audience at the English concert.

Last night the steamship companies' officials held their annual ball at the Paddington Town Hall, which was gaily decorated for the occasion. There was a large attendance of visitors. Mr. J. T. Sheehan, Newcastle and Hunter River S.S. Company was hon. secretary of the ball committee.

At All Saints' Church, Woollahra, on Wednesday, July 2, the marriage of Lieutenant Charles Herbert Swaine Lapage, R.N., H.M.S. Psyche, eldest son of Mr and Mrs. M. Herbert S. Lapage, Upper Walmer, Kent, England, with Dora Brunhilde Bauer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bauer, Glenhead, Nelson-street, Woollahra, was solemnised by the Rev. Wallace Mort, in the presence of a large number of guests and spectators. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a handsome white satin, trimmed with beautiful old lace (which had been previously worn by her mother), and a long tulle veil, over a small coronet of orange blossoms. Her diamond and pearl pendant was the gift of the bridegroom, also her beautiful bouquet of white hyacinths and other choice flowers. She was attended by four bridesmaids—Miss Catherine Carleton, Miss Mary Merivale, and her two little god-children, Beryl Osborne and Nancy Lord. The former wore palest shell pink ninon over cashmere-de-soie, and black picture hats with two pink roses at the back; the children were in white spotted muslin, and caps to match. They all carried posies of violets, tied with pale mauve ribbons, and the elder bridesmaids wore platinum and diamond safety-pin brooches, and the smaller ones pearl safety pins, the gifts of the bridegroom. Lieutenant Elmsley, R.N., was best man, and Lieutenant Stowe, R.N., groomsman. As the bride and bridegroom left the church an arch of swords was formed by the bluejackets from H.M.S. Psyche, beneath which Mr. and Mrs. Lapage passed on their way to their carriage. After the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to Glenhead, where Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bauer held a reception, and the bride and bridegroom received the hearty congratulations of their friends. The wedding breakfast was served in a large marquee on the lawn, and the bride cut the wedding cake with her husband's sword. The numerous presents were displayed in the dining-room, amongst them being a handsome silver cigar-box from the captain and officers of H.M.S. Psyche. The guests included his Excellency the Admiral, attended by Flag-Lieutenant Seton, R.N., Admiral and Mrs. Barlow (England), Captain and Mrs. Carr, Lieutenant Commander Elwell, and the ward-room officers of H.M.S. "Psyche" and "Cambrian," Mrs. P. Williams, Lady Barlow (England), Mr. Alfred Milson, Mrs. and Miss Carleton, Mrs. Gerald Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. L. Milson (Goulburn), Mrs. F. Orr, Herr and Frau Kiliani, Mrs. Rabett, Mrs. R. J. Black, Mrs. Best, Mr. Bedford, Mrs. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hixson, Mr. and Mrs. Digby Smith, Rev. The bluejackets from H.M.S. Psyche and H.M.S. Cambrian were also entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Bauer at Glenhead, and formed another arch of swords as the bride and bridegroom drove away amidst the hearty cheers.

The annual ball in aid of funds for the Berrima District Hospital took place in the Bowral School of Arts on Wednesday night, June 18, and attracted an attendance of about 300 representatives from all parts of the district. The hall was brightly decorated with coloured crinkled paper, arranged in trellis-work design on the walls, and a number of flags enhanced the beauty of the general effect. Messrs. W. O. Triggs, J. White, and G. Marks acted as Ms.C. There were only two fancy sets. In the "Royal Standard" (organised by Mrs. Alsop), eight couples took part, the ladies, wearing yellow muslin dresses draped with the Royal Standard, and carried staffs displaying the same flag. The "Oriental" set was organised by Mrs. Bray, and the ladies, had the lower portion of the face covered, in accordance with Oriental custom. An excellent supper was served in the annexe, which was prettily decorated, and the tables arranged with jonquils and daffodils. The Misses Moore and Pickard, who carried out the secretarial duties, were congratulated on the success of the ball.

To mark the occasion of the coming out of their daughter, Doris, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. M'Donald gave an enjoyable dance at Sargent's rooms on June 27. The hostess wore a handsome black charmeuse, with an overdress of filet lace, with Oriental trimmings. The "debutante" was in white shadow lace over accordeon-pleated chiffon, finished with crystal beads, and carried three posies of lilies of the valley, which were presented to her by her father, Colonel Watson, and Mr. Bain Fell.

The annual ball of the Balmain branch of the Loyal Orange Lodge was held in the Balmain Town Hall on Wednesday week. The hall was taxed to its utmost capacity, over 300 dancers in plain and fancy dress taking part. The decorations were most effective; a bright display of bunting, in which the lodge's colour predominated, with many gaily-coloured fancy dresses, all combined to make a pretty scene.

The annual ball of Lodge Vaucluse, 266, U.G.L.N.S.W., took place on Thursday week, in the Watson's Bay Town Hall. Wor. Bro. J. J. Drew was president of the ball committee, and Bro. C. A. Newton secretary; and the committee included Bro. E. S. Sautelle, S.W., Bro. W. G. Ward, J.W., and the officers of the lodge. Wor. Bro. J. E. Harper, Bros. W. G. Ward, C. A. Newton, and S. The committee of ladies (of which Mrs. R. T. Forsyth is the president) who are raising funds for the up-keep of the Willoughby cot in the Royal North Shore Hospital gave a successful violet dance in the Chatswood Town Hall on Friday last. The large attendance and the financial results are most gratifying to the committee and their many friends who assisted in making the dance such a success.

The Balmain branch of the Girls' Realm Guild held its second annual dance in the Balmain Town Hall on Thursday week. The dance proved most successful and enjoyable. There were over 200 dancers present, and the hall was prettily decorated with the guild colours, purple, mauve, and white, and other festoons, the stage being tastefully arranged as a drawing-room, and the supper room decorations similar to those in the hall. The committee responsible for the arrangements included Mesdames Ivens, Elder, and Whymark, with the treasurer, Miss Agnew, and the joint hon. secretaries, the Misses Gladys Smith and Clarice Elder.

A quiet wedding was solemnised at Greta, Darling Point, the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Sandes, on Thursday, June 12, when Mr. Vernet Roach, of the Bank of New South Wales, Launceston, and only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roach, of Lioloma, North Adelaide, was married to Miss Alice Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Black of Tynron, Molong. Rev. John Ferguson officiated. The bride (in the unavoidable absence of her father) was given away by Dr. Sandes, and wore a simple muslin frock over white satin, with a mob cap of tulle and orange blossoms. She carried a scarlet shower bouquet, which, with a diamond cluster ring, was the gift of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss R. Harpur (cousin of the bride) and Miss Nell Macgregor. They wore grey crepe de Chine, and their bouquets and pendants were the bridegroom's gifts. Mr. Heffer was best man, and Mr. Brindsley Sheridan acted as groomsman. The Sketch Club, which is composed of members of the Women Painters' Society, held a review of their work of the last six months at the gallery of Mr. W. L. Schmidt on Wednesday and Thursday last. No invitations were issued to what proved a very satisfactory exhibition of sketches, as it was intended to serve more as a means of a critical survey of the work amongst the workers themselves than a public function. Many of the sketches and studies exhibited will be met with again on the walls of the Women Painters' Exhibition a month hence, but suitably mounted and framed instead of, as in some cases we noticed, being shown on loose sheets or scraps of canvas. Mrs. Hedley Parson had a charming collection of watercolours—ships, gardens, and portraits were among her subjects; also some portraits in oil. Miss Ethel Stephens had a series of studies in temperae of life and movement, including market and studio scenes, and a number of charcoal drawings, both portraits and nude studies. Miss Nellie MacMullen showed a number of interesting water colours, including a couple of women on a housetop, a railway station at night, and a lighted theatre from the street door. Miss Barling had a set of clever studies in the Zoo of the king of beasts at a most unroyal meal, a "panda," and a couple of heads of leopards. Miss Booth showed a few delicate watercolours, amongst them a careful study of the Argyle Cut, Miss Swyny a couple of heads, Miss Sandford a child's figure in oils, Mrs. Phillips a clever one-sitting portrait, Mrs. Hugh Wright (the hon. secretary of the club) showed a number of vigorous studies of heads and figures in oils, Miss Pring a series of watercolour landscapes, which were dignified with frames, and three small watercolours of roses by Mrs. Aurousseau, also framed, nearly completed the colection. The gallery was artistically arranged, a dull gold serving as a suitable background for the sketches, and in the doorway some harmonious hangings of Oriental needlework made a pleasant note of colour.

The Sydney Rowing Club held its ninth annual ball in Sargent's Rooms, Market-street, on Thursday evening, and proved a great success. There was a large attendance, many prominent men in rowing circles being present. Messrs. F. T. D. Meares and F. Wellisch were the honorary secretaries, and were chiefly responsible for the success of the dance.

The annual ball in connection with St. John's College was held on Tuesday evening at the college, when the ballroom was gaily decorated with flags and flowers, the college crest in ribbon (the work of one of the students), looking most effective. Amongst the ladies present were the Misses O'Brien, J. O'Brien, Alma M'Cabe, Rogers, I. M'Dermott, Carroll, Coen, Bryant, Barlow, Lynch, M'Dermott, Nellie Murray (debutante), Ivy Macdonald, Taylor, D. Marshall, Cooper, Hollingdale, Wilgoss, A. A committee, of which Mrs. W. De Putron was president, and Mrs. C. J. Stockley and Mrs. J. M'Cormack were secretaries, worked hard to make the ball a success, and their efforts were rewarded by the large attendance.

The annual dance in aid of St. Margaret's Hospital for Women (Bourke-street) took place in the Paddington Town Hall on Tuesday evening, and proved enjoyable and a financial success. The bride was given away by her father, and wore ivory paillette silk, trimmed with guipure insertion and seed pearls. Her embroidered tulle veil was prettily arranged over a coronet of orange blossoms, and she also wore a gold watch and chain, and carried a handsome shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums and hyacinths, the gifts of the bridegroom. OH! THAT BACK!

Backache will get worse and worse until the Kidneys are Well.

Ache! Ache! Ache! Takes all the life, all the energy out of you. Makes you miserable. There is danger in it, too. Neglect the warning of a bad back, you neglect an appeal from the kidneys. When the back is bad, when it's lame or weak, when it aches, when it's tired, the kidneys are sick, demand attention.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills relieve quickly the aches, and pains, and weakness of a bad back. They are for all kidney ills, urinary troubles, too frequent urinary discharges, retention of the urine, and all dangerous disorders of the kidneys and bladder.

If you fail to help the kidneys in time, Diabetes, Dropsy, Bright's Disease are sure to follow. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are endorsed by friends and neighbours, by people you know. Sydney People's word such as we publish below proves conclusively that this remedy is thoroughly reliable. What Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have done for others they will do for you.

HOME TESTIMONY.

ELIZABETH-ST.

Mr. John Moroney, Ham and Beef Shop, 228 Elizabeth-street, Sydney, says:—"About 18 months ago I began to suffer with backache and got a feeling in the small of my back as if I had a growth there, or as if some foreign substance had lodged there; it did not show outwardly, but troubled me more than you would suppose. I could not lie in bed with comfort. I saw in the paper that Doan's Backache Kidney Pills had cured a man I know, and one day I asked him for the full particulars of his case. He told me he had been very bad, and this remedy cured him, and strongly advised me to try it. I did use them, and have not much to say, beyond that they cured me also; the backache and the unpleasant sensation have quite gone. I strongly recommend the use of Doan's Kidney Backache Pills to all who suffer with backache. I hear good reports about them on all sides, and if anybody calls to see me I will be pleased to give fuller particulars of my case."

Eleven years later Mr. Moroney says:—"Thanks to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills I am still well and free from backache. This remedy cured me eleven years ago, and I have not had the slightest return of the ailment since."

MARRICKVILLE.

Mrs. E. Furness, No. 1 McLaughlin Terrace, Church-street, Camperdown, Sydney, says:—"For years I was a martyr to severe backache and other distressing symptoms of Kidney trouble. The pain in my back was awful, especially if I had to do any stooping or move about quickly. It seemed to centre just above the Kidneys and never left me day or night. My secretions were much affected, being thick and cloudy, and I always felt tired and had no energy for anything. I tried all sorts of medicines, but it was not until I had been using Doan's Backache Kidney Pills for a day or so that I got any relief from my suffering. These pills were recommended to me and proved to be the very thing I wanted. Before I had finished one bottle I felt very much better, and by the time I had used four bottles of the pills the pain in my back had gone, and I was quite well again. Over six months have elapsed since my cure was effected, and I have been free of every symptom of Kidney trouble ever since. I now feel a different woman, thanks to Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, a remedy I can confidently recommend to all who suffer as I once did."

DRUMMOYNE.

Mr. George Woodroffe, 10 Roseby-street, Drummoyne, Sydney, writes:—"I derived very great benefit from the use of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. I have been a great sufferer with the kidneys for the past 17 years. My sufferings started with a cold, and eventually inflammation of the kidneys and bladder set in. I have been treated by some of the cleverest and best known Sydney doctors, and was for 17½ weeks in the Sydney Hospital. I was also two months in the Coast Hospital, where I had one kidney removed. Though the various treatments eased me for a time, I was not cured, and would soon relapse into my former ill-health. I also tried patent medicines advertised to cure kidney complaint, but they did not even give me temporary relief. My brother was always worrying me to try Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, if I only took one bottle. To please him I got them, and before I had finished the bottle I felt extraordinarily well. I had not felt so well for years; the pills were working wonders for me. I continued taking them, and am now perfectly cured of every symptom of kidney trouble."

Mr. Woodroffe confirms the above eight years later:—"My cure has lasted, for I am still free of every symptom of kidney and bladder trouble. All sufferers should know about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all Chemists and Storekeepers at 2/9 per bottle (six bottles 15/3), or will be posted on receipt of price by Foster-McClellan Co., 76 Pitt-street, Sydney.

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY SIR HENRY LUCY.)

Position of the Home Rule and Welsh Church Bills—A Popular Irishman—After-dinner Speaking—The Letter "H"—Frank Lockwood's Little Joke.

WESTMINSTER, May 30.

The reassembling of Parliament this week, after Whitsun recess, is hailed in some quarters as the opening of a critical stage in the working of the Parliament Act as it affects the questions of Home Rule and the Disestablishment of the Welsh Church. This is a misapprehension of actual circumstances. What will follow before the prorogation will be the triumphant carrying through the House of Commons of two measures dealing with these subjects, and the prompt rejection of them by the House of Lords. The Prime Minister, in his extreme desire to provide a place of repentance for the Lords, has arranged to provide opportunity for what he calls "suggestions" that may be made in the Commons and passed on for consideration by the other House. Everybody knows, no one better than the Prime Minister, that this will have no immediate effect. By throwing out the bill a second time the Lords have the distinct advantage of delaying by nearly a year the enactment of the obnoxious bill, and are not likely to chuck away the opportunity. The tug-of-war really comes next year, when the bill is placed before the Lords for the third and last time of asking. It is then, if ever, and only then, compromise may prove effective. Wildly optimistic as the idea may seem, I hold the opinion, formerly expressed in this column, that the Lords will be wise and wise in time.

Lord Crewe seized the first opportunity presented by the re-assembling of the Lords to pay a graceful tribute to the memory of Lord Ashbourne, whose sudden death shocked, although it can hardly be said surprised, a wide circle of friends. As the Marquis of Lansdowne, who had something to say on the subject from the front Opposition Bench, remarked, the most active years of the life of the late Irish Lord Chancellor were those spent on the front Opposition Bench of the House of Commons. As I have been reminded by quotation of the passage in many of the obituary notices appearing in the press, 38 years ago I wrote of Mr. Gibson as he then was, under date of my diary February 19, 1877: "Gibson, the newly-appointed Attorney-General for Ireland, took his seat on the Treasury Bench to-night, beaming with happiness, and in charge of the Irish Judicature Bill. He has been in Parliament only for two sessions, and his advancement might be regarded as unduly rapid. But in truth, although he is glad enough to accept office, the balance of the obligation is on the part of the Government. He is an excellent lawyer, was born in Ireland, has a mellifluous voice just softened by the real Dublin brogue, speaks fluently, is conciliatory in manner, popular with his countrymen, acceptable to the House, and though only 40 years of age, his active life has dowered him with a wealth of snow-white hair, an outward and visible sign of matured experience and dearly-bought wisdom, for which most men have to wait till their strength be but labour and sorrow."

Lord Ashbourne was not only a charming after-dinner speaker himself, but was, at least on one evening, the cause of a "tour de force" in after-dinner speaking by another. On the occasion alluded to he was a host in himself. The dinner was given by him at the United Service Club, to welcome Sir Henry Drummond Wolff on one of those not infrequent visits to London with which he tempered the exile of her Majesty's Minister at Madrid. The Marquis of Londonderry sat on Lord Ashbourne's right, and next to him Mr. Chauncey Depew. It was a small and purely social dinner amongst old friends, and nothing was remoter from expectation than speech-making. When the servants left the room, to everyone's surprise, the host rose to propose a toast to the health of the Marquis of Londonderry and her Majesty's Minister at Madrid.

I never saw a man so annoyed as was Lord Londonderry. He had come out for a pleasant evening, and here was thrust upon him the burden of after-dinner speechmaking. It coals had suddenly gone down half a crown a ton his countenance could not have more nearly resembled their colour. Drummond Wolff, on the contrary, was quite elate. A ready after-dinner speaker, he welcomed this unexpected opportunity of displaying his talent. Ashbourne went on for some time, expatiating on the high qualities of Lord Londonderry, and extolling the diplomatic talent of Drummond Wolff. "With your permission," he added, in an abruptly concluding sentence, "I will call upon Mr. Chauncey Depew to respond to the toast." The surprise was complete, not least for Chauncey Depew. But in a moment he was on his legs, and made response, which for wit and appropriateness could not have been exceeded by an ordinary man with the advantage of a week's preparation.

In dinner-table talk the other night an eminent authority made the, to me, surprising statement that the use of the aspirate is a custom which in this country does not go further back than a hundred years. It was not, he averred, universal even with the cultured class in the early Victorian era. Charles Dickens had something to do with enforcing the habit. In the middle of last century, according to our mentor, the pronunciation 'umble was almost as commonly used by educated people as was the prefix of the "h." Uriah Heep, going about his mean and vicious courses protesting that he was very "'umble," made readers of "David Copperfield" more careful of their "h's," and the habit, centreing on this particular word, extended to others. Of course, there is no use of the aspirate in the French language, though with the pure Parisian one catches a faint aspiration when he refers to l'honneur, and one or two other words commencing with the letter "h." The most insistent devotees of the aspirate in this country are Ulster men. They will search out an "h" in the middle of a word and let you have it with a bang.

Mr. Bradlaugh, a scholar and an orator, was hopeless with his "h's." He never recognised one at the beginning of a word, and did not mend matters by occasionally making up for the omission by aspirating it where it had no existence. The same peculiarity is notable in the speech of more than one of the Labour members of the present House of Commons, notably in those representing London constituencies. There was a well-known borough member, now retired, who was handicapped from his birth with the letter "h" prefixing both his Christian name and his surname. Sir Wilfrid Lawson used to say that in infancy he narrowly escaped being overlain by the letter. Certainly, in manhood, he never used it in its proper place.

Since the conversation referred to, I happened to come across a curious confirmation of the modernity of the aspirate. In a Parliamentary report of proceedings of the House of Commons, just 100 years ago, there is record of a message from the King requesting the House to take into consideration the best means of enabling his Majesty to settle an annuity on Earl Nelson during his life, and for the payment of £120,000 for the purchase of "an house" and lands to be annexed to the dignity of the family.

A Scotch laird, just now on a visit to New York, is successfully combating the mean English scandal which declares that Scotsmen have no sense of humour. Demonstration to the contrary afforded by the Maclaine of Lochbuie is certainly peculiar. On his arrival he made public announcement that he was there with intention of making an honest penny by taking turns at theatres and music halls singing Scottish songs in the garb of old Gaul. The newspapers took him up with avidity, and gave him loyal advertisement free of charge, with the result that he has become a notoriety, and accordingly commands large fees at music halls. If he varies his entertainment by telling stories he has at least one at his command calculated to bring down the house. It has often been told on this side of the Atlantic, but rarely with verbal accuracy. The Laird of Lochbuie was a friend of the late Frank Lockwood, whose too-early death eclipsed the gaiety of the House of Commons and the Bar. Travelling together on their way to the Elections, Lockwood observed that his companion always entered his name in the hotel book as The Maclaine of Lochbuie, a territorial designation that procured for him exceptional personal attention. After bearing this uncomplainingly for a while, Lockwood wrote his own signature, "Lockwood, 46 Lennox Gardens, S.W."

A WOMAN'S LETTER.

A Glorious May.

LONDON W., May 22.

The summer has come at last; everything is earlier than usual this year, for we have strawberries, tempting and large, selling already at moderate prices. Other things will follow in due course. But it is delightful to feel the world is awake; the hibernation of winter over, and one feels so lazy and so inclined to take life at ambling pace. London is crammed to overflowing. The hotels turn people away by hundreds; even the Transatlantic steamers cannot cope with the number of passengers who want to be in London during May. There is a good deal to see, irrespective of private entertainments, dinners, dances, and the like. The military tournament has begun. The great flower show is again open at Chelsea Hospital Gardens, and is a dream of beauty, as well as a magnet of attraction, to the thousands of garden lovers who throng in town at the present moment. Then Melba and Caruso are singing at Covent Garden with the Opera House crammed to its utmost capacity. The old charm of Italian singing has crept over the lovers of opera, and these two great exponents of opera have never been in better voice. As I say, the London world is awake. The season has begun. Every narrow alley, every court, however dingy, is glorified, too, with the presence of trees in spring foliage; it is all so young, so bright, while flowers punctuate the pathways and light the grey pavements with dense masses of tulips, peonies, and lilac; a pretty time. Soon the golden drip of the laburnums will light the highways, the gorse still gilds the moors, and the sweet-scented bloom is out everywhere. Hawthorn, pink, rose, and white, gives colour everywhere.

New Season's Modes.

The shops at the moment are as gay as Nature itself, and everything has a pattern on it. The satins are brocaded and worn by young people, all in the soft chiffonised version of materials. I was buying yesterday a length of rich satin, on which to embroider a pole screen, used to display miniatures, and had quite a difficulty in getting material rich enough for my purpose. At last a friendly shopman produced what I needed. He said they had to keep a piece of this particular make for embroideries, but it was no longer used for ladies' toilettes. I wish it were. This piece of brown satin has all the lustrous lights and rich folds that one looked for in good satin. A Court train or a bridal gown looked far handsomer in these rich stuffs than they do in the wisps of charmeuse satin or moire that are used now. There was dignity in the rich, thick satin, silk all through (my bit was ten and sixpence a yard!), that is lacking in the new materials. The idea is to have your gown of plain charmeuse satin with a brocade coat. And such a cont is a useful possession in a year when you need not make a complete suit of any one material. You wear such coats with voiles and crepons if you wish, and our summers are seldom warm enough to entirely discard some form of outer garment.

Things remain much as I told you, the draped smart skirt making you look like an inflated pegtop about the hips, gradually tapering to a point at your feet. Such skirts are not long, and you need the nicest of shoes to carry out the costume properly.

I am glad to see a straighter style of cut for the washing gowns, and for summer tailor-made suits. Sleeveless coats are made like straight tunics, while the jerkin dress, with a Byzantine sash caught round the hips, falling in long, square ends to the knee, has followers. You must be of lathlike slimness to carry on this style of sash. It came in like so many fashions of to-day from Oriental dancers and the Russian ballet. With the summer comes the sports gown, and women in these times pay far more attention to their sports clothes than for any other. I was very struck at the windows given up at some of the best milliners to various sports and motor hats. And the prices charged for these simple hats would astonish you. The best style of them all is naturally the fine Panama hat, which, as you know, may cost anything you like if it is a really fine one. These are trimmed with a broad band of back velvet, and a plain bow. Nothing else. You can wear white lace veils with them, the patterned part worn upwards, and the plain side coming to the chin. But a white veil, of any kind you like, these hats demand—if you wear a veil at all. Many people do not. I saw a clever device for keeping a veil neat and in position on a large hat, which may be useful to you. The lady has a veil affixed to all her hats, and in the edge she runs a fine elastic, which keeps the veil neat and tight beneath the chin. At the same time, there is plenty of fulness, so that it does not catch under the brim, which is the pernicious habit of a veil not properly put on. One knows how difficult it is to raise a veil becomingly for tea or anything of the kind; this device removes that difficulty also.

Hats are getting a little larger, but the trimmings remain in much the same place. The very summer-like models have wreaths of gay blossoms, like field flowers mixed with grasses, right round the crown, with a falling of tulle lying on the brims. Many of the best hats have enormous loops of wired tulle standing up at the back, and just a single rose lying on the brim. Then again wide wings stand out at the back, with a narrow cord or band of ribbon of velvet round the crown. I think the silk-covered hats with pulled crowns are getting too common to last the season out amongst the best-dressed women. But they are pretty enough, and when the colours are nicely chosen they look well, in spite of there being rather too many of them. The simpler the hat the better. Hence the price paid for good shapes. You cannot get the best models in good straws without paying a heavy price. I saw a number of broad-brimmed sailor hats yesterday at Woodland's, where the smart country style of dressing is perhaps better understood than at any other shop. All the best style of country people go there for their town, as well as their country, clothes, and you will not have known London long until you find out that these simple-looking garments and hats are wonderfully expensive. But it is only by paying the price asked at such places that you get the really correct style of country dressing. When you arrive in the country you always find how right you were, for there is all the difference between the clothes you bring down and the average clothes you see, except, of course, those got under the same auspices as your own.

When this letter reaches you, summer toilettes will not matter so urgently to you as they are doing to us at the moment. Now or never is the chance to wear the lovely washing frocks, the gossamer-like linons, laces, and all the rest of summer clothing.

I am very struck by the introduction of colour into the white blouses this season. Looking at a great number of them yesterday it seems as if a touch of colour will be generally worn throughout the season. A collar of batiste, nearly always in blue, a touch of cording and buttons in colour covered with crochet, were the leading features of most of the blouses I saw. I saw a number of pretty models. Hand-work in white embroidery was upon most of them, and I also saw some mejire shirts, made to match tailor-made suits, exposed for sale in the same window. The prevailing fashionable tint this year in tweeds is a kind of lime-leaf green. They make the shirts to match in silk, satin, or moire of a light make. These shirts fasten down the front with a couple of handsome buttons, no more. You wear a fine muslin collar, and show a good deal of throat. The warmer weather has brought out many delightful coats and skirts in tussore or Shantung. They are made simply, indeed all the tailor-made suits are that, with a tailored coat, and a simple skirt, with some buttons, which are used to regulate the length of one's stride when walking. In all of these I did not see one draped skirt. Sometimes they make a kind of jacket-tunic to wear with a plain, short skirt, embroidered with square plaques of embroidery. The best ones are done in self-colours. There is too much colour about just now.

IT'S EFFECT WAS MAGICAL

"My horse was attacked with gripping pains," writes Mr. C. Mitchell, storekeeper, Ikonwicktown, N.Z. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy and found its effect magical, the horse being relieved at once. To anyone handling horses I can recommend this remedy as a splendid cure in cases of colic, and would not be without a bottle on hand myself."—Advt.

PARTIES AND PARLIAMENT IN CHINA.

(BY W. E. H.)

"The Manchu supremacy," said Dr. Sun Yat Sen to me, "was only part of the old repressive regime. That has been swept away by the revolution, but the other part remains." In my last, I gave an indication of how much has passed and is passing away in China. The reference was to much that has been regarded as better than much that remains. Unfortunately, one often finds that the worst has a more vigorous tenacity than even the best. It seems to be a realisation of the old idea that the love of the gods is not conducive to the longest life. There is very much that all the best men and women of China devoutly wish could be eliminated and swept into the sea, or even deeper than that. Much of this is in the spirit and methods of party rivalry, which is becoming a serious party warfare.

PARTIES.

Last year, it was profoundly hoped, when peace was established, that there would be a great united party working together for the good and advancement of the Republic. With this in view, Dr. Sun Yat Sen magnanimously prevailed upon Yuan Shih Kai to take from him the Presidentship. For a while it effected a measure of unity between the north and the south. To do this was essential to any real peace and progress. To understand the present situation it must be remembered that the edict of abdication, issued by the late Empress Dowager, did not directly hand over the government to the Revolutionary party, but to the then Prime Minister in the Reformed Imperial Government, who was Yuan Shih Kai, and the other Ministers of State in that same Government. Before this had taken place, however, and almost immediately after Nanking had been taken by the Revolutionary army, which placed the Yangtse Valley, as far as Hanyang, and all the provinces south of it, under the complete control of the revolutionists, the first steps were taken by the revolutionists towards the formation of a National Provisional Military Government, with Nanking as the capital. At the same time peace conferences were being held in Shanghai, and the most serious question before the conference was whether the Manchu Emperor was to be allowed to remain on the throne, or whether China was to be a Republic. The Commissioners agreed to call a National Convention for the purpose of deciding this question. The details for the assembling of the convention were arranged, when the Imperial Peace Commissioner resigned. Yuan Shih Kai, the then Premier, claimed that the Commissioner had exceeded his powers in arranging terms, and that he was not going to abide by them. Naturally the peace negotiations came to a standstill. But the revolutionists continued their arrangements for the establishment of a Provisional Government. Just at this time Dr. Sun Yat Sen returned to China, and was elected first President of the Provisional Government of the Republic of China. He hastened to Nanking to assume the presidency, and, on the day following his installation, he issued a proclamation to the nation, embodying the aims and hopes of the revolutionary leaders. During the deadlock in the peace negotiations the Republicans made elaborate preparations for the capture of Peking. General Hwang Hsing was made chief of the general staff, and divided the Republican army into four divisions for the northern campaign. The armistice was about to expire, and both sides were making vigorous preparations to renew the conflict, when 46 generals of the northern army sent in a telegram demanding the abdication of the Emperor in favour of a republican form of government. It was generally thought that Yuan instigated this move, and there was nothing left for the Manchus to do but to abdicate. As soon as the abdication edicts came out, President Sun Yat Sen, in a magnanimous spirit of modesty and self-sacrifice, resigned the presidency of the Provisional Military Government of the Republic of China on the condition that Yuan would be elected the first President of the United Republic of China. At the time this commended itself to Dr. Sun Yat Sen as the wisest thing to do in the interests of a united nation.

The Manchu supremacy is broken and gone, but the North of China is contiguous to the home of the Manchu, and Manchuria still has its place in the Republican Federation, and its yellow stripe in the Republican flag. Yuan Shih Kai's position and influence, too, during the peace negotiations and the abdication, and the fact that the Empress Dowager, when abdicating, handed over the government to him and to the other Ministers of the then Imperial Government, and not formally and directly to the new Republican Provisional Government, gave Yuan a very strong position in the north, which, while accepting a Republican regime, was, it will be remembered, much less aggressively Republican than the Revolutionary South. During the past year Yuan has evidently strengthened his position still more in the north, and has apparently increased his influence with the Northern Army. But in the south he is regarded as having taken an undue advantage of his position for the purpose of establishing himself as President with dictatorial powers. Dr. Sun Yat Sen himself is greatly disappointed in Yuan. He told me quite frankly that he regretted very much having supported Yuan. It seemed the wisest course to take at the time, and had Yuan played the game fairly and honourably it would have proved to have been, as I said in a former article, a masterly stroke of statesmanship, for it would have made for national unity; and there is no statesmanship so masterly as that which can sacrifice self in the interests of the nation. The Kuo-min-tang, or National ists, the southern party of progressive Republicans, is now very strongly anti-Yuan. I learned some time since, in conversation with Dr. Sun Yat Sen and other members of the party, that Yuan was regarded as the instigator of the assassination of Mr. Sung Chiao-jen, the ex-Minister of Education, which I referred to in a previous article. The matter was then sub judice, and in confidence I mentioned it in conversation with Dr. Morrison, and he expressed the conviction that Yuan would never be guilty of such a crime, and that there was no foundation for the charge. The whole evidence has now been reported to Parliament.

GOVERNMENT BY ASSASSINATION.

The Governor of Chesiang, who has been engaged in examination of the evidence, reported officially yesterday to President Yuan, the Cabinet, and the Congress in Peking. The evidence consists of telegrams and letters exchanged between the private secretary to the Prime Minister and the man Ying Kuei-hsing, who has been arrested on the charge of instigating the assassination. A letter from the private secretary, whose name is Hung Sutsu, dated February 1, states that "a radical means should be employed for the settlement of the question." Another letter, dated February 22, says, "We must take a decisive course. If you want money telegraph for it in cypher to Chao-Heichun (the Premier). On February 4 Hung wrote: "I transferred telegrams about Li-Huan-Hung, Hwang-Hsing, Sun Yat Sen, and Sung Chiao-jen to President Yuan, who, upon reading them, seemed to be extremely pleased. President Yuan praised your ability and the valour of the one who has agreed to execute the plan." The persons referred to here are General Li-Huan-Hung, who was Vice-President of the Provisional Assembly, General Hwang-Hsing, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, and Sung Chiao-jen, the ex-Minister of Education, who was assassinated. This letter seems to show that the "plan" which Yuan Shih Kai praised so much was a plan to put all these summarily out of the way. On March 13 Ying telegraphs to Hung: "Sung Chiao-jen has made a speech at Nanking. Put him to death at once, or difficulty will arise." Hung replied by telegram, "Put Sung to death. If you do that you will receive a decoration. Kill him at once." At midnight on March 20, that is after the assassination, Ying telegraphed to Hung, "My order has been executed; inform the high officials." On March 21 Ying again telegraphed, "The leader of the traitors has fallen. No loss to our army. Do not be afraid."

The Kuo-min-tang men in Shanghai are so excited that they want to inflict President Yuan and Premier Chao for murder, and plead them on trial before a special court. Some time has elapsed since the assassins were handed over to the Chinese authorities, but they have not yet been put on trial, and the man who was arrested as the instigator has died in prison. The reason for this is that Governor-General Cheng, regarding the case as of great importance, proposed to constitute a special court to deal with it, and President Yuan ostensibly agreed; but the Minister of Justice is opposed to the idea. General Hwang Hsing, in a telegram addressed to President Yuan only a few days ago, requested that to preserve the independence of the judiciary a special court should be organised, and the case be dealt with by Judges free from fear of the power of the Government.

Our British Minister at Peking, Sir John Jordan, of whom, and Lady Jordan, I had the privilege of being a guest at luncheon at the British Legation, expressed to me the fear that there would be rather serious developments as soon as Parliament met, and his fear certainly seems to have been well founded. It is devoutly hoped, however, that developments will not reach the point of again settling differences in the blood of war or assassination. There is enough desolation in China now, as the result of the revolution and the Taiping rebellion. Large parts of such important cities as Nanking and Hankow are nothing but ruin and desolation.

THE NEWEST PARLIAMENT IN THE WORLD.

The new Parliament of the Republic of China assembled for the first time on the 8th day of April. I travelled to Peking with a number of the members, each of whom wore a badge, or rosette, which was suggestive of a party of young fellows going to a carnival, rather than to the serious business of a Parliament. The suggestion was enhanced by the fact that so many of them were young men, who seemed to have just merged their boyhood into manhood. This is China's new material for making Parliamentarians and statesmen. It will be well if we remember this, and form our expectations accordingly.

The Premier and other Ministers of State were present at the opening ceremony, besides about a thousand others invited for the occasion, including foreign Ministers and other members of corps diplomatique. At the hour of assembling a salute of 101 guns was fired. The Chief Secretary to the President brought the President's message, which was not read. The President himself, Yuan Shih Kai, did not attend, because of information he received that it would be irregular for him to do so. But rumour says that he intended to be present, but abandoned the idea, fearing assassination. Mr. Yang-ki was elected Chairman, being the oldest member. Most of the members were dressed in foreign or European style clothes, the silk hat being much in evidence, and perfect order and great impressiveness prevailed throughout.

The mission of the Parliament is very great, but it is to be feared that it will be characterised by many stormy scenes. Indeed, it is already being so characterised. It is well known that Yuan Shih Kai is ambitious of being elected President, and that he hopes to see the Constitution so drafted as to give the Chief Executive of China even more power than that of the United States. The Republicans, Unionists, and Democrats, called the Min-chu-tang, Kung-ho-tang, and Tung-yi tang, form a coalition in support of Yuan and his plans; but the Nationalists, or Kuo-min-tang, who have Dr. Sun Yat Sen and General Hwang-Hsing as their leaders, and wield enormous influence, have been opposed to them, and hope to make the position of the President much the same as the Chief Executive of France has been. Chinese politicians seem to have spent a great deal of time and energy during the last year in starting an organising new parties. If half the ener had been devoted to the task of reorganis the country considerable progress would been made by this time. It was good however, that the coalition referred to called now the Chiu-pu-tang (prog party), absorbs outright three other Probably new parties are to be exp the beginning of such an absolutely time, when ideas and aims have resolved themselves into definite they do so new parties will be sur and older ones will disappear in th ment. The new party specially the importance of seeking foreig tion for the political, social, an development of the nation. In the Senate, h Kuo-min-tang will be supreme, a of the strenuous opposition betw pu-tang and the Kuo-min-tang no legislation originating in the will have the remotest chance o fied by the other. It will probab acute in connection with the ado new Constitution. Under the Pr the Constitution is to be adopted sions of the two Houses, at which of the total number of membe Chamber must attend, and at le fourths of the members present is to arrive at any decision.

Present indications are that ther very little difference between the ma one House and that in the other, therefore be practically impossible three-fourths majority of the two Ho be obtained upon Constitutional quest voting proceeds upon strictly party lin the parties remain obdurate there doe appear to be any Constitutional mean dissolving the Assembly. This power has been vested in the President, and Judg from recent events it appears all too pr able that the minority in each House w bring business to a standstill by rendering impossible to obtain a quorum. Proceeding, so far indicate that Chinese politicians have not an elementary notion of playing the game of politics as it ought to be played. On several occasions a dissatisfied minority has deprived the House of a quorum by retiring en masse. This has proved a simple and efficacious method of obstructing business.

The quintuple loan has now been signed, but the Kuo-min-tang repudiate it, and threaten to boycott the banks in China involved in it. One of their journals has the following:—"After exhausting the sweat and blood of the nation, Yuan Shih Kai mortgages the skin and bones. Apparently he feels that he can do as he likes, for he has secretly murdered the man who best supported the Republic, and will later end the lives of all who seek to protect the authority of the people. Means should be devised to check him before it is too late." The Kuo-min-tang party is at white-heat, and ready for a desperate step. The frame of mind of the revolutionaries is indicated by the fact that Dr. Sun Yat Sen has officially intimated in foreign quarters that the South will secede from the North unless Parliament is consulted on the loan contract. Members of this party have already met to draw up plans for the establishment of an independent State consisting of the Southern Provinces, with General Hwang Hsing as President, and Nanking as the capital.

It was not without good reason that the Cabinet issued an appeal to Christendom for prayer on behalf of the Chinese Parliament. It was agreed upon by the Cabinet at the suggestion, I am informed, of the Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Under all the circumstances it was unsafe to predict anything; but in both Houses there are able and earnest men who will act to the best of their ability in the interests of China; and it is to be profoundly and devoutly hoped that their wisdom and influence will so prevail that, in this newest Parliament in the world, the immense problems that the nation is called upon to face may be peaceful solved, and that victories of justice and reasonableness and unselfishness may establish China in the comity of nations as a Republic that has started on the way of a national evolution that shall in the near future bring her far towards the realisation of a great and noble destiny.

ALL HAIR CAME OFF WITH ECZEMA.

Sister-in-law, Beaufort, Victoria:—"My little girl, who is now four years old, suffered almost from birth from eczema on her head, due to the nurse never attending to her properly. The sores and burns all over her head, with matter underneath, and the sores all cleared away, and her hair commenced a time all the hair came off, and the eczema spread to her face.

"One day I saw your advertisement of a free sample of Cuticura Ointment, and sent for one, and after using the Ointment on her head and face for about six weeks and washing her head with Cuticura Soap, the sores all cleared away, and her hair commenced growing, and is now lovely and curly. I would not be without Cuticura Ointment and Soap in the house, as they are a splendid remedy for all sorts of sores and cuts." (Signed) Mr. Lily Carne, June 24, 1913.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world, a sample of each, with 32-page Skin Book, will be mailed free on application to R. Towns and Co., Dept. M., Sydney, N.S.W.—Advt.

SHEEP SHOW.

OFFICIAL OPENING DAY.

"OUR STAPLE INDUSTRY."

SPEECHES AT THE LUNCHEON.

The attendance at the show yesterday was larger than usual. This was due to the official opening by the State Governor, the interest taken in the clever working of the Kelpies and Border collies, and also to the bright sunshiny weather.

During the day there were throngs of interested sheepmen round the pens in the Hall of Agriculture. Here the awards of the previous days were keenly talked about, and the merits or demerits of the prizewinners were the subject of criticism. The advance made in the farmers' or small holders' section received favourable comment, and the vexed question of plain-bodied merinos and their wrinkly brothers and sisters also afforded food for discussion.

The opinion was generally expressed that the show, collectively, is the best held by the Sheepbreeders' Association.

The State Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, made an inspection of the pens, accompanied by Sir Francis Suttor, Sir Samuel M'Caughey, and other members of the council. His Excellency was interested in what he saw, and he was specially pleased with the grand champions of the show.

Professor Watt took a number of University students through the show during the day, and Mr. Hawkesworth's Technical College students were also in attendance. An exhibit of interest was the display of wool samples by the Department of Agriculture.

The Australian Longwool Sheepbreeders' Association, with the object of perpetuating the species, and to make for purity of breeding, have awarded eight prizes for longwool rams and ewes. These prizes are apart altogether from the general show awards. The sections were Lincolns, Romney Marsh, English Leicesters, and Border Leicesters. The winners were:—Lincolns: Ram, W. French and Sons (Tas.); ewe, W. Oliver, N.S.W. Romney Marsh: Ram, Joseph Dowthwaite, N.Z.; ewe, Joseph Dowthwaite; Border Leicester: Ram, A. S. Brunskill, N.S.W.; ewe, J. C. Mayall (Queensland). English Leicester: Ram, Donald Grant (N.Z.); ewe, F. H. Badcock (Tas.).

The show was declared open by his Excellency at noon yesterday. Sir Gerald Strickland was met by the president of the association and members of the committee.

In welcoming his Excellency, Sir Francis Suttor said that on behalf of the New South Wales Sheepbreeders' Association he desired to thank him for accepting the invitation to open the exhibition. It was encouraging to know that the number of sheep entered for competition was larger than ever before. (Hear, hear.) Among the entries were 345 merinos, 440 different British breeds, and 96 non-competitive sheep, making a total of 856 in exhibition. The pastoral industry continued in a flourishing condition. The season was propitious, and there was every prospect of a satisfactory lambing and wool yield. The prices for stock were high, and the outlook, generally, was very promising. He desired to congratulate his Excellency on the honour recently conferred upon him, and to thank him for the interest which he took in the industry. (Applause.)

In declaring the show open his Excellency said that he wished to thank them for the hospitality of being present at the show, and the congratulations which they had been good enough to offer him. He also wished to express his appreciation for loyal sentiments which they had expressed towards him. It was pleasing to learn of the increased number of sheep entered for competition, and the bright prospects of the pastoral industry, consequent upon the season upon which they had entered. He offered his congratulations to the people of New South Wales, on the gratifying prospect and anticipation for high prices for sheep and wool. That such a season coincided with a good season was a joy to all who had at heart the welfare of New South Wales. He hoped the demand for wool and mutton would increase at a greater rate than the supply, and that markets for wool and mutton in the Pacific, and in other quarters of the world were going to open up to an extent at present unknown, and under financial conditions favourable to Australia. (Hear, hear.) He desired to pay tribute to the great industries of New South Wales, and to realise the importance of the industry, and carried out by the association. (Applause.)

WOOL INDUSTRY.

VALUE TO THE STATE.

MINISTER'S EULOGY.

The official luncheon was held in the Sutton Hall. Sir Francis Suttor presided, and those present were his Excellency Sir Gerald Strickland, attended by Brigadier-General Finn and Captain Talbot, his Excellency Admiral Sir George King Hall, the Prime Minister (Mr. Joseph Cook), the Minister of Agriculture (Mr. Trefle), Sir Henniker Heaton, Sir Samuel M'Caughey, Senator Sir Albert Gould, Mr. Richardson (representing the Railway Department), Mr. O'Loughlin (president of the Victorian Sheepbreeders' Association), Mr. Valder (Acting Under Secretary for Agriculture), Professor Watt, and Mr. Somer (secretary of the Royal Agricultural Society).

Sir Samuel M'Caughey proposed the health of the Governor.

His Excellency, in responding, said the association had done for New South Wales and for Australia work which could only be appreciated by experts. Ordinary economists could appreciate that the ten millions a year which the wool clip returned to New South Wales was of greater value than the gold export of Western Australia in its very best days. (Hear, hear.) It was a source of wealth which was never failing, and, unlike gold, production went on increasing. He would be treading on ground more dangerous than political grounds if he ventured into the expert range of merinos and Lincolns, and the merits and demerits of champions and reserve champions.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE MERINO.

It was five years since he left Tasmania, and now he saw the same Tasmanian merinos after a gap which represented a longer period than that impressed on the mind of a judge who saw the sheep year after year. He saw merinos at the Campbelltown show in Tasmania, and it was interesting to note their development. Seeing that at one time he held a high position in the island State, he wanted to say a word for the people of Tasmania. He was delighted to see their sheep victorious, and he was also delighted to see the way in which the victory was received by members of the association. (Applause.) He congratulated the association upon having sheep exhibited from nearly all the States and New Zealand. Prices with regard to sheep depended on the judges, but sometimes fashions played an important part. Five years ago with merinos wrinkles were the fashion in Tasmania. Now there was another fashion, and it was for the future to decide whether it would be a success. The size of the merinos, it appeared to him, had increased during the last five years, and the ewes appeared now to be very near the size of rams. He hoped that the importance of the show as an interstate show, and as the greatest show of sheepbreeders in Australia, would increase, and the time might not be far distant when sheep would be exhibited from distances far greater than New Zealand. (Applause.)

The Minister of Agriculture proposed the toast of the Sheepbreeders' Association of New South Wales. He said that he hoped they would pardon him for his want of technical knowledge regarding sheep, and forgive him for generalising. The show was the best which had ever been held under the auspices of the association. To a large extent they had to thank the good season, for it enabled pastoralists to bring their stock in in good condition, and relieved many breeders of great anxiety.

VALUE OF CROSSBREDS.

The large increase in the number of longwools exhibited was the feature of the show. This year 400 were penned as against 201 in the previous year. That showed remarkable growth and development. Many would regard the coming of the longwools as being a reflection upon the success of the merinos. He looked at it from another point of view. The presence of the longwools enlarged the field for merino breders, for it opened up a field for the sale of cast-off merino ewes right throughout the State. The small man, in devoting his attention to longwools and crossbreds, and growing lambs for export, would leave the field clear for the merino men. They could devote their attention to breeding a higher type of merino than in the past. It would not be out of place to refer to a joke worked off against himself. It was alleged that at one time or another he said that sheep were a curse. He was reared among sheep, and it would be utter folly for him to make such a statement.

THE STAPLE INDUSTRY.

No matter how they developed their wheat lands, their coal, or mineral industry, they had to remember that for a number of years the production of wool would remain the great staple industry of the State. (Applause.) While they had to work to the best of their ability to increase the population of the State, they should, as far as possible, leave the inner portion of the continent for future generations to deal with. They could not and must not attempt closer settlement in those areas which had not been proved suitable for those purposes. It would be foolish to foist a problematical closer settlement scheme upon a part of the country which had been proved suitable for the production of merino wool. (Applause.) Every member of the Government to which he belonged held in high esteem the great work done by the sheepbreeders of the State. (Applause.) They should remember that a number of members of the present Government some few years ago, in voting for the Western Lands Bill, gave security of tenure for 40 years to a large number of pastoralists in the West, and locked up that great area for that time. That was a recognition by the State of the part played by the pastoralists in its development. The world owed a great deal to the sheepbreeders of Australia. They had picked up the merino of France and Spain and made him a far more valuable animal than he was in his native land. They had also taken the Vermont breed from the Yankees and acclimatised it, and now they could reasonably claim that their sheep was the product of Australian brains and foresight. (Applause.)

VALUE OF WOOL.

In reply, Sir Francis Suttor said that with regard to his Excellency's remarks about wrinkles in merinos, both the breeder and the shearer were glad to see them eliminated. Just as the sheep were losing their wrinkles so the breeders were picking them up. (Applause.) He was glad to hear Mr. Trefle contradict a statement which had been attributed to him. The idea of sheep being a curse to any country was ridiculous. (Hear, hear.) They were anxious to improve the prosperity of New South Wales and of the Commonwealth, and because of that they were pleased to see so many broad acres devoted to the growth of wheat. Without alluding in any way to the western country, he knew that there were thousands of acres in the eastern and central districts that could not be put to better use than growing wool. (Applause.) There was hilly country and country which could not be cultivated, yet it was admirably suited for wool-growing. If people were under the impression that all the eastern country could be put under cultivation, God help them if they tried the experiment. (Applause.) South Africans visited Australia, and bought stud sheep, but when the Australians went to Africa in search of ostriches or Angora goats they were prevented from taking them out of the country. He believed that a great industry could be developed in Australia by producing ostrich feathers, but it was lamentable to think that one part of the Empire was so narrow-minded as to refuse to give even a feather to another part. (Hear, hear.) It was the settled policy of the country, and he hoped that it would be altered in the course of time. He believed that in 15 or 20 years' time South Africa would be in strong competition against Australia in the matter of wool production. He had seen samples of the wool produced there, and had also seen photographs of their flocks, and there was no doubt that they were developing well.

LAST YEAR'S LOSSES.

Very often there was a great depreciation of the number of sheep depastured on their lands. The past year was one of catastrophe in some directions. At the end of 1911 the number of sheep totalled 45 millions, but at the end of 1912 the number was reduced to 39½, or a loss of 5½ millions on the whole. The loss, however, did not end there. The loss of breeding ewes was enormous, and there was the consequent loss of lambs. From figures supplied to him by the Government Statistician, he learned that the total loss last year was about ten millions. That was the estimated number when they reckoned the number of lambs that ought to have been born. The estimated lambing last year would have been 10½ millions, but it only reached six millions. The total loss, therefore, in round figures was ten millions. They could not attribute the loss to the drought and dry season, for an enormous number of sheep were eaten day by day, and nearly a million sheep were exported to England and elsewhere. They had to contend against many pests, and he hoped that the Government would not relax its efforts to exterminate the rabbits. The blowfly also caused serious trouble, and caused the death of an enormous number of sheep throughout the State.

INCREASED PRICES.

There was a silver lining to every cloud. The wool clip last year fell 186,000 bales, but on the other hand prices advanced £1 13s, and so growers had something to be thankful for. (Hear, hear.) Manufactures incidental to the industry were springing up. The bonus given by the Commonwealth on the manufacture of tops had been successful and the quantity exported was advancing rapidly. The Japanese were their best customers for this product. While they owed a deep debt of gratitude to England, the fact remained that the foreigner was becoming their greatest customers. Of the wool exported from New South Wales year by year only 15 per cent. found its way to England, while 85 per cent. found its way to foreign countries. Of the 15 per cent. which went to England a good deal of it was sold in London to foreign buyers. He was hopeful that the American market would soon be open to them on more favourable terms. The duty at present imposed upon wool imported into the States was 5d per lb, but it looked as if that would be removed in the near future. The breeding of crossbreds, in his opinion, would pay in conjunction with closer settlement. Last year the percentage of wool from crossbreds was only 6 per cent., but at the end of June it had increased 7½ per cent. He believed that if merino breeders went along steadily and improved their flocks they would have an admirable time in front of them in the future. The demand for merino wool was so great, that it would be a long time before there would be any diminution in the value of their wool. He wished that they could get more breeders to take an interest in the association, for the interests of all wool-growers were identical.

PASTORALISTS' DISABILITIES.

The man on the land was different to all others. When he sold his goods he had to take what was offered. He could not pass on his increased expenses as gas companies, ferry companies, or the railways. They had, also, to submit to a vast amount of taxation at the present time. Before concluding he expressed his appreciation for the assistance given the industry by the metropolitan press in the publication of matters affecting the industry. (Applause.)

"WE WILL LET YOU ALONE."

The Prime Minister, Mr. Joseph Cook, proposed the health of the chairman. He said: "As Prime Minister I am delighted to be present at a gathering of men associated with this great industry. It is the greatest, most abiding, and fundamental of them all, and I hope it will remain so for many years. (Applause.) Governments may tax you and try to make themselves believe that they can do without you. There is room, however, in our country for you. If the State people do not treat you as well as you think they should then come over to us and we will find room for you in the Northern Territory. (Applause.) We want you and want you very badly, but somehow you do not come, but I hope that condition of things will be cured very speedily now. (Applause.) You will soon, I hope, see men of resource and capital going to that great, mysterious land and bringing it under the same prolific cultivation as the land in more moderate latitudes. (Applause.) If I were to venture into the realm of agriculture or pastoral pursuits I would, like Mark Twain, be giving you advice not to plant too many pumpkins in the one hole, or going up the trees to shake the turnips off. (Laughter.) There is plenty of room for the sheep man in Australia, and nothing must be done to interfere with the steady and healthy progress of agricultural industries. (Applause.) There is plenty of room for all classes of agriculturists, and they need all the encouragement that a Government can give them. (Applause.) I do not know what we can do in the way of giving you assistance. That rests with Mr. Trefle and his colleagues. I do not know, I repeat, what we can do except perhaps leave you alone. (Loud applause.) I am glad, indeed, to have the privilege of proposing the health of Sir Francis Suttor. He is one of our great citizens, and in the many and useful walks of life which he adorns I think one of the most useful functions is to preside over gatherings such as these. Such men as are gathered here are indeed the backbone of the country. (Applause.) I have often wondered what would happen if your industry, by some catastrophe, were obliterated altogether. If the thirty millions which is the value of your wool were lost it would be only half the amount involved, because there are other industries involved in it which would collapse immediately. (Hear, hear.) In drought times all those industries feel the reflex of any thing which happens to you. They did not feel it to the same extent last year when, owing to the drought you lost many sheep. That was probably due to the fact that you received 2d a pound more for your wool. The industry means so much to this State and the Commonwealth that I hope for many years it will continue to prosper. (Applause.)

SHEEP DOG TRIALS.

INTERESTING WORK.

High-class work was shown in yesterday's trials of the champion Australian sheepdogs. The hill was well crowded with spectators, who followed each dog's work with interest and applauded the clever manner in which the sheep were driven over the course.

The Governor, Sir Gerald Strickland, Sir Francis Suttor (president), and a number of members of the association watched portion of the trials.

Thomas White (Kensington, Victoria) brought out the black kelpie-border collie, King Billy (1½yrs), who made a good right-handed cast and brought the sheep to the centre in approved style. The dog did a bit of excellent display work in front of the judges before T. White let him round the pole and reach the hurdles. Sneaking beautifully, and with his eyes never off his quarry, King Billy held them tight and accomplished the hurdles in 6½ minutes without having missed a chance. Obeying every instruction promptly, the dog steered his sheep over the bridge in 9½ minutes; at the pen the approaching and command of the sheep were A1. The sheep were shy at the opening of the pen, but the dog never lost his hold of them, despite attempts to get away. One fighter showed determined opposition, but King Billy beat him by patient work and yarded, amid applause, in 14½ minutes.

Arthur Collins' (Mount Bryan, South Australia) black and white border collie, Cape (3yrs), began with a very wide cast, but when driving to the centre of the ring the dog raced wildly and circled aimlessly. Bustling himself after five minutes' galloping, Cape lost control at the hurdles and permitted two of the sheep to break to the middle arena, and one to go towards the track. The dog and his handler seemed to be at cross purposes, and the former, when scouting on his own, was called off, after an indifferent trial of 9 minutes' duration.

H. F. Mitchell's (Kingston, Uralla) black kelpie dog Nigger (7 years), made a wide cast but approached recklessly, disobeying orders to stop. Work in front of the judges was not good, as the old dog was too fresh and would not allow the sheep to steady, nor did he hold them when en route to the first pole. The front of the race was reached and the sheep went through in 9½ minutes. A good trip was made to the bridge, at which a long tail put up a fight and prevented the dog scoring further. The trial, as a whole, was not up to Nigger's best form.

Horace Collins' black border collie dog Scott (5yrs), last year's novice winner cast was all right, but he was lax at first and did not answer the whistle of White, who was working him. In the middle of the ring, Scott was under better control, as he seemed to recognise his old master, but he got stuck up at the hurdles and might as well have been called off when 12 minutes had passed. The race was at length negotiated, but time was called.

H. Siggs's (Gungahleen, Ginninderra) black and white kelpie bitch Jean (3 yrs).—A fair cast was made, but Jean stopped too far off the sheep, and was over-keen when work began, and not obedient to instructions. The hurdles were left behind in 5½m. There was too much rushing in the vicinity of the bridge, where Jean was carrying out the trial to suit herself. The bridge was crossed in 11½m, and, when the pen was reached, a wild charge should have put the bitch out of court. No further score was made.

Thomas O'Mara's (Coonong station, Miowera) black kelpie dog Snow (2 yrs), made a straight approach, and took no notice of the handler's call. Snow next crossed his sheep, and was promptly rung off.

H. F. Mitchell's (Kingstown, Uralla) black and tan kelpie dog Glen (4 yrs), spoilt a splendid cast by taking possession on his own, and galloping the sheep. He got a bit steadier when nearing the hurdles, but two stamping sheep charged the dog viciously. A nice feint on the part of Glen scored the race prettily in 7½m, and his work improved a lot on a bad start. The bridge was well done in 12m. The sheep were in the mouth of the pen, and well held till one of the stampers charged right at the dog, and tried to butt it. The trio were penned just on the call of time.

Thomas White's Victorian black and white kelpie border collie dog Fifteen Two (the novice trial winner on Wednesday) was next out, making a good cast, and brought the sheep nicely to the centre, where a display of obedience to orders was given. The dog was keen and fast, but regulated his pace with discretion. Wide working and a good approach were seen on nearing the race, which, after a deal of opposition, was prettily negotiated in 9m. The sheep shied at the bridge, but were held tight by Fifteen Two, and steered over stylishly in 12m. When the entrance of the pen was neared the call-off bell rang.

J. E. M'Mahon's (Millridge, Lansdale) black and white border collie dog Mars (3½ yrs) began with a cautious cast, but spoilt it by splitting his sheep, and woolling one of them. This breach received immediate disqualification.

Arthur Collins's South Australian black and white border collie Troney (3 yrs) made a walking cast, and did not keep out enough. The preliminary work was not promising, but the race was done right enough in 7m. The sheep assisted Troney at the bridge, which was done in 9m. Nearing the pen some circling was done, but the dog, when he had worked his charges into scoring position, was not stopped, and a break-away happened. The dog could make no show with his pen work, and time was called.

G. A. Bell's (Albury) black-and-tan kelpie bitch Tinkle (4 years) made a fair cast, but she did not steady before taking charge. Working quickly Tinkle did the hurdles in 4½m, and was soon at the bridge entrance, where a somewhat rapid approach scared the sheep. The latter were again well worked to the same position, when another rush away occurred. Clever sneaking resulted in the obstacle being crossed in 8½m, amid applause. At the pen Tinkle approached in beautiful style, which could not be improved. The gate was closed on the sheep in 11½m.

Arthur Collins's (S.A.) black, white, and tan dog border collie Rose made a beautiful cast, which was followed by obedience to the whistle. Rose promptly going down four times when ordered. Holding his sheep steadily, the pole and hurdles were reached without blemish on the part of the worker. A fighting sheep blocked progress, but the three were passed nicely through the race in 7½m. Weaving prettily to the bridge the dog got them partly in, but his trio gave him no help, but broke out and were well retrieved. It was honest work, though the bridge was uncrossed when the bell rang.

G. A. Bell's (Spring Park, Albury) black kelpie collie bitch Jingle made a very bad beginning, rushing and crossing her sheep a minute after work started. Disqualification at once followed.

At the conclusion of the last trial, and all the dogs having worked, the judges compared their notes, and decided that the following seven dogs should compete in the final trials, which will start at half past 2 this afternoon:—

H. Sigg's Jess, T. White's King Billy, L. M'Leod's Boyne, King and McLeod's Boy, G. A. Bell's Tinkle, A. Collins's Hemp, H. F. Mitchell's Glen. An interstate aspect will be added to the trial by the fact that Victoria and South Australia have a representative each (King Billy and Hemp) competing against five dogs owned in this State.

THE WOOL TRADE.

INITIATING THE NEW SEASON.

The 1913-14 statistical wool year was ushered in by the auctions in the Sydney market on Tuesday and Wednesday last, when the whole of the wool-selling brokers submitted catalogues, ranging from 253 bales to 1732, aggregating 11,796 bales. The offerings included new clip wools in the grease from the north-west and west of this State, as well as Queensland, with a small display of scoureds from this State and Queensland, with parcels from the local fellmongering establishments. It was a fair selection for the time of the year, and within very moderate compass. Buyers were in full attendance, and in some cases competition was keen; but generally there was a weaker tone. There was an evident desire to work on a lower basis, and in one or two instances buyers started lots at a price several pence below the price that they were prepared to pay, and at what they were actually knocked down at. In other cases bids were forthcoming well up to the limit, and whistling occasionally indulged in as if the prices paid were "over the odds." Thus the market was somewhat irregular. At times the scene was as animated as in April and May, while more generally the tone was quiet, and in a measure reflected the easier tendency reported at the last Brisbane sales, being par to 5 per cent. weaker.

For some time past the wool trade has had to stand up against the financial stringency in Europe, and to a less extent in the United Kingdom, as well as the continued unsettled state of affairs in the Balkans. The statistical position of the staple has been so strong that no serious weakening has taken place. The 1912-13 season, that closed on Monday last, showed a decrease in wool exports from the Commonwealth, taking the weights of wool per bale into account, of 355,000 bales. Side by side with that shortage from the Commonwealth is private cable information from Buenos Ayres of an estimated decrease from the South American clip by September 30 next of 106,000 bales, which is equivalent—allowing for the differences in the size of the bales—to a 300,000 decrease. Messrs. Wenz and Co., reviewing the position in May, said: Although the shipments from the River Plate to April 30 denote an increase compared with last year, the figures compiled to September 30 should show a decrease in the production, the amount of which it is very difficult to prognosticate at present. It must not be overlooked that the season finished exceptionally early, and that the shipments up till now are far more advanced than in other years.

While there has been this decrease of some 655,000 bales during the season in the Commonwealth and the River Plate, there has been no material increase elsewhere. In addition thereto, trade has kept fairly good, in spite of financial stringency and fears of international complications. If wool production during the past season had been normal, or at all on the increase, doubtless values would have reflected the stringency in the money market to a material extent. But coming now when stocks are very low there has been no very serious setback. The London sales that opened on Tuesday last showed that. So that, all things considered, the position of wool remains a satisfactory one.

THE SYDNEY SEASON.

Reviewing the past season in Sydney, Messrs. Wenz and Co. remarked that it opened rather later than originally fixed, owing to belated arrivals, caused by general rains in the country. A start with small catalogues was made on September 9, prices showing a rise of 2 per cent. for good fleeces, and 5 per cent. for inferior pieces on the opening rates of the previous year, but, compared with the lowest prices of 1911-12, 6 to 16 per cent. for dealers' and 6 to 7 per cent. higher for spinner wools.

The market hardened till the first week in October, then eased 2 to 3 per cent. until November 1, when it firmed for all styles, but specially for inferior pieces, and closed at Christmas 3 to 8 per cent. above opening rates.

After the recess the market opened very firm, and strengthened gradually 2 to 3 per cent. till the close—end of January. The limited amount of wool in sight at Christmas, and the exceptionally early closing of the season, certainly brought the decrease in the clip home to the most sceptical in Europe.

Whereas the best wools from New England, which, as usual, came forward in December-January, fetched but seldom more than in 1911/12, owing to the absence of American and Japanese competition, medium spinner wools were unquestionably dearer during the whole of the season.

At the opening many really damp wools were offered, which had not been the case for many years. This would explain the loss of weight noticed on arrival in Europe, and the irregular yields; later on the condition was normal.

In spite of the severe drought, tender wool was not much in evidence, except from the Southern district, where rabbits are an increasing pest. The clip was of a distinct weft character, a good many early-shorn wools being exceptionally short and decidedly finer than last year; it was also less faulty.

Good pieces were well competed for, as were also bellies and inferior pieces; crossbreds seem to be still on the increase, they showed up fairly well, were much sought after, and brought higher prices than the previous season. Lambs remarkably scarce, many stations not troubling to shear them, were mostly very short, and fetched high prices under extreme competition. Scoured wool, of which supplies are steadily diminishing, held its own, but was not so popular as greasy.

The Continent was the mainstay of the market; on the whole, France took rather more than Germany. England showed great restraint, and only bought sparingly, when forced to come in towards the end of the season. Japanese buyers increased the amount of their purchases, but confined them more to medium and good wools, leaving the extra super high-priced wools, which they affected last year, to France chiefly. American purchases were unimportant, and did not affect the market in any way.

WOOL PROSPECTS.

With reference to wool prospects, Messrs. Wenz and Co., who speak from the buying and consuming standpoint, say:—It is becoming more evident every day that the world's wool production can hardly keep pace with the consumption, and therefore, for some time at least, one must be prepared for a higher price level than previous to 1910, even if the ... state of affairs prevailing in 1912 should ... undergo a change. The reduced ..., the past years both in manufacturers' and dealers' hands will, no doubt, ... remain moderate, and should have no effect on the market. With such a normal statistical position, it is probable that exorbitant prices will not eventuate.

With the disappearance of the political disturbances, one may hope for a more remunerative business and an easier money market.

PROPOSED FREEZING WORKS AT JUNEE, TO BE EQUIPPED WITH THE MOST RECENT AND MODERN IMPROVEMENTS.

OBJECTS.

This Company is being formed for the purpose of Freezing Lambs, Mutton, Beef, Canning Meat, and Ham and Bacon Curing; for the shipment and disposal by the most approved means of the produce in various markets of the world, and the appointment of agents and others in various localities; for the attainment of these objects erecting or acquiring any buildings, works, or machinery necessary for the carrying on of the business of the Company; purchasing, leasing, or renting any real or personal property which the Company may think necessary for the purpose of or in connection with its business; and the doing of all such other acts and things as may be considered conducive to the attainment of the Company's objects in or in any way beneficial to the interests of the Company.

The advantages to be obtained by both the Company and the individual shareholders should, it is submitted, at once become apparent on perusal of its objects as herein set out, as in addition thereto it is intended to divide the profits that may accrue to the Company in the conduct of its business amongst the Shareholders pro rata, in accordance with the amount of business done with the Company by each Shareholder, after paying such dividends on the paid-up Capital as may from time to time be declared, and after making such provisions for a reserve fund as the Directors may think fit.

FREEZING WORKS IN THE FAMOUS PASTURING CENTRE OF JUNEE

Will greatly prevent a large amount of stock adding to the slumping and glutting of the Sydney and Melbourne markets in the busy season.

Junee being admirably situated for inland freezing works will be able to treat Riverina stock to greater advantage than seaboard works, owing to better quality and heavier weights the carcases possess when stock are killed near where they are produced than where carried by rail for a long distance before being killed, and the saving in freight by sending meat down to seaport in a frozen state.

The lamb raising business for export is only in its infancy, but it has a history of stability and growth, and all the prospects point to a steadily increasing demand for Australian meat in the various markets of the world. The development of frozen meat industry in the district will increase the capital of the Riverina land, and it is therefore to the interests of all landowners to support the establishment of a Company on a sound basis. Sufficiency of Cash Capital is the corner stone of the undertaking.

Landowners and stock-raisers should regard the taking of shares from two points of view—first, the enhancement of value of their own land, resulting from the establishment of the Company; second, the increased return from their stock-raising operations.

The operations of the Company should be successful, the only real risk being the adequacy of supply. In this connection, the Directors believe that competition from private freezing companies need not be feared. If the proposed Company be established with an up-to-date plant, capable of doing the most efficient work at reasonable rates, it is not likely that private firms, who are composed of men of brains and intelligence, and who buy lambs to have them frozen, will rail stock on the hoof past the Company's Works to seaboard works, and pay the extra railage of live freight as against the frozen freight, to say nothing of the loss of quality and weight on the long railway journey. There is always a rush at the seaboard works in the campaign season, and it will be a case of taking stock where they can be expeditiously treated when the Company's Works are established.

All the factors of the proposition of converting the lamb on the hoof in his pastures for frozen meat for export are in favour of freezing close to the pasture, as against freezing at the end of a long journey, except for the one already mentioned, namely, possible inadequacy of the supply, and this question will be dealt with in the next paragraph. The great obstacle that used to exist, namely, the difficulty of railing in good condition from these inland works to the ship's hold, is now completely and absolutely overcome.

The by-products, for which there is ready demand in the district, must be taken into account, namely, blood and bones, manure, tallow, etc., which approximately would amount to over £10,000 a year.

ADEQUACY OF SUPPLY.

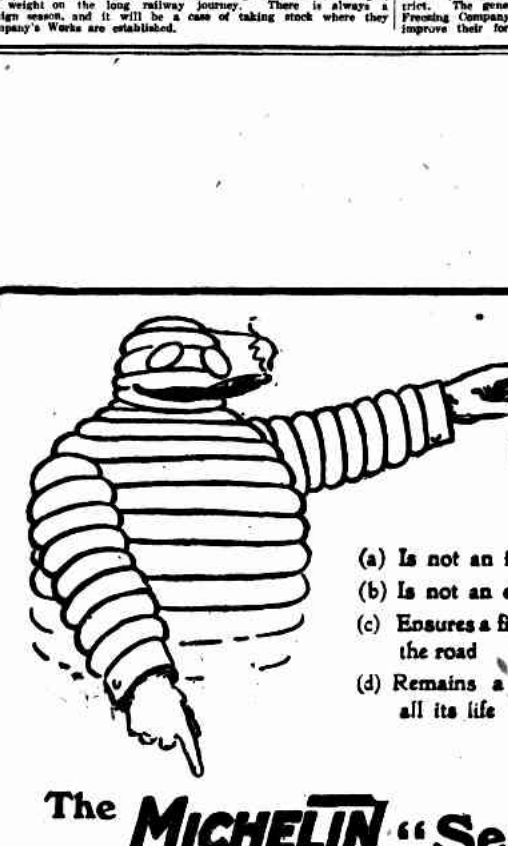

This is reasonably assured, as the stock is in the district which will be served by the Company's Works, and the plant will be designed so as ultimately to handle 100,000 lambs in the season, at the average rate of 2000 per day. It is estimated that this means a little less than half the present supply between Junee and the district bounded by Albury, Wyalong, Cootamundra, Hay, and Tumut.

ECONOMY OF WORKING.

Freezing in the Junee district, as against freezing at the seaboard, shows a gain on freight alone on this turnover of lambs approximating £2910 19s 6d a year. The gain in saving of shrinkage and loss of condition, at frozen meat rates, means approximately £13,750 a year. Further, the full working staff is not kept on all the year, the business of the Company having its campaign season the same as the wool growing business.

Further particulars and forms of application for shares may be obtained from the Company's Secretary.

Mr. F. A. Nuske, of South Yarra, Victoria, formerly being in the mixed farming industry in the north-western part of Victoria (Wimmera), found that the marketing of sheep and lambs 200 miles from where they were produced, was not all beer and skittles. In the first instance, they were knocked and bruised, and had to go without food and drink for a considerable time, and railed a long journey before being treated, and, in the second instance, in the busy season, markets were a great many times glutted. Consequently, not only to treat perishable products nearer where produced, but created decentralisation for the purpose of developing the undeveloped outskirts, so that the centralised parts would obtain the products of the land in the pink of condition, Mr. Nuske saw the immense advantage of inland freezing. It had not come to be so thoroughly realised as they are in New Zealand, and it requires a great deal of enterprise. It is difficult to make people believe that in a few years a comparatively large wheat area of land can be converted into an extremely profitable lamb, sheep, and wheat-producing district. Every natural drawback is, in the initial stages of such a scheme, pointed to by the unimaginative or pessimistic as being insuperable obstacles. There are many who do not know, or, if they know, forget that every freezing works has been consummated only by scientific treatment of natural disabilities. There is probably no area of land in any large country centre that warrants an up-to-date freezing works as the Southern Riverina. The stated gentleman has been the originator of the Wimmera Inland Freezing Works, Murtoa, Victoria, which profited £4000 on its last season's operation, and in addition thereto increased the price of stock for the district. As a result to his previous successful efforts he has been asked by various farmers and graziers of the Riverina to inaugurate a Freezing Works for their district. The general favour with which the project has been received, the Southern Riverina Inland Freezing Company, Ltd., has now been registered. If you want to be among those who will inevitably improve their fortunes by this development, get in early.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice, without a jury.)

LAND AT JERVIS BAY.
RESUMPTION BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

Murray v Commonwealth of Australia.

The evidence and counsels' addresses having concluded, his Honor reserved judgment, and intimated that during the vacation he would inspect the land resumed.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury.)

Crowley v Donkin.

Mr. Curran (instructed by Mr. O'Neill) appeared for plaintiff; and Mr. Gannon, K.C., and Mr. Boyce (instructed by Mr. L. O. Martin, of Taree, by his agents, Messrs. Boyce and Mogney) for defendant, in a case in which Jeremiah Crowley sued Frank Donkin for £500 in respect of injuries to plaintiff alleged to have been received by him owing to an assault upon him by defendant, whereby his ribs were injured, and a small bone in his leg was broken.

Defendant pleaded not guilty, and said that anything done by him was done in self-defence.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for £67.

ACTION FOR TRESPASS.

Brophy v Gorrie.

The case was concluded in which Frank Brophy, farmer and grazier, of Omeo, sued William S. Gorrie, for trespass and damage to his right of reversion, on a block of land comprising 41 acres, situated at Goolma, between Wellington and Mudgee.

Plaintiff complained that defendant had dispossessed his tenant; had used the land, and had destroyed gates and fencing erected thereon. He claimed £200 damages, and asked for a writ of injunction to restrain defendant from repeating or continuing the trespass complained of.

Defendant denied the trespass and the plaintiff's right of reversion in the land, and that the tenant was a tenant of plaintiff's.

His Honor submitted the following questions to the jury: 1. Did the defendant authorise the removal and destruction of the fencing? 2. If so, what damage did this cause to the plaintiff's reversion? 3. Did the plaintiff re-enter into possession on November 20? 4. Did the defendant trespass on the land between November 20 and January 21? 5. If so, what damages is plaintiff entitled to in respect of this trespass? 6. Was Hansler (the tenant) prevented by the defendant's misconduct from carrying out his contract with the plaintiff? If so, what damage did this cause to the plaintiff's reversion?

The jury answered the questions: 1, yes; 2, £6; 3, yes; 4, yes; 5, £46 10s; 6, £45 10s.

A verdict for the plaintiff, with damages assessed at £54 10s, was therefore entered. A writ of injunction was also issued as asked by the plaintiff.

THE JOHN STRANGE WINTER PREPARATIONS.

Gold v Hutchinson and Co., Ltd.

Mary Elizabeth Gold brought an action against Messrs. Hutchinson and Co., Ltd., for a breach of contract, and claimed £1000 damages.

Mr. Young and Mr. Cohen, instructed by Messrs. Rand and Drew, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Kelynack, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, for the defendant.

Plaintiff complained that the defendant company, by agreement dated April 5, 1910, promised to use its best endeavours to float and register a company, with a nominal capital of not less than £6000, and having a working capital of not less than £2000 cash, for the purpose of acquiring from the plaintiff and persons of acquiring the property jointly owned by them, and known as the "John Strange Winter Venture." It was set out that plaintiff was entitled to the due performance of this promise, yet the defendant company did not use its best endeavours to perform the agreement, whereby the plaintiff lost the benefit of the agreement, and the advantages and profits that she would otherwise have obtained.

The defence was that there was a substituted agreement, in which the condition as to £2000 working capital was omitted; and that the defendant company performed all it was called upon to do under this later agreement. Defendant also pleaded that there had been no breach of the former agreement.

Evidence was called to show that a company was formed for the manufacture and sale of the John Strange Winter preparations, but without working capital. Recently the defendant company, it was alleged, had deprived the plaintiff of the right and privilege of superintending the manufacture of the preparations.

The case stands part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

DEFINITION OF "SECOND-HAND DEALER."

R. J. W. Freer v G. H. Smithers, S.M., and another, respondents.

Mr. Hodgson, instructed by Mr. E. J. Peterson, appeared for John William Freer, of Liverpool-street, jeweller, in support of an application for a prohibition to restrain Mr. George H. Smithers, S.M., and Constable William John West, from proceeding further upon an order made by the stipendiary magistrate against Freer on June 20 at the Central Police Court. There was no appearance for respondents. It appeared that applicant was charged under the third section of the "Second-hand Dealers and Collectors Act, 1906," with being a second-hand dealer and carrying on business without being licensed under the Act. The particular act upon which the prosecution was based was purchasing from a boy named Godfrey a second-hand silver chain and coins; but Freer, in his defence, said that the boy brought the goods into the shop for the purpose of having some repairs effected, and he told him that the work would cost more than the chain and coins were worth. Godfrey then asked him to buy them, as he was hard up, and applicant consented. He stated further that he had never bought second-hand wares before. Mr. Smithers, however, held the offence to be proved, and fined Freer £2, and also ordered him to pay 5s costs. Applicant now appealed, on the ground that there was no evidence that he was a second-hand dealer within the meaning of the Act.

Mr. Hodgson pointed out that section 2 of the Act defined "second-hand dealers" to mean "any person other than a ship chandler or shipowner who carries on the business of dealing in or buying and selling old wares of any kind, whether such person deals in any other goods or not." A mere isolated case of buying or selling did not make a person a dealer in old wares. There was a case in 6 Vesey, page 3, which supported that contention.

His Honor: According to the case of Smith v Anderson, 15 Chancery Division, page 277, the expression "carrying on" implies a repetition of acts. In the present case the applicant was charged with carrying on the business of a second-hand dealer without having a license. It is a pity that the Crown has not thought fit to be represented, as the matter is of some importance.

Mr. Hodgson submitted that it was perfectly clear that applicant could not be held to be a second-hand dealer. If he was, then anybody who bought and sold a second-hand article must be so held.

His Honor said that the object of the Act apparently was to enable the police to have control over buyers of second-hand things, to whom persons who wanted to get rid of goods would be likely to resort. He was of opinion that applicant could not be said to be carrying on the business of a second-hand dealer, as only an isolated transaction was proved against him. The application for a prohibition must, therefore, be granted.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

DANIEL COOPER'S WILL.

A MATTER OF INTERPRETATION.

His Honor delivered his reserved judgment in the matter of the 1852 will and codicil of Daniel Cooper, deceased. The plaintiffs in the suit were: Adelaide Elizabeth Cooper, Ethel Florence Cooper, and Marport Lilian Cooper, the defendants being Emily Allchin (wife of Frederick Albert Allchin), Charles Herbert Cooper, Algernon Edward Sydney, Richard Silk, and Edith Fanny Cooper, the lastnamed being an infant under the age of 21, who appeared by Percy Arundel Rabett, her guardian ad litem.

Mr. Loxton, K.C., with Mr. W. D. M. Merewether (instructed by Messrs. McCarthy and Maxwell) appeared for the plaintiffs; Mr. Knox, K.C., with Mr. J. A. Browne (instructed by Messrs. Fisher and Macansh) for the defendant Edith Fanny Cooper, the infant in the suit; and Mr. J. A. Ferguson (instructed by Messrs. M'Carthy and Maxwell) represented the other defendants.

The Court was asked to decide whether, in the events that had happened, and upon the true construction of the will of the late Daniel Cooper, the interests of the defendant Edith Fanny Cooper, as one of the children of James Cooper, under the devise to the children of the said James Cooper, had failed by reason of the same not vesting during the life of James Cooper or otherwise.

His Honor held that the interest of Edith Fanny Cooper was a contingent remainder upon the true construction of the will, and as the said Edith Fanny Cooper had not attained the age of 21 years at the date of the death of the life tenant, James Cooper, her interest under the will had failed absolutely.

It was stated that all the parties to the suit were resident in England, and by consent of those concerned, the time for lodging an appeal to the Privy Council was extended to six weeks from date.

IN DIVORCE.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

WAGNER v WAGNER.

Cressy Augusta Wagner (formerly Henry) petitioned for a dissolution of her marriage with Arthur Wagner, on the ground of misconduct with Mrs. M. Phypers, at Sydney and on board the steamer Levuka between Sydney and Lautoka. The parties were married at St. John's Church, Darlinghurst, on September 27, 1904.

Mrs. Ethel May Hodges stated that she had acted as nurse to Mrs. Phypers, and said that shortly after they went on board the Levuka Mrs. Phypers gave her a wedding ring, and asked her to wear it. She said she intended to wear one given her by Wagner. Witness was horrified. Evidence as to occurrences on the steamer was given by witness, and his Honor granted a decree nisi.

Mr. L. B. Bertram appeared for petitioner.

INDUSTRIAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Heydon.)

WHOLESALE BUTCHERING.

His Honor delivered judgment regarding the appeals of John Cooke and Co. Proprietary, Ltd., and H. Richards and Sons, Ltd., in the matter of the award of the Food Supply and Distribution No. 1 Group, No. 8 Board, wholesale butchering.

His Honor said the first ground in these appeals, which, though not exactly alike, were sufficiently so to be heard together, was that, as at the time of the award the appellant companies were working under industrial agreements, the board should have exempted them from the award as to the employees covered by the agreements. On this question, his Honor gave judgment on June 19, holding that during the term of an industrial agreement the parties to it were entirely protected, and could not have their liberty to vary or renew or enter into a fresh agreement, taken away by an award. If, however, they did not exercise this right, but rescinded or allowed the agreement to expire, then he was inclined to think, though it was unnecessary just now absolutely to decide, that they should pass under the conditions of any existing award governing the industry. He could not see, therefore, that the board was bound, as a matter of law, to grant exemptions to the appellants, who were protected during the currency of their agreements, and if they took no steps to renew them, must take their chances of coming, or being brought, under the award.

The second ground was that the board had no jurisdiction to fix the minimum, average, or maximum rate (or speed) for piece-work, appearing in clause 8 of the award. As to the minimum and average rates of speed his Honor thought that the board was within its jurisdiction in imposing them. It seemed clear from the second paragraph of the clause that the board desired to protect the employers against concerted action by the men to work slowly, and reduce the output below eight sheep per man per hour, and he thought they were within their powers in doing so.

Regarding the provision laying down a maximum, without saying that it was necessarily ultra vires—for there might, for instance, be cases in which an absolutely even rate of production in all branches of a factory would be necessary, like the even rate of speeed in the wheels of a watch—it was certainly a provision requiring justification, and as regards the two appellants, absolutely none was shown. The third ground was also directed against clause 8, and with it clause 13. It complained of the two guarantees prescribed in the award—one of not less than 50 sheep or lambs per day for mutton slaughtermen, and one of not less than 9s worth of work per day for mutton offalmen and head and fry trimmers. These might be fair enough at Glebe Island, where the employers could adjust day by day their labour to their requirements; but were, he thought, unnecessary and unjust at the works of the appellants, who engaged a certain number of men who "keep their hooks," as it was called; that was, had a right to come every day for their share of the work so long as their engagement lasted. Where the amount of labour was flexible, the amount of work per man might be inflexible; but, where the amount of labour was inflexible, the amount of work per man should be flexible. There must be flexibility one way or the other, because the demand for and the supply of stock were irregular. Then, at Riverstone and Sandown, there were short days, on which the number of sheep in the guarantee could not be supplied or killed, and at Riverstone the trains were irregular. On this ground also, therefore, the appellants must succeed. The guarantee would remain, except as to the appellants. Should any other of the slaughterers in the County of Cumberland, not at Glebe Island, be able to show that they were in the same position as the present appellants, their cases would be considered by the board.

The fourth ground referred to the hours of labour and overtime fixed in clauses 4, 5, 7, and 13. Clause 4 gave an eight-hour day to mutton slaughtermen, offalmen, and head and fry trimmers. The appellants had always, under their industrial agreements, worked a 48-hour week, with, in the case of Sandown, the additional provision that no day should exceed nine hours. The reasons for objecting to the eight-hour day seemed good, and his Honor thought that clause 4 (1) should be amended so as, in the case of the two appellants, to provide a 48-hour week, and in the case of Sandown a nine-hour day. Clause 5 gave the mutton house a 48-hour week to constant labourers and an eight-hour day to casuals. On the two short days and on Saturdays the casuals could not be worked for eight hours, yet their wage was fixed at a daily rate, and their overtime was a daily overtime. His Honor thought the best thing to do was to give them an hourly rate of wage; but their overtime must be a daily overtime, and might well begin after the time at present fixed in the award. Clause 7 seemed satisfactory when the 48-hour week was recognised. Regarding clause 13, the difficulty here was the same as in clause 5—how to reconcile the weekly hours of the constant men and the casuals, for the piece-workers appear to be recognised as casuals. His Honor thought the same course might be adopted—fix the wage of the casual beef labourers at an hourly instead of a daily rate.

The sixth ground concerned the work to be done by the butchers. Although at first his Honor was impressed by the argument of Mr. Purse as to the conditions causing hardship, he thought the practice in vogue should continue. His Honor made other detailed amendments. On the troublesome question whether rates should be fixed for Glebe Island different from those at Sandown and Riverstone, his Honor thought, though Riverstone was in competition with Glebe Island, the great difference in the conditions justified it. He thought, therefore, that at Sandown and Riverstone the following should be the provisions as to boys and labourers:—Lads under 18, first year, or until 18 years of age, 20s per week; lads under 18, second year, and till 18 years of age, 25s per week; lads of 18 and under 19, 30s per week; lads of 19 and under 20, 35s per week; lads of 20 and under 21, 45s per week; mutton labourers, 1s 1d per hour, or £2 12s per week; beef labourers, 1s 2d per hour, or £2 16s per week; yardmen and general labourers, 1s 1d per hour, or £2 12s per week.

METALLIFEROUS MINING GROUP.

The Electrolytic Refining and Smelting Company, Ltd., applied for variation of the wages board, with a view to keeping the firemen and enginedrivers in their employ within their own industrial award, and taking them from the craft board, and putting them all under one head in that particular industry.

Mr. R. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. Windeyer and Williams, appeared for the company; and Mr. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Sullivan Bros., represented the Firemens and Enginedrivers' Union.

The hearing was opened, and adjourned until next sitting of the Court.

GOVERNMENT RAILWAYS GROUP.

An inquiry was held by the Court regarding the constitution of a board for stationmasters and other salaried officials in the employ of the Commissioner for Railways.

Mr. Cargill, Solicitor for Railways, appeared on behalf of the Chief Commissioner; and Mr. Schofield represented the New South Wales Railway and Tramway Officers' Association.

His Honor recommended the constitution of a Government railway group, No. 13 board, for stationmasters and all other salaried officers in the employment of the Government Railways and Tramways, one member on each side.

Mr. Schofield nominated Mr. Isaac Tighe, stationmaster at Corkie Creek, as employees' representative; and Mr. Cargill nominated Mr. John Harper, assistant Commissioner for Railways.

His Honor recommended the nominations.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

(Before Judge Docker.)

Mr. Walter Bevan, Crown Prosecutor.

YOUTHFUL WAREHOUSE BREAKERS.

Percy Pearce, 22, John Crowley, 20, and Richard Jones, 19, were charged with breaking and entering the warehouse of Edward Hebden Brodribb, at the Haymarket, Sydney, with intent to commit a felony, on May 27.

Another charge of breaking and entering the warehouse of Peter Mathieson, and stealing therein a chisel, and a second count of receiving the chisel, well knowing it to have been stolen, was preferred against the same three accused.

Richard Jones was further charged with breaking and entering the shop of Ernest Osborn, at Sydney, and stealing therein 27 bangles, 44 bracelets, 26 medals, 33 sovereign purses, 45 finger rings, 12 fob chains, 24 pairs of sleevelinks, 7 pendants, and 2 watches.

Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the three accused, who pleaded guilty to the charge in connection with Mr. Brodribb's establishment.

The three accused pleaded not guilty to the charge in connection with Mr. Mathieson's premises, and Jones also pleaded not guilty to the charge in connection with Mr. Osborn's premises.

Inspector Childs, chief of the Finger Print Department, produced prints of Jones' fingers, which were admitted by Jones. Witness also produced portion of the glass door of Mr. Osborn's establishment, and photographs of finger prints found thereon. He stated that these prints were those of the prisoner Jones.

Each of the prisoners went into the witness-box. They stated that they had been instigated to commit the crime at Brodribb's by a man who had given them all the particulars about the premises and the safe, and had lured them on by assuring them that about £300 could be easily obtained, and had provided them with a saw to cut the lock of the safe, a revolver, and an electric lamp. They also stated that the man was well known to the police, and declared their belief that he was an instrument of the police, and had lured them into the crime and then got out of the way, having given the police the information on which they surrounded the premises.

Detective O'Reilly stated that the police did know the man, and had made an effort to secure his attendance at the Court that day. Witness had, however, been unable to locate him. Witness further stated that the police had not seen the man on the night of the breaking and entering of Brodribb's warehouse.

Mr. Abigail said he had a number of witnesses to call as to character.

His Honor said he would adjourn further consideration of the case until the man could be brought before him. If he would not come to court voluntarily he would be subpoenaed and brought.

The case was adjourned till Wednesday next.

THREE YEARS FOR HORSE STEALING.

Reginald Travers, who had pleaded guilty to three charges of horse stealing, at the same time, appropriating three sulkies and sets of harness, and also to threee charges of stealing bicycles, was called up for sentence. He pleaded for leniency on the ground of drunkenness.

The prisoner was sentenced to three years' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol on each of the horse stealing charges, and to two years' hard labour on each of the six charges of larceny, the sentences to be concurrent. His Honor said it would be good for the prisoner to have no more opportunities of getting drunk for some time.

THREE YEARS FOR STEALING.

Edward Glynn, who had been convicted on a charge of stealing in the dwelling-house of Maggie Mitchell, a jewel casket, containing a brooch, ring, necklet, and two lace pins, the property of Robina Laura Attwater, was sentenced to three years' hard labour in Bathurst Gaol.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for Daniel O'Connell, who had been found guilty on a charge of burglary, without larceny.

This was the case in which the jury added a recommendation that the prisoner be treated as a first offender, on the grounds of his previous good character; that he was too drunk to know what he was doing, and that he had an accomplice who led him into it.

Mr. Abigail contended that the jury's rider to their verdict amounted to a verdict of not guilty.

After argument his Honor agreed to suspend sentence pending the result of an appeal on the grounds raised by Mr. Abigail. The prisoner was admitted to bail, self in £50, and two sureties in £25 each.

TWO YEARS FOR HORSE STEALING.

Charles Mortensen, 25, pleaded guilty to four charges of horse stealing, and one charge of the larceny of a horse rug. The thefts were committed at Homebush, Enfield, and Strathfield.

The prisoner was sentenced to two years' hard labour in Goulburn Gaol.

SIX MONTHS FOR FORGERY.

Ada Watson, 17, for whom Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared, retracted her plea of not guilty to two charges of forging and uttering, taken on Thursday, and pleaded guilty, in all to four charges of forging and uttering cheques, each for the amount of £5, purporting to be drawn by P. D'Albora, on the Bank of North Queensland, at Glen Innes.

A brother of the prisoner living in Queensland, stated that he was prepared to take the girl home and keep her employed.

Mr. Abigail asked that the girl should be allowed to go home with her brother. She had been stranded at Glen Innes with a travelling vaudeville company, and had taken the cheques out of the book and forged them, as she required money.

Six previous convictions for petty thefts were recorded against the prisoner, who was sentenced to six months' light labour in the Long Bay Reformatory for Women.

EMPLOYER AND TRAINEE.

ATTENDING A COMPULSORY CAMP.

A case of unusual interest, and the first of its kind under the Commonwealth Defence Act, 1903-12, was heard at the Central Summons Court on Friday, when William Perry, a hairdresser, of 490 Crown-street, Surry Hills, was charged with penalising an employee, Louis Lawrence Meliska, a trainee, for attending a camp of military instruction by dismissing him from his employment.

Mr. E. H. Barton, instructed by the Crown Solicitor of the Commonwealth, appeared for the complainant, Sergeant Hayes; and Mr. E. R. Abigail for the defendant.

Meliska, on oath, stated that he attended a camp of instruction in March last. He had then been in Mr. Perry's employ for eight months. He told Mr. Perry that he was going, and his employer said that he would have to get someone else to fill his place while he was away. On the Saturday night Perry said that he could return to work after he had completed his military service. He returned from the camp on March 27. Subsequently he told Perry that he could return to work on the Monday, as arranged. Perry said, "That is no good to me. I cannot re 'mucked' about. You cannot start." He did not start work on the Monday in consequence of this conversation. Perry gave him a reference after he would not take him on.

Perry said that he had on sundry occasions to complain to Meliska for going to work late, and also for on one occasion closing his saloon before 1 o'clock on a Wednesday. He also arrived at the shop at 8.30 the next morning, instead of 8 o'clock. He spoke to Meliska, and telling him that "he was making the game too hot," told him to finish up on the following Saturday week. He paid him off on that day. Meliska called at the shop on the following Monday, and as a man who had been partly engaged did not turn up he put Meliska on till the Wednesday, when he paid him off. On the Saturday after the encampment Meliska went to the shop, and asked Perry if there was any chance of getting his job back, but he told him that owing to complaints that had been made by customers he could not do so. The reference which Meliska had was written by someone else, but signed by him, and was so signed because Meliska said that it would aid him in getting a position in the country. Meliska's going to camp did not influence him in the dismissal.

Mr. Clarke, in deciding the case, said that if he had been satisfied that Meliska had been penalised he would convict, and not only convict, but inflict a severe penalty, but he was not so satisfied, therefore he dismissed the case.

POLICE COURTS.

CHIDLEY BEFORE THE COURT.

At the Central Police Court on Wednesday, before Mr. Payten, S.M., William James Chidley was charged with behaving in an offensive manner in the Domain on Tuesday last, and also with placing himself there for the purpose of begging alms. According to the evidence for the prosecution, accused addressed a gathering of about 200 persons, including boys, in the Domain, and it was alleged that he made statements to which exception was taken, and also took a hat round and received money. When searched the sum of £1 7s 10d was found upon him.

Chidley, in his defence, said that what he did was done from a sense of duty, and not for personal gain. He went on to say that halls have been closed against him by the police.

"I am out of Callan Park on probation," said Chidley. "I feel bound to go on with the work. One day I am gaoled as a criminal and the next day I am locked up as a lunatic."

Mr. Payten directed that Callan Park Asylum be rung up to ascertain if Chidley was out on probation, and a reply was received that he was discharged from the asylum.

Mr. Payten adjourned the case until Thursday to allow inquiry to be made as to the precise conditions on which Chidley was released from Callan Park, and when the cases were again called it was found that a doctor from the asylum, who had been asked to attend, was not present, and the hearing of the cases was further adjourned till Friday.

When the cases were before Mr. Payten, S.M., yesterday, Dr. Coutie, superintendent of Callan Park Asylum, said that Chidley was released from the asylum on two men entering into a bond for £5, that he would not wear the costume he had assumed, or in any other way attract undue attention to himself by his mode of dress, or address a concourse of people. The doctor added that if it had not been for the two men (Messrs. Orchard and Thompson) entering into such a bond he would not have been released.

Mr. Payten found Chidley guilty, and on the charge of offensive behaviour he ordered him to find sureties, himself and another in £10 each to be of good behaviour for 12 months, in default two months' gaol, for soliciting alms he was sentenced to 14 days' gaol.

SACRILEGE IN A CHURCH.

At the Central Police Court, before Mr. King, S.M., William Henry Davis, 20, and Norman Leslie Cliff, 22, were charged with maliciously damaging one brass candlestick, one signboard, and two cedar boxes, the property of the Rev. Maurice Gray, on June 29, being then in a place of divine worship. The accused pleaded guilty to the offence, which was committed in St. Bartholomew's Church of England at Pyrmont at the conclusion of the Sunday evening's service. The magistrate fined each accused 20s, and ordered them to each pay 10s, the value of the damaged property, with the alternative of one month's imprisonment.

A TUGMASTER FINED.

For having towed a raft of timber from Iron Wharf, Darling Harbour, to Long Nose Point, without the consent of the harbourmaster, W. Jorgensen, masterof the tugboat Saucy Jack, was fined 20s, in the Water Police Court, in default seven days' hard labour.

WOMEN IN COURT.

A fashionably-dressed trio of young ladies appeared at the Glebe Police Court yesterday, charged with attempting to steal the contents of a lady's handbag. The evidence for the prosecution was given by Constable Donald Robertson, who said he saw the three accused jostle the prosecutrix as he was getting on a tram. When they saw him they ran away. He came up to them, and saw one of them drop a paper. This he picked up, and it was afterwards identified by the prosecutrix.

Two of the defendants were discharged, and the third, Mabel Smythe, 28, was committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions on August 5 next. Bail in £10 was allowed.

There was a further charge, that they, being suspected persons, were found in Broadway, Glebe, adjacent to a place of public resort, with intent to steal. At the request of the police the case against Mabel Smythe was withdrawn, and those against Martha Howard, 24, and May Burgess, 32, adjourned till after the Sessions, on August 19. Bail in £20 was allowed.

WOOD OIL.

The Premier recently received a consignment from the State's Commercial Commissioner in the East, in the shape of some sample bottles of wood oil from China. The oil is a product of the seed of a tree known as the Wootung tree, and is now one of the leading lines of exports of Chinese native products. It is largely used for varnishes and the seasoning and preservation of all timbers, more especially those of an ornamental nature. It is also largely used by the Chinese for sailing craft, and when thoroughly applied, gives a light or dark amber colour. Garden seats are also treated with it.

At Mr. Holman's instance the samples were passed on to the Chamber of Manufactures, and the Chief Comissioner for Railways and tramways, and some Sydney manufacturers are now making experiments with the oil. The Chief Commissioner, in addition, has recently obtained a considerable quantity for practical tests.

Mr. Sutter, having suggested that seeds of the Wootung tree might be procured, as he had every reason to believe that it could be successfully cultivated in Australia, the Premier has ascertained that the Director of the Botanic Gardens at Sydney obtained some years ago a few fresh seeds of this tree (Aleurites fordii) and here it is a deciduous tree about six feet high at present.

NEVER has the value of a number, coin, or symbol been changed without the introduction of a compensating factor.

For instance. The purchasing power of a sovereign was never smaller than it is to-day. But the compensating factor is more intelligent craftsmanship. Especially in the B.P. Suit.

To-day the B.P. Suit is slightly higher-priced than it was 10 years ago. But it is an immeasurably superior suit.

The cloth, the cutting, the structure, the finish are true expositions of modern-day tailoring craftsmanship.

They stand out in startling contrast with the work in the much-lauded cheap suit. Not only is the appearance superior, but the quality of tailoring is such as to give two and three times the length of service.

This you will find to be a fact in the

TIME FLIES.

In 1903, the present year seemed a long way off, yet the time has passed quickly enough for all of us. During that period such districts as Mosman, Cremorne, and Kensington have practically come into being. Bankstown, Hurstville, and other places that 10 years ago were mostly just bare, unfenced paddocks are now flourishing railway suburbs, well built upon, and pictures of prosperity and contentment.

Many fortunes have been made in land during this period—you had the same chances then, but you could not see it—Do you see it now? Do you appreciate the fact that the country around Sydney is progressing more rapidly than ever before, that present-day opportunities are more frequent and striking than ever, that our Easy Terms give you the chance that, perhaps, you needed ten years ago, when it was a case of "money talks," and the man without substantial capital could not buy freehold land?

Well, you have the chance now, so make the most of it. See that the next ten years put you in a better position than the last ten have done. New Tramlines, Railway Extensions, the North Shore Bridge, and rapidly-increasing Manufacturing Activities, are points to bear in mind when making your selection.

WELL-WATERED BLOCKS
AT WYEE.
WYEE is situated on the Sydney-Newcastle line, just 70 miles from Sydney, and under 3 hours' journey from the city, and is well known as a thriving agricultural district. Our Estate is only 1½ mile from the station. The Property consists of some 440 acres of good level land, suitable for agricultural or dairying purposes. The Timber on the Estate being Ironbark, is of considerable value for fencing or building purposes. The property itself is partially fenced.
Most important of all—every block is watered by the Wyee Creek, which has a never-failing supply. The advantage of this does not need comment.
The Blocks run about 40 acres each, and are offered at £3 per acre. One large block of 315 acres is priced at £4/10/ per acre. The Title is Torrens.
THE TERMS ARE VERY EASY for such a choice property—10 per cent. Deposit, balance in equal monthly instalments, covering a period of 5 years.

REAL ESTATE.

NOTES OF THE WEEK.

The real estate market shows distinct signs of improvement this week. The inquiries for property have been good, and the sales more numerous than they have been for several weeks. The sunshine has had its effect. The indoor auctions have been well attended, and although the catalogues have been small, the bidding was fairly good. Privately, quite a number of good offers have been received for properties that have been on the books of the auctioneers for some time.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench in their rooms yesterday were offered £3000 for two semi-detached houses in Kellett-street, with stabling premises at the rear. £600 was also offered for a cottage at Rockdale, and £340 for a water-frontage cottage at Como; while £5 per lot was offered for land in the city of Perth (W.A.). The same firm privately sold a block of land at Mosman for £700, a cottage at Penshurst for £650, a block of land in Bruce-street, Stanmore, for £340; another in Epping for £115, and land at Miranda township at 10/ per foot.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman also had a fairly busy week. They sold four cottages in West-street, North Sydney, for £2100; also land in Waverley-street, Waverley, at £11 per foot, totalling £935; and land in Campbell-street, North Sydney, at £9/17/6 per foot.

Mr. C. H. Crammond was busy this week in the Western Suburbs. He disposed of a cottage and land in Summer Hill for £2300, a pair of cottages at Petersham for £550, and a cottage in the same suburb for £525; also a large gentleman's residence at Lewisham, known as Hildamere, at a fairly good price.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. commanded a large attendance at their indoor sale this week. A catalogue of only nine properties was offered, but there was bidding for each lot, showing the desire there was for sound investments. Four building sites at Mascot were disposed of at from 20/ to 24/ per foot. A small cottage at St. Peters realised £190, and a terrace of four houses and a shop in Waterloo-street, city, was sold for £2025 after brisk bidding had been indulged in by several of the audience. The remaining properties were passed in for private treaty.

Messrs. Mason, Heriot, and Co., of Katoomba, continue to sell properties on the Mountains, despite the fact that it is the winter season, when inquiries for Mountain property are usually nil. This firm sold blocks of land at Wentworth Falls and on the Leura Station Estate, and also about 80 acres in the parish of Jamieson for subdivisional purposes, as well as a cottage called Merton, in Grose-street, Leura.

VI.—LANE COVE AND HUNTER'S HILL.

One of the most picturesque spots in Sydney Harbour is the Lane Cove River. Its broad and winding course, flanked by high lands on either side, which are dotted with beautiful homes and gardens, provides a feast of delight for tourists. The river is bounded by two municipalities, Lane Cove on the south, and Hunter's Hill on the north. It was all Hunter's Hill Municipality at one time. In fact, Hunter's Hill is among the oldest of the metropolitan municipalities. It was incorporated in 1861, when the Mayor and aldermen were termed chairman and councillors, and when the revenue was only £200 per year. The first chairman of the council was Jules Joubert, and his brother, Mr. D. N. Joubert, was the first Mayor, seven years later. Gradually the municipality advanced in every direction, until in 1895 Lane Cove separated from Hunter's Hill, and became a municipality of its own, and now tourists on the steamer can gaze upon a flourishing municipality on both sides of the river. To-day Hunter's Hill has a population of 5000, with an income of £6000. There are over 800 houses within the municipal boundaries, and the capital value of the lands of the municipality is put down at £348,816. There are 13 miles of streets and well-kept footpaths.

On the opposite side of the river is the progressive municipality of Lane Cove. This offspring of the old-established Hunter's Hill has made rapid progress since its incorporation in 1895. Lane Cove has an area of 2581 acres, with 47 miles of well-kept roads. The population exceeds 4500, and there are 876 houses in the municipality. Thus we have two important boroughs running side by side with a broad and winding river, an arm of Sydney Harbour, dividing them.

Most of the lands of Hunter's Hill and Lane Cove in the early days comprised soldiers' grants, consisting of areas of from 10 to 30 acres. But British soldiers with home ties in England were not inclined to settle in Australia, so that the object of making these grants was not, in most instances, achieved, and thus quickly the land passed into other people's hands. But for many years the district comprised the great timber-getting settlement of Sydney. It was to the waters of Lane Cove that the timber for building the city mentioned last week was brought to one or other of the wharfs. Fidden's Wharf, near Killara, served the higher lands around Hornsby, and Nicholl's Wharf, in what was called Nicholl's Bay, now Woodford Bay, served the nearer parts, and from these two centres the timber was removed to the city by boats specially constructed, and called "timber boats."

Lane Cove can boast of two very fine Roman Catholic colleges, both of which are landmarks and objects of interest to tourists. On the Lane Cove side there is St. Ignatius' College and grounds. This land originally comprised 60 acres, which belonged to a Mr. Whitfield, who was a gunsmith in King-street, city, and who, it is said, was accidentally shot by another gunsmith, who carried on business on the opposite side of the street. The land then passed into the hands of Mr. Josephson, a brother of the late Judge Josephson, and he erected for himself a very fine house and grounds. Mr. Josephson sold out the property to Mr. Harnett and left the district. The latter sold the land to the college authorities. They afterwards acquired another 60 acres. Thus the college has 120 acres of the best land in the district. They have converted the land into one of the finest properties on the river.

Longueville is another portion of this river that is largely a residential area. This was originally a grant of 320 acres to Rupert Kirk, who was the first manufacturer of soap in the colony. He acquired the land from the Government, and where the steamer wharf is now, was known as the Butcher's Block. Portions of the old soap works are still visible, and on one of the rocks may be seen the outline of a whale cut into the rock. Underneath is marked 1836. Longueville afterwards became the property of John Eales, of the Hunter River. He subsequently sold the property to the late Mr. R. H. Harnett, who subdivided it into residential blocks, and auctions were held from time to time of this land. The first sale which Mr Harnett made at Longueville was in 1874, when he sold at a small figure a large water frontage block to Mr. R. Simons, a miller. The latter subsequently disposed of the land to Mr. Joseph Palmer, a share broker in the city, at about £50 an acre. To-day that water frontage is worth £13 per foot. It was Mr. Harnett who ran the first line of free steamers to Longueville. This was done to open up the country, and light refreshments were served. In fact, it was made a regular picnic grounds of, and the beauties of the spot warranted it. These free excursions induced settlement, and subsequently the land sold from 10s to £2 and £4 per foot. At Greenwich similar prices were obtained in the early days, but subsequently they rose to £5 and £7 per foot.

When the late Mr. Harnett went to Gore Hill and Longueville, in the early sixties, there was but little settlement. The whole district was practically a wild bush with no regular steamer communication, now there are railway and tramway facilities. It was get home in your own vehicle, or in any other method that proved suitable. Many after crossing to Milson's Point used "shanks' pony." These people on their way home would pass through the famous Berry Estate, which has on its boundary what is now the Anglo Park Estate, but which in the early days consisted of what was known as Mrs. Isaac David Nicholls's marriage portion, which was granted to her by the Government as a reward for getting married. The Government of the day desired to increase settlement, and to do this they encouraged people to marry. Mrs. Nicholls became the wife of the first Postmaster of Australia. But these estates have become important centre, especially around the famous Gore Hill. Now the Town Hall, the St. Leonards Railway Station, the Royal North Shore Hospital, the great brick works, the proposed observatory, and many other important works are, or are to be, located on this rising ground overlooking the river. A large residential population has also sprung up, and one of the ornamental houses in the Lane Cove district is the residence of Mr. W. M. Hughes, M.P., which is in a conspicuous position on the eastern side of Gore Hill. But the population has spread in this direction because of the travelling facilities, which include a very fine railway and an equally good tramway service. But the residents on the river side have had to depend largely on the steamer service, which has never been really satisfactory. It is better than it used to be, but the want of an up-to-date ferry service on both the Parramatta and Lane Cove rivers has, in the opinion of old residents, greatly retarded the progress of these districts. The present steamer service runs as far as the bridge which links up both sides of the river at what is known as "The Fistree," but the river goes beyond this point for seven or eight miles stretching to Fidden's Wharf, at Killara. There is a small ferry service known as the Upper Reaches Ferry, which connects with Figtree Wharf and conveys tourists and others to the Maizena Works and the great paper factory. This is rather a pleasant trip for tourists.

There is one redeeming feature for the Lane Cove Municipality, not an hotel is to be found within its boundaries. There was an hotel in 1850 known as The Bushman's Inn. It was situated on Old Nicholls Wharf-road, near the Lane Cove-road, but it is reported to have been burnt down in the great bush fire, which in 1850 swept the district from one end to the other, destroying many of the homes of the settlers. They have never had another since.

The early type of settler was a man of poor education, in some cases without any; but what else could be expected when the facilities for getting education were so small. It was at this period that Mr. John Dobbie, the schoolmaster at Woolwich, then known as Onions Point, determined to visit this wild country of Lane Cove, and see what could be done in the way of elevating and educating the settlers. Mr. Dobbie first commenced the work by establishing a small Sunday-school in the gully leading into Woodford Bay. It was education in the open. The results were not very encouraging in the first instance, but patience and perseverance on the part of the schoolmaster won for him the satisfaction of having upwards of 60 children in his class. The children were taken into the gully, by their parents, and the latter sat on the slopes, while their offspring were taught the life of Christ, and the principles of religion generally. A foundation was thus being laid, and a superstructure was afterwards erected, for it was not long before the parents got so interested that they requested Mr. Dobbie to conduct public worship. This he agreed to do, and these services were continued regularly in the open air until the first Congregational Church was built some years afterwards. It was from this Sundayschool that the first dayschool sprang. Mr. Dobbie had with him as pupil a young man named Board who undertook to open a dayschool at Lane Cove, a small building was erected and so successful was the undertaking that the National Board of Education then in existence, which was prior to the Public Schools Act, took over this little primary school, and made it the first public school of the district, with headquarters at Longueville, and in premises that once formed part of the old stockade. Religious life and educational advantages grew apace in the district, and it was not many years afterwards that the community praised the name of the man who, unaided, laid the religious and educational foundations in a gully, of what afterwards proved to be for the welfare, happiness, and prosperity of the residents of this out-of-the-way bush country, and yet only a mile or two from the city. But 50 years have made a great difference with Lane Cove, as well as every other suburban area. Hunter's Hill and Lane Cove Municipalites are destined to become great in the near future. Transport communication is gradually working its way around and through this country, and some very big works are opening up in these two municipalities. Mention has been made of some of these on the Lane Cove side of the river, but on the Hunter's Hill side one cannot forget Mort's Dock at Woolwich, the Sydney Smelting Works, the radium works, and the Vacuum Oil Company's Works, all of which have very fine stores and buildings. Hunter's Hill is also noted for its beautiful residences, and its avenues of trees growing in the streets, which are regarded as some of the finest in Australia. Given an improved ferry service, and an extension of railway and tramway facilities, this district will eventually become a very important centre of great and growing Sydney.

LAW AND CONSCIENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The commitment of Sidney Crosland to Victoria Barracks for refusing on grounds of religious conviction to comply with the provisions of the Defence Act prompts one to ask whether such a proceeding is in harmony with the Commonwealth Constitution Act, 1900, which states (clause 116): "The Commonwealth shall not make any law for establishing any religion, or for imposing any religious observance, or for prohibiting the free exercise of any religion, and no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust under the Commonwealth." The Defence Act (section 136) states: "Every person who without lawful excuse evades or fails to render the personal service required by this part shall, unless and until he has performed equivalent personal service, be and remain ineligible for employment of any kind in the Public Service of the Commonwealth." Here is a serious penalty imposed upon anyone who in the "free exercise" of religious belief allowed under the Constitution Act finds himself conscientiously in conflict with the Defence Act. As a member of the Society of Friends, Crosland took the only ground open to him in refusing to have anything whatever to do with a system which the society has maintained for over two centuries is diametrically opposed to the whole spirit and tenor underlying the Christian religion. We may as well expect branch pruning and artificial fertilisers to produce good fruit from a tree rotten at the root as expect to reform an evil by temporising with it.

The duty imposed upon mankind of doing to our "neighbour" as we would be done by is not to be construed parochially; its application to national life would completely alter the present viewpoint and prove that the spirit of mistrust, jealousy, and enmity underlying militarism is completely at variance with the generally accepted—and disregarded—"golden rule."

The views of the Society of Friends with reference to the Defence Act were published in the press after their general meeting, in October, 1911, as follows: "The Church of Christ cannot rest in the current conception of national righteousness. She must give leadership, and set a higher standard than yet obtains in respect for law and international relations; loyalty to truth and obedience to God rather than to man are demanded if the highest interests of this country and all others are to be conserved. It is for this reason the Friends feel themselves called upon, if need be, to face unpopularity and suffering in witnessing to a higher patriotism and a nobler citizenship, and they have called upon others likeminded to join them."

I am, etc.,
JOS. A. JACKSON,
July 4. Acting Clerk to Society of Friends.

AMUSEMENTS.

MR. LEWIS WALLER'S SEASON.

Mr. Lewis Waller's Sydney season will begin at the Theatre Royal next Saturday night, when the actor-manager will appear in the title role of "Henry V." Associated with Mr. Waller will be Miss Madge Titheradge, who will play both Princess Katherine and Chorus. In a long cast the following will appear:—Mr. George S. Titheradge (Duke of Exeter), Mr. Clive Randford (Duke of Bedford), Mr. Raymond (Duke of Gloucester), Mr. J. M'Kenzie (Duke of York), Mr. Reginald Dane (Earl of Westmoreland), Mr. Halliwell Hobbes (Archbishop of Canterbury and the King of France), Mr. Alex. F. Thompson (Fluellen), Mr. Frank Woolfe (Williams), Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm (Pistol), Mr. Charles Quartermaine (The Dauphin), Mr. S. Love (Duke of Orleans), and Mr. William Devereux (Constable of France). The advance plan for "Henry V." will open at Paling's next Tuesday. During the coming week the Theatre Royal will be closed in connection with the preparations for the production.

THE OSCAR ASCHE-BRAYTON FAREWELL.

This evening Mr. Oscar Asche, Miss Lily Brayton, and their company of English artists, including such valued friends as Messrs. Grimwood, Worlock, Penny, Hignett, and Anson, will bid farewell to Sydney audiences in a final performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." This great artistic production, with its wonderful scenery, captivating music, high comedy characters, and broadly farcical ones, will form a fitting "last act" of the long season, and the house is sure to be crowded.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

At Her Majesty's Theatre "Autumn Manoeuvres" will be staged again at 7.50, when playgoers will enjoy the picturesque military musical play in which the J. C. Williamson Comic Opera Company shows the hussars and territorials in the woods by night, whilst the love plot is carried on amidst humorous interludes with the aid of Misses Young, Brunton, Talleur, and Arundale, Messrs. Andrews, Lockhart, Roberts, and Smith. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Excuse Me," still at the height of its favour with Sydney playgoers, enters this evening upon its last week at the Criterion Theatre, owing to the fact that Mr. Fred. Niblo, Miss Beatrice Terry, and the other artists of the combination are due elsewhere. The American railroad play of elopement and humorous developments arising therefrom is drawing large audiences. There will be a matinee on Wednesday.

THE LITTLE THEATRE.

"Bobby Burnit" is still the reigning attraction at the Little Theatre. Winchell Smith, who dramatised "Brewster's Millions," again showing his constructive power in the art of sustaining interest in a definite story adapted to the stage. Mr. Hugh Buckler scores in the absorbing part of the hero, who comes into a great business felt him by his father, ruins it and himself, but finally retrieves all under the spur of his love for Agnes Elliston (Miss Violet Paget). There will be a matinee on Thursday.

PALACE THEATRE.

At 2 o'clock to-day the American Musical Burlesque Company will give another matinee performance of "The Grafters," which is drawing crowded houses at the Palace Theatre. Roars of laughter attend the clever nonsense of the three tramps, and, besides the smart action choruses, the American girls display a profusion of waltz steps, whilst sentimental songs help the whole piece on to the sustained success now achieved under the Anderson direction.

ADELPHI THEATRE.

This evening Mr. William Anderson will revive the favourite drama "Man to Man," in which Miss Olive Wilton will appear as the gipsy girl Madge, and Miss Vera Remée as Ethel Maythorne. The gipsy fortune-teller, Liz Lovell, will be played by Miss Florence Richter, and the old gipsy woman, Kate Noel, by Miss Marion Willis. Mr. J. H. Nunn will be seen in the role of the mad parson, Philip Ormonde, which character he played with the late Mr. George Rignold. Mr. Max Clifton will impersonate the hero, James Gordon, while Mr. Rutland Beckett will assume the character of the villain, Richard Ellerton. Bill Berkley, the convict, which was one of the late Mr. Rignold's favourite characters, will be played by Mr. Charles Brown.

GEORGE MARLOW COMPANY.

On Saturday evening, the 19th instant, the George Marlow Dramatic Company will make their re-appearance in Sydney at the Adelphi, when the reigning London domestic success "No Mother to Guide Her" will be staged for the first time here. Miss Ethel Buckley will appear in one of her best characters as Nan, the London waif, and the cast will include Cyril Mackay, Herbert Leigh, J. P. O'Neill, Misses Nellie Ferguson, Alma Phillips, and other favourite artists.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

Percy Dalton, one of the finest dancers yet seen on the Brennan-Fuller circuit, will rejoin the company at the National Amphitheatre this afternoon. He will appear in a single turn, and also in a sketch with Miss Lily Moore, the latter a sister of Miss Carrie Moore. Another popular reappearance should be that of Black and Boone, cosmopolitan sketch artists, who will present a new American travesty; Millie Bertoto (in illustrated songs), Beattie M'Donald (soubrette), and the Neville girls will also join the company. The Decars and Tomato, the Stagpooles, Max Duffek, Victor, and Hart and Kenny will also appear.

ROYAL SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL.

On Wednesday evening next the Royal Sydney Liedertafel will give a concert at the Town Hall, at which Mr. David Bispham will make his only appearance with orchestra and chorus. Mr. W. Arundel Orchard's cantata, "Uller the Bowman," libretto by W. J. Curtis, will be performed with the American baritone in the name-part as the God of Winter. Miss Rita Lyons, the New Zealand soprano, will sing the part of Ebadi. Mr. Bispham will be further heard in the aria from Handel's "Sapio," and in "I am a Roamer" (Mendelssohn), "Ein Ton" (Cornelius), "On the Norse Seas," and "Killiecrankie." Mr. Orchard will conduct choral and orchestral numbers. The plan is at Paling's.

MADAME CLARA BUTT'S CONCERT.

Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford's seventh concert takes place in the Town Hall this evening, when the great contralto will repeat several of her favourite numbers. Madame Butt will sing "Abide with Me" (with organ), "Softly Awakes My Heart" (Saint-Saens), "L'Angelus," an old Breton melody, "Reed'il sereno" (Bandel), "Three-score and Ten" (Trevalsa), "The Fairy Pipers" (H. Brewer), and as an extra number by special request "Land of Hope and Glory" (Elgar). Mr. Kennerley Rumford's songs will be "Le Secret" (Faure), "Largo al Factotum" (Rossini), "Eyes that used to Gaze in Mine" (Hermann Lohr), and Alfred Hill's "Waiata Poi." Mr. William Murdoch will play piano pieces by Chopin, Rubinstein, and Liszt. Mr. Mowat Carter's violin solos will be Wagner's "Preislied" and Hubay's "Hungarian Dances."

Messrs. J. and N. Tait announce that tickets for to-night's concert are available at Nicholson's until noon, and after then at Searls'. The final evening concert takes place on Tuesday night, and the last concert of all on Thursday afternoon next.

BISPHAM FAREWELL CONCERTS.

It is pleasurable news to learn that David Bispham, the great American baritone, met with the same hearty welcome in Melbourne as was accorded him in this city. So great a success did he win in Melbourne that a return season of six concerts has already been arranged for. Mr. Bispham is obliged to be back in New York the early part of September, owing to his operatic engagements, and his Australian tour therefore cannot be extended. His success in Melbourne, Adelaide, and this city has been so marked that Frederic Shipman, his manager, has decided to cut out all smaller points, and will only play return dates in the three cities. Brisbane is very anxious to hear the famous singer, and it is possible that a short season may be arranged there. Mr. Bispham's farewell Sydney concerts will be given at the Town Hall next Thursday and Friday and Saturday, and July 14. It is to be hoped that he may be induced to repeat his Wagner programme of a few weeks ago. The plan will open at Paling's on Monday morning.

THE NORDICA SEASON.

Great interest is already evident in the forthcoming tour of Mme. Lillian Nordica, the great Wagnerian soprano. America has produced many singers of note, but none who has reflected as great lustre on her native land as Nordica, whose operatic triumphs in both Europe and America have established a record of remarkable artistic achievement, and whose career has stimulated countless students, and has exerted an invaluable influence in the advancement of American art.

Mme. Nordica will sail from Honolulu next Monday for Sydney, and is due to arrive here July 21. She is bringing a trio of assisting artists with her, including Paul Dufault, the Franco-Canadian tenor, whose success on the De Cisneros tour is still fresh in our memory. The Nordica season will open on July 26.

STUDENTS' PIANO RECITAL.

An invitation pianoforte recital will be given this afternoon at Paling's Concert-room, by the Misses Kathleen Bailey, Lilian Hawes, Elsie Meek, Maude French, Mabel Gibson, Nonie Robinson, Inez Duran, from the studio of Mr. S. Gordon Lavers.

REPERTORY THEATRE RECITALS.

In consequence of the re-decoration and re-seating of this theatre, the Saturday evening dramatic and musical recitals are unavoidably postponed until further notice.

MR. JOHN CARLTON FAY.

Mr. John Carlton Fay, the Sydney pianist, who arrived last week after a second successful season in Leipzig and other art centres abroad, will give his first recital of attractive classical music in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Wednesday, July 23. The plan will open at Nicholson's next Saturday.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

Bain's Vaudeville Entertainers at the Princess Theatre will be further strengthened to-night by the Four Holmans, a team of athletes from London, with picturesque posings; the Two Devons, a pair of acrobatic dancers; and Frank Reis, a comedian. Others contributing to an excellent bill are Hyman and Alton (comedy acrobats), Marshal and Mitchell (vocalists), Ted Stanley, Con Moreni, George Sorlie, Olive Robinson, Lyla Thompson, the Three Star Girls, Nellie Maher, and James Croydon. A matinee will be held this afternoon.

"QUO VADIS" AT LYCEUM.

Spencer's remarkable pictorian success, "Quo Vadis?" at the Lyceum has lost none of its popularity, and as yet no announcement has come from the management as to when the season is likely to terminate. A matinee will be given this afternoon, commencing at 2.30.

WEST'S OLYMPIA.

"The Modern Prodigal" is the title of the star picture of the new programme to be introduced at West's Olympia, Oxford-street, on Monday evening. The cast is by a company of capable artists, all of whom are well known to patrons of motion picture houses. The supporting programme will be an excellent one of comic and dramatic numbers.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

"The Power of the Cross" is the title of the feature film of the new programme to be introduced at the Crystal Palace Theatre on Monday. This is a powerful drama abounding with stirring situations. The Australian Gazette will show many of the latest happenings in the Commonwealth.

LYRIC THEATRE.

There will be a complete change of programme at the Lyric Theatre on Monday, when the star picture will be entitled "The Clue of the Broken Finger." The story is well told, and above the average detective series. The Warwick Chronicle will show the latest important events of the old world.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The feature film of the new programme to be introduced at the Colonial Theatre on Monday will be "The Mystery of the A.V.Z. Gang." Ther are plenty of sctantions in this film, and it should prove attractive. The remainder of the bill is composed of educational comic and dramatic numbers.

EMPRESS THEATRE.

A complete change of programme will be made at the Empress Theatre on Monday, when the star picture will be entitled "Fatal Invention." The Australian Gazette will contain many of the latest important happenings of the Commonwealth, and there will be a good supporting bill.

AMERICAN PICTURE PALACE.

The American Picture Palace will present a complete change of programme on Monday. The new bill will be up to the high standard set by this popular house, and should prove attractive. The current programme, the star picture of which is "Great Possessions," will be concluded to-day.

THE GLACIARIUM.

There is an appreciable increase in the attendances at the Glaciarium, where ice skating is now in full swing. The numerous attractions that the management puts forward from time to time have proved successful. An exhibition of fancy skating will be given by Professor Allander to-night.

ROYAL ROLLER RINK.

The skating season at the Royal Roller Rink is proving a thorough success, each of the three daily sessions being well attended. There is music at all three. The management claims that the Royal is the largest rink in Australia.

CENTENNIAL SKATING PALACE.

A poster and advertisement carnival, the next big attraction at the Centennial Skating Palace, Bondi Junction, will be held on August 25. Many valuable prizes will be given. After Monday next the management announces the admission for ladies will be reduced to sixpence at all sessions.

IMPERIAL ROLLER RINK.

An "Evening Dress and White Night" will be held at the Imperial Roller Rink, William-street, on July 17. This will be followed up by a big carnival, entitled "An Imperial Cinderella," about August 4. Both functions promise to be thoroughly successful.

COLISEUM ROLLER RINK.

At the Coliseum Roller Rink to-day C. H. Lay and a pupil will give an exhibition of fancy skating. The attendances at this rink are increasing each week.

BERTRAM FLOHM PLAYERS.

STOCKDOG SHOW.

A RECORD ENTRY.

The second annual show of the stockmen's working dogs—Kelpies and cattledogs—was opened yesterday at the Agricultural Society's Grounds. The show was controlled by the executive of the Cattledog and Sheepdog Club of New South Wales.

Sir Francis Suttor, in declaring the show open, said he felt persuaded that the great object of the club was to improve the breed of these working dogs, whether cattle or sheep. If they could combine beauty with increase of intelligence, which was already prominent in these clever little animals, they were working in a right direction, and were deserving of all praise. Undoubtedly these dogs, in their proper places, were of great assistance on stations and farms, and he trusted that the members of the club, besides improving the breeds, would endeavour to see that the dogs worked under better and more kindly conditions, and that all traces of disease, such as mange, should be stamped out.

Mr. Sidney Ives judged the cattledogs, and Mr. Joshua Prentice the Kelpies. Their awards follow:—

CADET EXAMINATIONS.

Full particulars are now available of the next examination for entrance to the Royal Military College, which takes place on October 20. Intending candidate to be eligible for admission must (a) be between the ages of 16 and 19 on March 1 in the year he joins the college, must pass the prescribed medical and open competitive examination, and otherwise comply with the requirements of the regulations for the Royal Military College; or (b) must, if over the age of 19 years, be a member of the forces, pass the prescribed examinations, be recommended by the Governor-General in Council, and otherwise comply with the requirements of the regulations for the Royal Military College.

The open competitive examination is held annually in each State. Vacancies at the college for Commonwealth cadets under 19 years of age will be allotted to the States of the Commonwealth on the basis of population, and the candidates from each State will compete among themselves.

It is proposed, when possible, to supplement the college course by sending graduates who have obtained their commissions to England or India for one year, where they would be attached to units of the imperial Regular Army for practical instruction. A candidate on joining the college is enlisted in the corps of staff cadets, and will receive a commission as lieutenant provided he qualifies for graduation at the end of his course. On enlistment he must engage to serve for 12 years in the Commonwealth Forces, which includes the period served in the corps of staff cadets. Parents and guardians are not, therefore, at liberty to withdraw their sons or wards from the college at will. The terms for resignation under special circumstances are laid down in the regulations of the college.

THE HOSPITALS.

REGENT-STREET DISPENSARY.

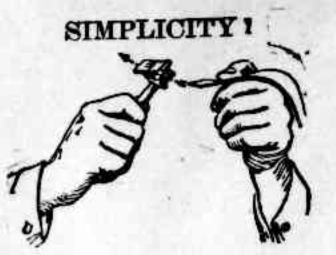

"DISGRACEFUL ACCOMMODATION."

The annual report of the Sydney Hospital for 1912 states that the highly unsatisfactory state of affairs in connection with the branch dispensary in Regent-street (mentioned in previous reports) still exists, and it is considered that this branch of the hospital "falls very little, if any, short of a disgrace," owing to the fact that the present building is inadequate. The hospital board is said to be powerless in the matter, as at the time of the drafting of the report the piece of land which it is understood has been set aside by the Government for the building of a new dispensary had not been granted to the hospital.

It was proposed by the hospital authorities to build in such a way that a portion of the new building would, at least, produce as much revenue as would be lost by withdrawing the funds from fixed deposit, as they would be forced to do to build an up-to-date dispensary.

Objection was taken by the Government to this, the board being informed that the land would only be granted for strictly dispensary purposes. The board hopes that the Government will waive the objection. It feels that the branch should either be carried on properly or closed altogether. The latter step would have been taken some time ago, but it was made clear to the board that to do so would inflict a district hardship on the suffering poor.

Dearest, I am thinking of to-morrow,
And the night from this life you did depart,
With a mantle of pain and sorrow
Your departure robes my heart.
I retrospect the peaceful way which you did trend,
Your glicus solace did my ears kiss;
All who came your way you did befriend,

ADLIDE.—In loving remembrance of my own darling mother, Mary Ann Adlide, who departed this life at her residence, St. Peters, July 7, 1896, in her 43rd year.

Who played a peaceful, gentle role,

WHERE SHALL I GO?

Careful and prudent people will, of course, go to the Studio that has a long-established reputation—a Studio where the operators are skilful men, who understand the special circumstances of each visitor, and who are enlightened enough to take an honest interest in each sitter. A Studio where grouping, posing, backgrounds, and material are something more than mere words, and a Studio where "the desire to please" is the first and last thought of every member of the staff.

AUSTRALIAN DEFENCE.

There were some aspects of the recent Federal elections on which all Australians could congratulate themselves. For the first time in the history of the Federation the electors seemed to realise the importance of the issues and the necessity of taking an active part in their settlement. The difficulty of finding competent men to offer themselves as candidates for electorates at a distance from the seat of Government was in a great many instances overcome, and the right to vote was exercised by a large percentage of those entitled than ever before. In the midst of so many signs of keen interest it was the more satisfactory to find that the subject of defence on which national agreement is highly desirable, if not indispensable, was left untouched by party controversy. Whatever controversy there was did not turn on questions either of policy or of administration. The Liberals claimed that the system at present in existence originated with Mr. Deakin, the Labour party that it was established by Mr. Hughes and Mr. Fisher. In this way defence was given a place apart from the other items on the Government programme. When they spoke of it the rival orators disputed for the honour of having done what all agreed was done well and in accordance with the will of the people. There could have been no better proof that the system now in force is a really national system.

Australians can find proofs of the danger of allowing defence to become a party question in Canada and England at the present time. In Canada the recent debates on the Borden naval proposals have shown the party system at its best and at its worst. By universal consent the debates in the Canadian House of Commons have been conducted on a very high level. The two leaders have examined from their respective standpoints the effect of each set of proposals on the development of Canada and on her relations to the component parts of the Empire. Their speeches will rank with some of the speeches in the American Conventions, and with the best of those delivered at the Australian Conventions, as expositions of the development of a growing constitution. But the history of this controversy is at the same time an illustration of the effect of party feeling in driving asunder people who might easily have worked together, and in preventing the settlement of a question by magnifying small into great differences. In Canada the difficulty of a settlement is increased by the racial antagonism of the French to the English elements in the population. But an almost equally depressing example is to be found in the treatment of the problem of military defence in England. Every scheme that can be devised seems likely to be a victim to the party system. No good word may be said of the Territorials, because Lord Roberts has taken up the cause of compulsory service. Although the recruiting statistics for this year are the best on record, the force is ridiculed by the men who, in the interests of tariff reform, said that the country was going to the dogs, when official statistics proved its abundant prosperity. The same undiscerning criticism has been directed against the compulsory service proposals, and will continue with greater severity if the Unionist party has the courage to adopt them.

It is a piece of good fortune for the country that the Ministry has been able to take measures to check the inroads of the party spirit before it has gained too firm a hold on Parliament. By appointing Mr. Balfour to the Committee of Defence it has set an example which all the Dominions would do well to follow. We wish that the Cook Ministry would follow it by associating Senator Pearce in its councils on defence matters. Mr. Balfour brings to his new work the invaluable knowledge gained by him on the committee appointed to consider the possibilities of invasion. Senator Pearce has what none of the Ministers have, the unique experience gained during his visit to England at the time of the last Imperial Conference. We would go further and would suggest that if the opportunity is offered Senator Pearce should accompany Senator Millen to the next conference, at Vancouver or elsewhere. The advantage of continuity in the knowledge to be gained at such conferences must be most obvious to those Ministers who are at present without it. In the present crisis in Imperial affairs it is perhaps equally important to show to Mr. Churchill and to the Dominion Ministers that the Australian view on naval defence will not vary with the changes of political fortune in this country. Australians have some reason to complain of the uncertainty of Mr. Churchill's views as to the best means of defending the outlying portions of the Empire. His official opinion seems to have varied considerably since he was understood to favour the building of local units in each of the Dominions. But to Australians the evidence in favour of the plan adopted here seems to be now stronger than ever. The need of a fleet in the Pacific is greater than ever, and so is the importance to Australians of possessing a navy of their own which they may see in their own waters. Mr. Deakin never showed so much insight into the minds of his countrymen as when he invited the American fleet to give us an idea of what modern warships are like. The work of successive Governments, now that the scheme is inaugurated, is to show that Australians do not deserve their reputation of being inclined to give up a plan as soon as they have come to feel the burden of it. We have to show that all our expressions of willingness to carry out the programme laid down by Admiral Henderson were not merely the boastings of ignorance. No one who has watched the progress of the compulsory service movement will believe in the possibility of such a failure in the management of the land forces. The willingness to serve shown by men who are not liable, and their success in training the cadets, is a convincing proof and almost the only proof we have of the existence in Australia of a sense of patriotism and of public duty. It is essential that the administration of the land forces should be at once firm and sympathetic. The intrusion of party spirit would destroy the elements which have given the movement its present very remarkable degree of success. It would at the same time destroy the best hopes we have for the future of Australia.

EMPIRE KNOWLEDGE.

The annual meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, held in London a few weeks ago, had a stirring theme for its celebration in the South Polar tragedy, and a fit objective for its honours in the presence of Commander Evans and other survivors of the Scott expedition. By reason of these alone, Lord Curzon was easily able, in his presidential addresses of the day, to command a high level of eloquence for his recapitulation of the work of the society. And there was other claim upon his gift of speech. For, as he said, the past ten years of the society's history have been the most memorable in its annals. Both Poles have yielded their secret, and the discoverer of each in turn has told his thrilling story to the world, while aerial navigation, for years at its best achievement by favour of balloons and fair winds, has become an ordered science with a great record of accomplishment already behind it, and its conquest of the earth's farthest distances a matter almost of certainty. But perhaps a more interesting aspect of the Royal Geographical Society's work was that touched upon by Sir Edward Grey, who drew attention to the importance of geography to an Empire of world-wide sweep. The Foreign Secretary was well within his own province when he spoke of the Imperial bearing of geographical knowledge—the study of the climates and the natural resources of different countries, the characteristics of different populations and the strategic advantages and disadvantages of different parts of the world. He was also well within it when he reminded us of the danger of want of knowledge of this kind, and when he urged as essential to the maintenance of the Empire a sound geographical outlook upon its component parts. Australia, for example, has had occasion more than once to lament just such an outlook as that which Sir Edward Grey so cheerfully admitted to have been a remarkable feature of past history. The times are certainly changed. Lack of geographical knowledge of us is not, as it once was, a conspicuous failing in Whitehall. Imperial conferences, and a closer welding of Imperial interests, have had their effect. British Ministers of the Crown are compelled, now, to think and work imperially by faith rather than sight. While that is so, not even an accurate geographical estimate of us will do all that is necessary for their complete understanding of our national problems. Of late years it has become more or less the habit of Dominion politicians to make periodical visits to London. There can be but few Australian politicians who return from such visits unbenefited by a wider outlook on Imperial affairs. The same result would inevitably follow upon the visits of British statesmen to Australia.

But even more is required if the components of the Empire are to be truly imperial in outlook. As things now are, their knowledge of each other is much too fragmentary. Australians are often surprised at, and sometimes and very justly complain of the obvious lack of knowledge of Australia which suffices not only Great Britain, but the other Dominions, and the lesser Empire possessions. It is, indeed, a fact to be deplored. But it is not more deplorable than the fact that Australians themselves know very little of those Dominions and possessions. Even the topographical side of the Royal Geographical Society might be employed with advantage in the spread of knowledge among the Empire peoples. And even where knowledge of that kind is reasonably common, there is but little measure of the inwardness of life in places beyond ourselves. The stray visit to us of a Mr. Foster lets in a flood of light, more or less, as to the capacity of the public life of Canada. But as a people, we know very little, for example, of the Canadians. We are faced, at intervals, with the fact that Canada draws to itself a vast additional population every year: but we do not set ourselves with any energy to investigate the causes of this effect. We do not make any palpable endeavour to study Canada, to find out the secret of its power of attraction, to understand either the life or the resources of the country. We are inclined rather to attribute Canada's success to some lack of judgment in the people who go there. And what is to be said of Australia's knowledge of India, that greatest of all the Imperial possessions, and the heart of the Empire problem? Nothing, save that Australia knows little of it beyond what it hears from time to time by outstanding event or circumstance. And yet India is the keystone of the arch of Empire, and command of its complex organisation is Imperialism's masterwork. Of South Africa we have reason to know something, but our grasp of that Dominion is really no more complete than is our acquaintance with its people and the variegated life they live under the common flag. In India, in Canada in South Africa—and in the lesser possessions, too—are Imperial problems of a hundred varieties, an understanding of which would make us not less an Australian, and far more an Empire people. The geographers of the world have done, and are doing, a great work in the delimitation of territory and the adjustment of territorial boundaries. But they would be the first to admit that a people is greater than the surface area of its habitat. It is a great thing for the Royal Geographical Society that it has been the source and impulse of exploration work of the highest service to the world, and the inspiration of some of the finest virtues of the human mind and will. Great deeds are still to be done, and will be done beneath its further banners. But the Empire peoples have to-day not to extend but to maintain the Empire. Effort after their own several ambitions is essential to themselves. Knowledge of each other is an Imperial necessity.

To-day's "Herald."—Sir Henry Lucy (page 7), after a glance at Parliament, pays a tribute to the talents and popularity of the late Lord Ashbourne, declares the pronunciation of the letter h to be a modernism, and recounts one of the late Frank Lockwood's little jokes. The writer of "A Woman's Letter" (also page 7) describes May as delightful, and passes on to the modes. Our special contributor lately in China in an article on "Parties and Parliament" (page 7) sums up the existing situation in the newest republic as a confusion of parties and personalities. On page 5 will be found a paper from our special correspondent on London Theatreland, a sketch of Cordova, by Mr. A. B. Piddington, who was recently in Spain, as readers of his former articles in the "Herald" will recall; an agreeable paper on a school celebration at Harrow, and an article on the Home Track.

BETWEEN £350,000 AND £400,000.

The Minister for Works referred yesterday to comments which have appeared in the Melbourne press regarding the transfer of Garden Island and Admiralty House.

"These newspapers are trying to make it appear," Mr. Griffith said, "that New South Wales is endeavouring to blackmail the Commonwealth by obtaining payment for something which cost it nothing. As a matter of fact, exclusive of the value of the land at Garden Island, but including the purchase of Admiralty House, this State has spent for buildings, etc., out of its own funds, on which interest has to be paid, between £350,000 and £400,000."

WAR OF WORDS.

BALKAN BATTLES.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM VICTORIES.

DESPERATE FIGHTING.

THE POSITION OF TURKEY.

BELGRADE, July 4.

The officers allege that the Bulgarians overwhelmingly attacked the Servians on Monday, and compelled them to retreat until reinforcements arrived, after making forced marches, and turned the tables.

The Premier, M. Pasitch, in describing the recent three-days' battle and the driving of the Bulgarians across the Zletovo and Bregalnitza rivers, stated yesterday that the greatest fight had taken place near Ovtchepolye, where severe losses were sustained on either side.

He added that the Bulgarian attack had been prearranged in all details.

The Servians captured 30 guns and a great quantity of ammunition. They had 2000 men killed and wounded, but the Bulgarian losses were far greater.

M. Pasitch said that a battle was now in progress near Kotchana and Istib.

Newspaper correspondents explain that the the capture of Retkeboukwe by the Servians destroyed the Bulgarian attack. Retkeboukwe is situated on a saddle of the Ossogova Mountain, and dominates all the positions of the Bulgarian front, as well as commanding the only road connecting Kustendil and Retkeboukwe. They add that if the Servians promptly seize Kotchana and Radovishte, the Bulgarian army on the left banks of Zletovo and Bregalnitza rivers will be cut off from its lines of communication, and the fate of the whole of General Demitrieff's army will be sealed, as the Macedonian detachments will be unable to revictual, and will be doomed to surrender in the face of the harassing Servian and Greek attacks.

The latest reports state that the Rilo division, forming part of General Demitrieff's army, has been practically annihilated, and that a Servian cavalry division is hotly pursuing the fugitives.

BULGARIAN ACCOUNTS.

SOFIA, July 4.

The reported successes of the Servians are authoritatively denied.

It is semi-officially stated that the Bulgarians, after repelling the first Servian provocative attacks, assumed the offensive, and occupied Emiritza, Oudovo, Krivolak, Souchevo, Tachou, and Dobrevo; then, in pursuance of orders from Sofia, ceased hostilities, and returned to their original positions. They sent two officers to request the Servians to cease hostilities, but the Servians, instead of complying with this request, took the offensive with the whole of their forces, and afterwards described this movement as a "pursuit" of the Bulgarians. All the Servian attacks, however, were repulsed with heavy loss.

The allegation that King Ferdinand's declaration of war against Servia had been read out to the Bulgarian troops, and also the stories of the massacre of the wounded at the hands of the Bulgarians, are described as "pure inventions."

VIENNA, July 3.

Telegrams from Sofia state that the Bulgarians have crossed the Vardar River, north of Krivolak, while the main body of Bulgarians is directed against Egri Palanka, 32 miles south-east of Vranja (Servia).

Another force is advancing on Salonika.

LONDON, July 4.

The Sofia correspondent of the "Times" says Bulgaria declares that the Servian advance towards Istib was repulsed, and 1000 Servians were captured.

ALLEGED ATROCITIES.

BELGRADE, July 4.

Foreign consuls who visited Ghevgheli report that the allegations against the Bulgarians of committing brutalities on wounded Servian and Greek soldiers, were found to be true.

The wounded reaching Belgrade continue to narrate incredible stories of Bulgarian atrocities on the helpless Servian sufferers on the battlefields.

GREEKS V. BULGARIANS.

ATHENS, July 4.

The Greeks have continued their lightning advance and an official despatch now reports heavy Bulgarian losses outside Salonika.

The report indicates that the Greek losses were considerable, but not excessive.

Four Bulgarian quickfirers were captured.

It was in a similar manner that the Greeks captured Giouvesna. The Bulgarians there had eight regiments with artillery, and the Greeks were unable to use their field guns owing to the nature of the ground, but their infantry acted brilliantly and drove the Bulgarians towards Ligovane.

The report adds that the Greeks also had a desperate but successful engagement at Kilkish.

ATHENS, July 4.

It is semi-officially announced that the Greek army has captured Ghevgheli and Kilkiss after a sanguinary battle.

LONDON, July 4.

The Sofia correspondent of the "Times" states that the slaughter of the Bulgarians in Salonika has aroused intense indignation in Sofia. It is reported that M. Sazonoff, the Russian Minister for Foreign Affairs, has forwarded a protest to the Greek Government in regard to the affair, couched in the most severe language.

Bulgaria has demanded that their arms should be restored to all the Bulgarian captives in Salonika; that indemnities should be paid to the families of all those who were killed; and that the Greek troops should salute the Bulgarian flag.

ROUMANIA MOBILISING.

BUCHAREST, July 3.

TURKISH ATTITUDE.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 3.

The Porte has notified the Powers that it reserves for itself liberty of action in the event of war in Macedonia.

The Turkish press rejoices over the complications in the Balkans, and hopes that Turkey will profit by the situation.

Later.

POLITICAL PLOT IN CHINA.

EXECUTION OF CONSPIRATORS.

PEKING, July 3.

A conspiracy was discovered at Wuchang, which aimed to supersede General Li Huan Hung, by Chi Yu Lin, a member of the Kuo Ming Tang party.

Fifty of the conspirators were executed, but Chi Yu Lin escaped.

SCOTT WILL CASE.

LADY SACKVILLE'S EVIDENCE

A DRAMATIC SCENE.

LONDON, July 3.

The hearing was resumed in the Probate Court to-day of the suit in which Mr. Malcolm Scott is opposing the granting of probate of the will of his brother, the late Sir John Murray Scott, on the ground of alleged undue influence on the part of Lady Sackville.

The court was crowded, and there was an unprecedented gathering of Judges in the gallery.

Many society ladies took part in an undignified scuffle in the crush for admission to other parts of the court.

Lady Sackville continued her evidence, and was under examination and cross examination for five hours. On the whole, she gave her evidence with composure, and frequently smiled.

She said that Sir John Murray Scott after the death of his mother told her he would leave her £200,000 and the furniture in his London and Paris houses. Subsequently he decided to withhold £50,000, which was to be used to maintain Knole House (the residence of the Sackvilles) during his lifetime.

Witness denied having been in Sir John's house on the occasion referred to by Major Arbuthnot when he stated that he saw two ladies in the library in the act of closing a drawer.

She explained the money payments of Sir John to herself and her husband and father, saying: "We all had our little gambles on Siberian Development and Siberian Goldfields—both of which were disastrous." The cheque for Sir John's share of the losses was paid through her because he did not want Mr. Malcolm Scott to know that any shares had been bought except through him (Malcolm).

Cross-examined, she denied saying that she intended to wean Sir John from his family.

A dramatic scene occurred when Mr. F. E. Smith, K.C. (counsel for the plaintiff), read a letter written by Lady Sackville to a lady friend in which she stated: "S. has made a fresh will, leaving everything he has dangled before my eyes for the last ten years away from us."

The witness burst into tears, and passionately denounced the production of the letter.

After reading the letter, Mr. Smith suggested that her ladyship had become wearied of awaiting Sir John's death, and the delay in receiving the benefits she had anticipated.

When she recovered from her sobbing, witness, in a few broken sentences, repudiated Mr. Smith's interpretation of the letter as showing disloyalty to Sir John. She said she had repeatedly written him, saying he could do as he liked with his money.

Regarding her former statement that Mr. Walter Scott was in love with her, and that she had on one occasion left him on his knees, she was asked if he actually followed her across the room on his knees.

"He did," she replied, "like that," and, bending her two forefingers, moved them in turn along the rail of the witness-box in imitation of a man crawling on his knees.

The court was convulsed with laughter, and her ladyship smiled triumphantly, then added, "It was the most ridiculous thing I have ever seen."

RAND STRIKE.

MILITARY CALLED OUT.

PRETORIA, July 3.

JOHANNESBURG, July 3.

Owing to sabotage on the East Rand, 2000 Imperial troops have been sent to the Witwatersrand, to co-operate with the police.

The Miners' Association declares that nearly all the miners have struck, and the remainder will be out to-morrow.

July 4.

The employers scout the idea of arbitration, on the ground that there is nothing to arbitrate upon.

Strong contingents of soldiers have been sent to guard the various power stations.

A ballot of the local branches of the Engineers' Union has resulted in favour of a strike by a 9 to 1 majority.

The carpenters and joiners' unions have unanimously decided to strike, and the masons' ballot has resulted in a verdict of 81 to 13 in favour of a stoppage.

A feature of the miners' attitude is the ease with which they have been influenced by irresponsible agitators, even on the mines, where the ballot showed a majority against striking, and it is obvious that the hands of the union leaders have been forced.

THE LONDON VIEWPOINT.

LONDON, July 4.

It is calculated in the City that if the whole of the Rand mines are held up throughout July the outlook will be serious, because the London bullion market has counted on the arrival of £3,000,000 worth of gold, which will then not be available. The Bank of England's share in the deficiency will probably be £2,200,000.

It is, however, generally anticipated that the strike will be short-lived, owing to the grave danger to all parties, including the miners if the native mine workers are rendered idle for any length of time.

It is estimated that the Miners' Union funds will not suffice to yield even exiguous strike pay beyond three weeks, and the Government, which derives much revenue from the mines, is bound to do its utmost to effect a settlement by acting wisely and firmly in the interests of peace.

A large volume of insurance has been effected in London to cover mine buildings and stores for a month and, in one or two cases, for six weeks.

THE KING.

PROPOSED VISIT TO DOMINIONS.

LONDON, July 3.

Referring to the report that the King intended to visit Canada and possibly Australia next year, the "Pall Mall Gazette" states: "It may be regarded as quite certain that the King and Queen will visit Canada first, and afterwards South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand, as circumstances permit."

PARLIAMENTARY TOUR.

LONDON, July 4.

As the visit to Australia is official, the members of Parliament who are to take part in the forthcoming tour under the auspices of the Empire Parliamentary Association regret that their stay in New Zealand will be of the briefest character, but they hope to meet the members of the Dominion Parliament in Wellington.

A few of the delegates will travel direct to Sydney, and join the main party there.

The delegates will join the steamer Marathon at Fremantle on October 1, and it is proposed that the South African tour shall include visits to Durban, Capetown, Pretoria, and Johannesburg.

CANADIAN FOREST FIRES.

OTTAWA, July 3.

Refugees arriving at North Bay tell thrilling stories of the terrific bush fires and the attendant loss of life in the Porcupine and Bell River districts.

In many cases women and children were taken for hundreds of miles in canoes down the river, while raging flames threatened them from both banks.

All peril, however, has now passed.

QUARANTINED.

A FEDERAL ACT.

SMALL-POX EPIDEMIC.

PROTECTING THE OTHER STATES.

PROCLAMATION ISSUED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

This evening the Governor-General, with the advice of the Federal Executive Council, issued a proclamation declaring that the locality within a radius of 15 miles of Sydney General Post-office was to be considered as a quarantined area.

Immediately steps were taken by the Minister for Customs (Mr. Groom) and the newly-appointed Director of Quarantine (Dr. J. H. L. Cumpston) to draw up regulations to meet the situation, and these were presented to his Excellency late to-night.

In effect they provide that all persons leaving the quarantine area for other States must produce a certificate showing that they have been effectively vaccinated since the outbreak was first discovered, or within the last five years.

These regulations will not apply to persons leaving Sydney to-morrow, but it is understood that those who desire to leave by the express trains on Monday night will be called upon to satisfy the quarantine officers that they have complied with the regulations.

The action of the Government was made public by the Minister for Customs (Mr. Groom), who is head of the Quarantine Department. All this afternoon he was in conference with the newly-appointed Director of Quarantine (Dr. Cumpston), and by half-past 6 o'clock the proclamation and regulations relating to the quarantine of Sydney were drawn up and submitted for approval to a meeting of the Federal Executive Council, which was held at Government House.

In making his announcement, Mr. Groom said that, on the advice of his officers, he considered it necessary to take immediate steps to safeguard the health of the community.

Continuing, he said: "Immediately information was received at this office of the fact that there was likely to be a smallpox epidemic in Sydney, Dr. Cumpston, who has been appointed Director of Quarantine, in succession to Dr. Norris, was immediately despatched to New South Wales to consider every phase of the situation. During the whole of the time he was in Sydney he was in close consultation with the State authorities on the matter, and made inquiries in every direction. He returned to Melbourne at midday to-day, and wasted no time in putting the facts before me. As already stated in the press, the origin of the epidemic is ascribed to the introduction in a mild form of the disease from Vancouver. The theory has been closely inquired into, and it would appear to be that there has been no fault in the quarantine system; nor any laxity on the part of the officers. Assuming this origin of the epidemic to be the correct one, no quarantine system could well have prevented it. It is, however, not certain that this theory is correct, but it is a possibility that cannot be ignored. Whatever be the origin, however, the disease has manifested itself in an exceptionally mild form, and a considerable number of people have been attacked and have recovered, many without having suffered more than a slight inconvenience. Extensive precautions have been, and are being, taken by the Sydney health authorities to prevent the spread of, and to stamp out, the disease, and with the object of protecting the other States, by the exercise of reasonable precautions, a proclamation has been issued under the Quarantine Act by the Commonwealth Government declaring Sydney to be a quarantined area.

"This will enable regulations to be put into force prescribing the precautions to be taken in regard to the ingress to or the egress from the quarantine areas, should such action be found necessary. The precautions will probably embrace the detention of any person suffering or suspected to be suffering from the disease, or of any person who has been exposed to infection, and also the vaccination of, or the production of a certificate of successful recent vaccination by any persons who have been within the affected area. There is no ground for alarm on the part of the public, as it is considered that with the efforts now being made by the local health authorities the disease is practically under control, and will be shortly stamped out.

"It would be eminently desirable that any persons who are travelling to and from Sydney should be vaccinated, in order that they may escape the possibility of infection, and be free from the inconvenience of detention. All the medical officers appointed under the laws of any State of the Commonwealth relating to public health are appointed quarantine officers under the Quarantine Act. It is the intention of the Commonwealth authorities to act in conjunction with those of the States.

"Throughout this matter the officers of the Commonwealth intend to act in entire and complete harmony with the State authorities. At half-past 6 to-night, by virtue of the proclamation which has been issued, an area of 15 miles radius of the G.P.O., Sydney, will be under quarantine, and the regulations will deal with the control of the interstate aspect; that is to say, passengers coming into other States from New South Wales will be subject to them. The State authorities are administering all matters within the area and within the State itself. The Commonwealth will only control the passage of persons moving from Sydney to other States. The position will be now that travellers may go to Sydney from the other States, but they will not be able to get out of the affected area without showing that they have been effectively vaccinated. As for the man within Sydney proper, I take it that he will not be inconvenienced, but once he attempts to leave the city he will come under the observation of either the State or Commonwealth authorities. I would like to point out that the regulations, which will come into force almost immediately (although not to-morrow), provide for a penalty of £50 for any breaches as soon as the regulations come into operation. Steps will be taken to have them carried out, but the travelling public will not be inconvenienced any more than is absolutely necessary from a health point of view."

THE PROCLAMATION.

HOW TRAVELLERS ARE AFFECTED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Copies of the proclamation issued by his Excellency the Governor-General (Lord Denman) to-night will not be available till to-morrow morning, but the spirit of it is as follows:—

(1) An area as within 15 miles of the General Post Office, Sydney, is infected with a quarantinable disease, to wit, smallpox.

(2) I hereby declare Sydney within the area as under quarantine.

(3) All places and goods within the area shall be subject to quarantine regulations.

At a late hour to-night Mr. Groom made available in full the regulations which will apply to the new situation as they had been approved by his Excellency the Governor-General. They read as follows:—

(1) The master of every vessel carrying any passenger or passengers from or through the port of Sydney must furnish on arrival at each Australian port a full list of the names of all passengers from or through the port of Sydney.

(2) No person who has not been successfully vaccinated shall leave the proclaimed quarantined area of the metropolitan district of Sydney, in the State of New South Wales, for the purpose of journeying to any other State.

(3) Every person leaving or about to leave the proclaimed quarantine area of the Metropolitan district of Sydney, in the State of New South Wales, for the purpose of journeying to another State shall produce on demand of a quarantine officer a certificate of successful vaccination issued by the department of Public Health of a State.

(4) A quarantine officer may order into quarantine any person found in any other State of the Commonwealth, who has left the proclaimed quarantine area of the metropolitan district of Sydney, in the State of New South Wales, and who does not on demand of a quarantine officer produce a certificate of successful vaccination issued by the Department of Public Health of a State.

(5) Where a quarantine officer has ordered any person into quarantine under regulation four of these regulations, he may release such person under quarantine surveillance upon the production of a certificate of successful vaccination issued by the Department of Public Health of a State.

(6) Each person journeying from within the proclaimed quarantine area of the metropolitan district of Sydney, in the State of New South Wales to any other part of Australia shall be under quarantine surveillance and shall report himself for examination at such times and at such places as may be prescribed by either a quarantine officer or any officer appointed under the laws of any State relating to Public Health.

(7) For the purposes of these regulations successful vaccination shall mean successful vaccination not more than five years prior to the commencement of these regulations.

(8) Any person committing a breach of any of these regulations shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding fifty pounds.

ADDITIONAL CASES.

THE SCOURGE IN OTHER LANDS.

The Director-General of Public Health stated last night that there are 54 persons at the quarantine station.

Nineteen are patients, and the remainder contacts, or in the convalescent stage.

On Thursday there were 12 people at North Head suffering from the disease—yesterday seven more were discovered.

Dr. Suckling has been appointed to take charge of the quarantine station.

Five hundred tubes of vaccine are received from Melbourne daily. "It is all fresh," said Dr. Paton, "and there is enough in each tube to vaccinate four persons."

Yesterday 700 persons presented themselves at the Albert-street admission depot for free vaccination. Between 500 and 600 attended at the Town Hall for the same purpose.

Nine hundred tubes of vaccine were issued yesterday to medical men.

One of the medical officials at the Board of Health, who was practising in Edinburgh when an outbreak occurred there several years ago, advises the public to be vaccinated. "It is the only hope," he said yesterday. "Many people do not like the idea of arm to arm vaccination. There is no such thing these days. We are using calf lymph, and there is absolutely no risk."

The doctor was reminded of a story related by Professor David in connection with the South Pole expedition. Professor David had stated that all the members of the party were well until a number of blankets were opened up. They then commenced to sneeze, and the whole party was prostrated with influenza. The doctor interposed with the remark that direct contact is necessary in order to contract smallpox.

Osler, in his Practice of Medicine, states that smallpox smoulders here and there in different localities, and when conditions become favourable becomes epidemic. This was well illustrated by the celebrated Montreal outbreak of 1885. For several years there had been no smallpox in the city, and a large unprotected population grew up among the French Canadians, many of whom were opposed to vaccination. On February 28 of that year, a Pullman-car conductor, who had travelled from Chicago, where the disease had been slightly prevalent, was admitted into the Hotel Dieu, the civic smallpox hospital being at the time closed. Isolation was not carried out, and on April 1 a servant in the hospital died of smallpox. Following her decease, with a negligence absolutely criminal, the authorities of the hospital dismissed all patients presenting no symptoms of contagion, who could go home. The disease spread like fire in dry grass, and within nine months there died in the city of smallpox 3164 persons.

In the United States, according to Dr. Wyman's last report for the fiscal year 1904, there had been a steady decrease. The figures for 1903 were 42,590 cases and 1642 deaths; for 1904 25,106 cases and 1118 deaths. In England and Wales there were 760 deaths in 1903, a rate of 23 per million living; the rates in the previous four years having been 5, 3, 7, and 75 severally.

Smallpox also has its peculiar kinds, which take one form during one series of years and another during another. Not only does the epidemic constitution vary greatly, but one sometimes sees the most extraordinary variations in the intensity of the disease in members of a family, all exposed to the same infection. A striking illustration of this variability is on record. Epidemics have been of so mild a character that in many localities the disease has been mistaken for chicken-pox; in others, particularly in the United States, the belief prevailed that a new disease had arisen, to which the name "Cuban itch" or "Philippine itch" was given. Very often a correct diagnosis has not been reached until a fatal case has occurred. A small outbreak occurred in one of Dr. Sydenham's wards for coloured patients which was mistaken at first for chicken-pox. The same peculiarities have been observed in the Leicester, Nottingham, and Cambridge outbreaks. Even in unvaccinated children the disease has been exceedingly mild. Some of the Leicester cases, according to Dr. Alan Warner, had only a few pocks, but Ostler mentions that this is an old story in the history of the disease. John Mason Good, in commenting on this very point, refers to the great variability in the epidemics, and states that he himself, as a child of 6 (1770), passed through smallpox with "scarcely any disturbance and not more than 20 scattered pustules."

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.

INCREASED VIRULENCE DREADED.

VACCINATED CONTACTS RELEASED.

It is somewhat too soon, said Dr. Paton last night, to make any definite statement as to how far the exertions of the department in checking the epidemic during the past few days have been successful, but he views the situation with some amount of hope, although it cannot be denied that, owing to the fact that the disease had become so widely spread before its nature was recognised, there are very considerable possibilities of its extension before the restrictive measures now in operation can be expected to show much in the way of results.

At the present time there are 52 persons in the quarantine station, North Head, of whom 24 were sent down yesterday. Of these 52 persons, 21 are in hospital, although only one or two of them are at all seriously ill. The mildness of the epidemic has so far been the strong feature throughout; but the authorities view the possibility of an increase in virulence with some dread. Nineteen of the persons at the station are convalescent from the disease, and it is expected they will be discharged in the course of a few days. The remaining 17 persons in quarantine are actual house contacts of the patients; these have all been vaccinated and will be released if their vaccination is successful.

It may be mentioned here that owing to the widespread nature of the epidemic the practice is being followed of vaccinating freely all persons with whom patients have been even in casual contact, and in addition of removing the actual house contacts to North Head. This will explain why the number of contacts that are under detention is not as large as might be expected. Removal of actual house contacts is thought to be sufficient under present conditions.

VACCINATION.

The appeal made by Dr. Paton two days ago to the general public to get vaccinated has already borne most encouraging results, and the opening of vaccination depots at the Department of Public Health and the Town Hall during the last two days show most clearly that the public are beginning to realise not only the danger arising from the epidemic, but also the advantages to be gained from vaccination.

On Thursday about 250 people were vaccinated at the departmental depot, and yesterday when the depot at the Town Hall was opened for the first time, about 1200 people presented themselves there, in addition to about 500 at the departmental depot.

Requests by medical men for supplies of lymph have been continuous, and it is estimated that 600 tubes, calculated to vaccinate about 2500 people, have been supplied.

EMPLOYERS CO-OPERATE.

An encouraging feature is that the owners of several large warehouses and factories have approached the department with a view to obtaining sufficient lymph to vaccinate all their employees, and to as far as possible make it compulsory.

It is hoped that before many days are over the statement that under 5 per cent. of the people of Sydney are vaccinated—which has held good for so many years—will no longer be a fact, and that the proportion of vaccinated persons in the community will rise to a respectable percentage.

The medical staff of the department has been increased by the engagement of five additional medical men, occupied in visiting cases reported as suspicious, and in carrying out vaccination of contacts and of the general public at the two vaccination depots before mentioned. The medical men are being assisted in the latter work by expert assistants from the department's microbiological laboratory, and by two nurses specially engaged for the purpose.

Besides the above a staff of nurses has been sent from the Coast Hospital to attend to the patients at North Head, and Dr. Suckling, an officer of the department, has been placed in charge of the medical work at the station.

The Commonwealth Government has made the station and its officers available for the reception of patients and contacts under the general supervision of Dr. C. W. Reid, the chief quarantine officer of the State.

The ambulance staff of the Health Department, as may be imagined, has been exceedingly busy in the transport of patients from their homes to the departmental depot at Woolloomooloo, from whence patients are removed by steamer to North Head.

THE DISINFECTORS.

Three gangs of competent disinfectors have been established under the control of the department's sanitary inspectors, and as soon as patients are removed from their homes the disinfectors enter and undertake the work of fumigation and general disinfection.

It will be seen that so far as the department is concerned no opportunities are being lost by it in its endeavour to cope with and prevent the spread of the disease, and notwithstanding that it appears to have obtained such a strong foothold it is to be hoped that before long some visible results of the department's operations will be evident in the diminution of the number of cases. The two factories which have been referred to on previous occasions have been closed and thoroughly disinfected, and all the employees vaccinated, so that there is no reason to anticipate any further trouble so far as they are concerned.

The department states that it has received every possible assistance from the proprietors, who fully recognise the benefit of the course of action followed.

RAILWAY PASSENGERS.

SHOULD BE VACCINATED.

The railway authorities stated yesterday that travellers who intend visiting the adjoining States would do well to bear in mind that regulations may be issued which will prohibit their doing so unless they have adopted the precaution of being vaccinated before leaving Sydney.

No official announcement has yet been made to this effect, but in view of the probability that such a course will be adopted, it is suggested to intending travellers by railway that it would be as well to take the necessary steps to secure immunity from delay in passing the borders of New South Wales into Queensland or Victoria by having recourse to vaccination before commencing their journey.

SHIPPING.

QUEENSLAND RESTRICTIONS.

No fresh action was taken by shipping companies yesterday regarding passengers' and vaccination. It was not, however, known during the day that Sydney had been proclaimed a quarantine area.

Vaccination will, of course, be necessary in the case of passengers for New Zealand, but so far as the shipping companies are concerned nothing has been done in this respect with regard to passengers leaving for interstate ports.

Inquiries at the offices yesterday elicited the information that passengers for Brisbane would, on arrival, be medically examined, and would be kept under surveillance until the authorities there were satisfied. Passengers booking for the northern port yesterday, however, were not asked to undergo vaccination before departure. This was said to be unnecessary as no official intimation to this effect had been received from the Federal quarantine authorities.

One intending passenger for Brisbane, Mr. P. Engelbert, was not satisfied with the assurance from a shipping company that he would not have to undergo vaccination, and he accordingly sent a private telegram to Dr. Elkington, Health Department, Brisbane, which read as follows:—

"Are you placing any restrictions on passengers leaving Saturday or Sunday from Sydney by boat or train. If so, what? (Signed) Engelbert, 62 York-street."

Yesterday afternoon he received the following reply:—

"Official vaccination required. Release under surveillance conditionally, report seventh and fourteenth days Brisbane office. (Signed) Commissioner."

Although Mr. Engelbert had made all arrangements to leave for Brisbane to-day, on receiving the answer to his telegram he decided to postpone his visit. It is understood that the shipping companies with vessels leaving for Brisbane are arranging to have the names and full addresses of all Sydney passengers ready for the quarantine authorities if required.

STRINGENT PROVISIONS.

ACTION IN QUEENSLAND.

SURVEILLANCE OF PASSENGERS.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The Home Secretary stated that the department did not desire to create a scare in Queensland, but it wanted the public to realise the danger should the epidemic be introduced.

A telegram received by the Commissioner of Public Health from the Director of Quarantine (Dr. Cumpston) stated that he proposed to legislate in connection with the outbreak. No tickets would be issued to any railway passenger, except on the production of an official certificate of vaccination. For the first week a certificate that vaccination had been performed will be accepted. Thereafter a certificate of successful vaccination only will be accepted. The name and the address of the passenger at the destination is to be given on the receipt of the ticket. A list of passengers will be carried by the guard and handed to an officer of the Queensland department at Wallangarra or other point fixed by the Commissioner. All passengers will be released by this officer under surveillance to report to the Health Office on the seventh and fourteenth days, or if illness occurs.

Similar measures will be adopted with regard to shipping.

In a report to the Home Secretary, the Health Commissioner stated that the necessary acion was being put in hand with all possible despatch. On first learning in Melbourne of the existence of suspicious disease in Sydney, he instructed Dr. Moore by telegram to take the necessary initial steps to make ready for emergency, and interviewed the Director of Quarantine to secure co-operation in respect to interstate traffic and otherwise. Upon confirmation yesterday of the diagnosis, and on receipt of information concerning the proposed Federal arrangements for dealing with interstate traffic, an officer was sent to Wallangarra to examine the vaccination certificates and issue surveillance forms.

A supply of vaccine has been ordered, and the existing supplies are being made available without charge to medical men, and for public vaccination. All medical men in Southern Queensland have been notified by circular, and requested to report suspicious cases. A public vaccination depot has been established in the city.

VACCINATION.

EARLY APPLICANTS IN VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A few young men, who intended to proceed to New South Wales, called at the Health Department to-day, and asked to be vaccinated. They were treated by Dr. Johnson.

The health authorities, while pointing out that there is no cause for alarm, advise persons who have escaped vaccination, or who have not been vaccinated for ten or more years, to present themselves for treatment.

The Chief Medical Officer (Dr. Robertson), after his return from Sydney to-day, stated that the Victorian health officers would work in conjunction with the Federal quarantine officers. The department had provided facilities for free vaccination, and he trusted that these would be largely availed of. The cases in Sydney were mild, but there was no knowing yet how far the outbreak would spread, and in their own interests people should take precautions.

"We shall try to arrange," he said, "that the New South Wales Railway Department shall not issue any interstate railway tickets to this or any other State, unless the demand for a ticket is accompanied by a certificate of effective vaccination. Probably we shall arrange that the people who come here from Sydney shall come up to the Health Department to be inspected on arrival, and also at frequent periods during a certain time. The period during which they will have to present themselves for inspection will depend on the persons, because some people are more liable to infection than others. It is the intention of the Health Department to establish depots at different parts of the city, where free vaccination will be performed."

VICTORIAN RAILWAYS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. McLelland, one of the Commissioners for Railways, when interviewed to-night, said that the Railway Department would be absolutely in the hands of the Federal Quarantine Department, and the health authorities.

"We shall issue tickets to Sydney if they are wanted," added Mr. McLelland. "Those who take them, take them at their own risk. Probably what will be done in other directions will be the same as was done when the plague was here. The passengers from Sydney will have to present certificates, and a depot will be established at Albury to examine those who come through and quarantine them there or not as may be necessary."

DR. CUMPSTON'S STATEMENT.

FIVE YEARS' VACCINATION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Dr. Cumpston, the Director of Federal Quarantine, who returned from Sydney tonight, said:—"The fact that Sydney has been quarantined automatically brings certain regulations under the Quarantine Act into force. The control of shipping and the control of passenger traffic by train will automatically pass into the hands of the Federal Quarantine Department. At the present time I don't think the precautions will be operative until Monday, but by then it is probable that we shall require every passenger who wishes to leave Sydney to present a vaccination certificate, with a request for a ticket. We shall probably also require everyone wishing to leave either by boat or by rail to be effectively vaccinated. We may accept vaccination during the last five years, as evidence of having been effectively vaccinated, but we shall not accept infantile vaccination."

THEATRICAL COMPANY AFFECTED.

An instance of the inconvenience to which people travelling from Sydney will be put if the Melbourne health authorities' proclamation is enforced, is provided by the Oscar Asche-Lily Brayton Theatrical Company. This combination of artists is due to leave Sydney by Sunday night's express for Melbourne, en route for Adelaide, where they open next week. A declaration of quarantine against Sydney will mean enormous inconvenience and a very great deal of financial loss to the company, that is, if it means the interruption of their travelling arrangements.

Mr. Westmacott, the manager of the company, was spoken to last night. He was in the throes of adjustment matters with the firm of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., and had no time to talk. He received the news of the proclamation very ruefully, but simply remarked: "Of course, if we have all to be vaccinated, we will be vaccinated without delay, and if the proclamation holds us up, of course, we are law-abiding citizens, and will have to put up with it."

NEW ZEALAND SAFEGUARDS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Friday.

In the Legislative Council, an hon. member asked whether the Government would consider the advisability of having all school children vaccinated, because of the presence of smallpox in Australia.

Mr. H. Bell said the Government was aware of the grave danger to people in the Dominion. In the opinion of those best qualified to judge, vaccination was the most efficient means of protection. The Government would rather trust to the good sense of the people of the Dominion to ensure their people to be protected by vaccination; that course was preferred to any coercive measure.

POSITION OF COUNCILS.

CO-OPERATION WITH HEALTH BOARD.

The City Council and other councils are co-operating with the board, and the former has placed the basement of the Town Hall at its disposal as a vaccination depot, and has also placed at the board's disposal its entire health staff. "The councils have no control, direct or indirect," explained the City Health Officer (Dr. Armstrong) last night. "All we ask of them is to co-operate with us in every possible way."

A MISSING FARMER.

WAS HE MURDERED?

HUMAN REMAINS IN FIRE.

LAUNCESTON, Friday.

As the result of a discovery made at Mathina to-day, colour is lent to the supposition that William James Mullins, a farmer, who has been missing from his home since June 20, has been murdered.

Detective Gunner and a search party to-day discovered human remains in the debris of a fire in a gully three miles from Mullins' home. Human bones, teeth, buttons, some pieces of lead, and the remains of clothing were found, and these are reasonably supposed to be those of Mullins. It is considered that the missing man was murdered, and his body burned.

Mullins left his home on the morning of June 20 to go round some traps he had set for opossums two miles away, telling his wife he would be home for dinner. That was the last his family saw of him. The same day a number of shots were heard in the direction of the traps.

Chief Detective Weston and other police proceeded to Mathina to-night to further assist in the investigations.

WOMEN'S HOSPITAL MATINEE.

RECEIPTS TOP ALL RECORDS.

LEWIS WALLER'S DEBUT.

An excited audience that filled every part of Her Majesty's Theatre yesterday afternoon, enjoyed to the uttermost a dramatic and musical entertainment, the brilliancy of which was attested by the number of famous artists from overseas who took part in it. Oscar Asche and Lily Brayton, Clara Butt and Kennerley Rumford, Florence Young and the Comic Opera Company, Lewis Waller, George and Madge Titheradge, are all names to conjure with, and the great audience yielded in turn to the spell they exercised. "But before all things, God Save the King!" as old Colonel Sapt used to say in "The Prisoner of Zenda;" and so yesterday it was, "Before all things God save the Crown-street Hospital for Women!" Hence when Mr. Hugh J. Ward, the present Sydney head of J. C. Williamson, Ltd., to whom the perfect organisation of the matinee movement and much of the appeal outside it was due, came before the footlights to speak, a silence of absorbed expectancy fell upon the crowd. "What would he reveal? Would the house reach £1500? Possibly £1600? No one could say, and speculation faltered.

Mr. Ward realised the tense feeling in the air, and spoke with much deliberation. "Apart from all subscriptions elsewhere, there was in Her Majesty's Theatre that afternoon receipts amounting to—but, of course, he included the sales of sweets, programmes, and such like—the sum of (a pause!) £1962. (Enthusiasm.) It was the record for all Australia! (Tremendous cheering.) Aye, and so it should be, since it was for such a wonderful cause. (Cheers.) He thought it might be many years before they would get together so many eminent artists; but if ever they did do so—well, there would have to be another great hospital benefit. (Cheers.) He might add that he never liked to call upon the artists of the city for charitable service, because their response was always so ready, so generous, so cheerful in its unselfishness, that he was forced by considerations of justice and what was right to hesitate. (Cheers.) Then there were others, and he must name with gratitude Mr. Asche and Miss Brayton, Mme. Clara Butt and Mr. Rumford, and lastly, Mr. Lewis Waller, who surrendered his first appearance in Australia." (Cheers.) It was a big thing to do, and just like him. (Cheers.) The mention of Mr. Waller made him remember another valued helper who was making her debut, and he would ask their old friend Mr. G. S. Titheradge to introduce his daughter, the new leading lady of the Lewis Waller Company, to a Sydney audience." (Cheers.)

Mr. Titheradge, coming forward alone, remarked that it was a great many years since his own first appearance in Sydney, and he owed them gratitude for being able to endure him so long. (Cheers and laughter.) Gratitude had been defined as "a lively sense of favours to come," and as a matter of fact he had a favour to ask them in the introduction of his daughter Madge. (Cheers.) She had left Australia as a child, and had returned to it as a young woman. He was as much in the dark as they were in regard to her acting, but she was now asking the playgoers of her native land to ratify generously the favourable verdict upon her art which had been already declared by the audiences of London and New York. Should they do so, she would become the happiest of girls, and he the proudest of fathers. (Loud cheers.)

Miss Madge Titheradge, who was enthusiastically greeted, recited Kipling's dialogue ("Soldier, Soldier") between a sweetheart and the soldier bearing the news of her lover's death in battle, in one of those still, small voices of exquisite timbre that carry to the remotest parts of a theatre. Pathos and differentiation of character were subtly shown, and after various recalls Kipling's "The Gentleman Ranker" was added.

Mr. Hugh Ward then returned to hand the young actress an album of signed photographs of all the artists present, and put it up to auction through Mr. W. S. Percy, explaining that the idea was to raise the £38 needed to bring the receipts up to £2000. A voice started the bidding at £1, a chorus of "Five!" followed, and in two or three big jumps £50 was reached. All Mr. Percy's jokes failed to raise another bid, and Mr. Ward, truly remarking "Very handsome, anyway," added "Name?" and a gentleman in the circle replied Albert Sloose.

Mr. Lewis Waller's appearance was the signal for a storm of cheering. The famous actor recited Kipling's "The Ballad of the Clampherdown," a dialogue between the captain on the bridge and a young officer amidst the shells crashing into the engine-room below, which he delivered with great art, animation, and dramatic effect.

The programme opened with the second act of Alfred Cellier's graceful comedy-opera "Dorothy," with Mr. Percy hilariously in character as the tipsy Lurcher, Miss Celia Ghiloni as a humorous Mrs. Privett, and Messrs. Reginald Roberts and Talleur Andrews in the tenor and baritone roles, Victor Prince as the Squire, Miss Florence Young in the name part, and Miss Arundale as Lydia. Mr. Andrew MacCunn kept a watchful eye upon the singers and orchestra in the concerted numbers, and at short notice, all went joyfully, the audience rapturously encoring Miss Young's prestissimo "Tally Ho" song at the end. There were two other set pieces. The Wooing Scene from "The Taming of the Shrew" brought on Miss Lily Brayton as the handsome termagant Katherina bullying her gentle sister Bianca (Lilian Birtles), and quickly Mr. Herbert Grimwood as old Baptista, and other artists, were on with Mr. Oscar Asche as a laughing, jolly, and masterful Petruchio. The taming was carried out with delightful humour, and the principals were called and recalled again and again as the curtain fell. One of the star events of a memorable afternoon was the reappearance of Hugh J. Ward, after three years' retirement, in one of his famous characters as "The Vagabond." The comedian was fortunate in his association with Mr. Fred Niblo and Miss Beatrice Terry as the lovers who bring brightness to an otherwise tragic scene. The old soldier, who won his promotion as colonel before storming the heights of Mission Ridge, was left for dead upon the field, lost his memory for a long period of years, and became a tremulous, drink-ruined, aged vagabond, was truly, yet picturesquely, drawn. Amongst many pathetic touches, the falling cadence in the voice at the toast "Here's to the old flag," was one that moved the audience, and when the veteran tottered out into the storm sooner than shadow the happiness of his daughter and her artist lover, the audience acknowledged the power of the acting in renewed applause. Mr. Ward last played this sketch (with Grace Palotta and Arthur Cornell) at the Criterion Theatre in January, 1907.

Much of the more ephemeral interest of the matinee was due to brief contributions. Mr. Fred Niblo's impromptu monologues always keep our audiences in fits of laughter. He made great fun of "The Vagabond." "Did the audience hear Mr. Ward say to him, 'May I sit down by the fire?' Why, it was the manager's own fire all the time! There was a mockery for them! (Laughter.) Of course, the manager was the only one in the piece who ate anything, and the manager drank wine without even saying 'Excuse Me'—(roars of laughter)—whilst poor Niblo drank water!" The audience was in shrieks, and was kept amused with "a melodrama in a nutshell" until the actor retired with a laurel wreath! A burlesque sketch, "High Art," written by Victor Prince, to music by Andrew MacCunn, was divertingly carried out in three short acts by Messrs. Percy, Prince, and Charles Albert. Miss Vivien Talleur danced a pas seul bewitchingly, and Mr. Phil Smith joined successfully with Miss Arundale in "It Might be an Umpside Worse." Mr. Titheradge made a deep impression by the earnest feeling with which he recited the touching poem, "Think of the Woman!" especially written for the occasion by Adam McCay.

Mme. Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford's contributions stirred the crowded house to rapture. The baritone has not exhibited all this season for himself half as much voice and enthusiasm as he displayed in "The Two Grenadiers," in the cause of charity for others. To those who know his manner well, it was an astonishing effort. The house rose at him, and he responded with Harold Craxton's dainty rustic ballad, "Come You, Mary," accompanied by the composer. The star contralto sang the two Irish songs, "A Lover's Curse" and "I Know my Love," with undiminished art and voice. The house persisted in a riot of applause after the curtain had risen upon the next scene, until she generously returned with Mr. Rumford, who, after the customary and tuneful reluctance demanded by the lyrics, duly handed over "The Keys of Heaven."

"Last scene of all, that ends this strange, eventful history"—and a pretty one at that—was the presentation of a score of favourite artists "in character" to Mr. Lewis Waller. The newcomer made friends with them to such good purpose during the levee that when the curtain rose again they hailed him in full melodious harmony as "A Jolly Good Fellow."

In addition to those already named, the programme recorded the good services of Geo.

THE OBJECTIVE REACHED.

MR. HUGH J. WARD'S PLEASURE.

"It is accomplished," said Mr. Hugh J. Ward last night, referring to the campaign he undertook to relieve the Women's Hospital from debt. "The sum to be lifted was £7000—£2000 in accounts and a £5000 mortgage. The Chief Secretary in consenting to give £1 for every £1 we raised reduced the undertaking to £3500. Less than three weeks ago I began the publicity that focussed the public on the needs of the hospital, and turned the generous citizens toward the Lady Mayoress's appeal fund. This to-day stands at £1710 1s 6d. Add to this £2029 2s 6d, the amount taken at the matinee yesterday, and you have £3739, 4s, which is more than the sum aimed at. However, they can do with it all at the Women's Hospital. The secretary informed me last night that there was a great deal to be done with it. 'A few weeks ago,' he remarked, 'many things that were beyond our wildest hopes are now possible. The hospital can have an electric installation and a hot-water service now—two great blessings. We cannot quite realise it, but we are going to celebrate it to-morrow by having all the wards decorated with wattle blossom.' What I am thinking of," added Mr. Ward, "is how the institution will increase its capacity for good. I am also pleased beyond expression at the success of the campaign. It only shows how Sydney can rise to the occasion when the cause is one making a genuine appeal to the sympathy of the citizens."

COAL TRADE CHAOS.

WAITING FOR FUNDS.

MR. JOHNSON'S EXPLANATION.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The congestion in the coal traffic from the Maitland district and collieries in the West Wallsend district was worse than ever to-day. Five trains of Thursday's coal from the West Wallsend and Killingworth collieries had not arrived this morning. By 2 o'clock this afternoon two of the trains were on the lines at Cockle Creek, while steamers were waiting to be loaded with the coal.

The Chamber of Commerce had its fortnightly meeting to-day, and nearly the whole time was given up to the discussion of the disorganised state of the coal trade. A letter was received from the secretary to the Chief Commissioner stating that the chamber's letter of the 26th ultimo had been receiving the careful consideration of the Chief Commissioner, and that details for an additional crane were sent to England some time ago. A quotation from the makers had now been received by cable through the Agent-General, and as soon as funds were made available the Chief Commissioner was prepared to order a crane, and erect it immediately on arrival.

While the provision of the additional crane would to some extent facilitate the loading of coal, continued the latter, it was considered that a much greater increase in shipping power would be gained by the erection of a second M'Myler hoist, north of that now existing, and that the rate of shipment would be considerably accelerated by the provision of additional sorting sidings for empty trucks. Both those matters, the letter added, had been included in the loan estimates for 1913-1914, and on the money being made available the work would be immediately proceeded with.

IMMIGRATION.

INDIAN ARMY RESERVE MEN.

Archdeacon Boyce invited several people to afternoon tea at Bray's Cafe yesterday afternoon to meet Rev. H. C. Martin, who is visiting Australia with a view to the immigration of ex-service men and reservists from the Imperial Army in India. Mr. Martin is the general secretary of the Royal Army Temperance Association of India. Archdeacon Boyce welcomed Mr. Martin as a temperance advocate. Their guest had done a great deal for the cause of social reform, and had done good work in India.

Mr. Martin, in reply, dealt with the extraordinarily temperate state of the army in India, and said he was surprised to find the reverse in Sydney. As an instance, in one regiment of 1100 men they had only nine cases of drunkenness in a year, and 980 of the men were total abstainers. Half the members of the officers' messes drank barley-water. Dealing with the army reserve question, he said they had 7000 to 8000 men leaving the Indian Army every year. Unless they asked for a transfer to the colonies, they were sent back to England and discharged there. 4800 men wrote to him for advice on emigration last year.

SILVER RUSH.

A DISCOVERY NEAR WAGGA.

WAGGA, Friday.

Considerable excitement has been occasioned in the district by the discovery of what is believed to be valuable silver-bearing country on the property of P. Mulqueeney, at Malebo, about 14 miles from Wagga.

Mulqueeney's area of 80 acres has been divided into eight men's claims. A bulk assay is being obtained, one cwt of ore having been sent to the Cockle Creek smelting works. The result of the assay is expected shortly, and it is anticipated that a rich return will be secured.

In the area that is being prospected native silver and lead and other minerals have been found.

The lode is now four feet in width, and only one wall is showing. The whole of the farm has been applied for, and adjoining properties have also been taken up, as well as applications made for from 5000 to 6000 acres along the line of lode. The outcrop shows 100 yards on the surface, taking a direction north-east to south-west.

PICKING WINNERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The perspicuity of two detectives in making wagers on race horses was proved in the City Court to-day, when evidence was given that eight bets, involving a total outlay of £4, returned to them £19 10s. The evidence related to a charge preferred against Frederick O'Neill, who was arrested in a recent raid on betting offices. O'Neill was fined £50, with £20 costs.

Paul Barron was proceeded against on a charge of having assisted in conducting a common gaming house, and the Bench inflicted a fine of £20.

M'LOUGHLIN'S SUCCESS.

Commenting on the success of M. E. M'Loughlin, who defeated Doust in the final round of the singles in the contest for the All-England Championship, tennis experts declare: "His victory over Doust seals M'Loughlin's credentials in the English mind. Doust had the worst of such luck as there was, while the extraordinary thing about M'Loughlin's play from a spectacular standpoint was that, though he piled up mistakes which no player could afford, he won in straight sets."

MARCONI CONTRACT.

LONDON, July 3.

The Premier, Mr. Asquith, was asked, in the House of Commons this evening, a question as to whether the Government proposed to reopen negotiations with the Marconi Company while Ministers and the Liberal Party held shares in the American Marconi Company.

Mr. Asquith replied that the Postmaster-General, Mr. Herbert Samuel, would shortly make a statement with regard to contracts for the erection of wireless stations.

He added that he understood all the persons referred to had divested themselves of shares in the American Marconi Company.

It was announced last night that Lord Murray of Elibank will retain for himself the whole of the American Marconi shares which he bought on behalf of the Liberal party.

UNITED STATES TARIFF.

A UNIQUE INCIDENT.

WASHINGTON, July 3.

The Democratic caucus has adopted the tariff measure with but few amendments, and these, for the most part, lower the tariffs rather than increase them—a thing unique in the history of the United States.

The new rates are likely to become effective in October, except those in regard to sugar and wool, which will probably be decided on Saturday.

The vessel could not be beached, as the engines were silent, owing to the fires being out.

COUNTRY PARTY.

MR. BEEBY WARMLY RECEIVED

ATTACK ON THE LIBERALS.

"We must realise that our foundations are in the soil," declared Mr. P. Marchant, who presided over a gathering of between 250 and 300 at the "Farmer and Settler" dinner at the vestibule of the Town Hall last evening "to celebrate the inauguration of the Country Party Association."

Among those present were 40 delegates to the Farmers and Settlers' Conference, 40 delegates to the recent Dairy Conference, and 50 or 60 Country Party Association delegates.

"There is a story," said Mr. G. S. Beeby, who was received with sustained cheering, "of one of the anarchist clubs in Europe that on the night preceding every great crime the members had a dinner at the most expensive restaurant in the town. Judging by some of the remarks of the daily papers, this gathering, I am afraid, is regarded as a riotous prelude to some attack on our society in the future. I want to dispel any impression that may exist that those present are my guests. I am not your host, but an invited guest to a pleasant gathering, which is to be the prelude to a certain distinct and definite movement for the better and wider recognition of country interests. (Hear, hear.) The future of this country lies in the development of its interior. (Cheers.) Out of 240,000,000 acres in this State, out of 120,000,000 acres within the boundaries of the western area, less than 4,000,000 acres are under cultivation to-day. In spite of everything done in the past, and the expenditure of £20,000,000 in railways and irrigation works during the last 15 years, the size of holdings in this country between 50 and 1500 acres only increased at the rate of 700 per annum."

He believed that the meeting was not, as alleged, a gathering of a mere coterie interested in furthering the interests of certain men, but a spontaneous gathering of men who were awakening to the necessity of protecting and expanding the country interests of the State. (Cheers.)

Mr. H. D. Morton, M.L.A., said that as one pledged in every way to the formation of a new party in politics, he was glad to be present. They need have no fear as to how his party stood. They had always fought for the man on the land. The two parties to-day, which were a combination in restraint of freedom of thought and action, did not commend themselves to him. Meetings such as the present would have the desired effect in the immediate future. They wanted to concede the rights of cities, but the latter must consider the interests of the country folk. No policy would be acceptable unless accompanied by sympathetic administration of the land laws. They wanted to preserve the sacred right of the freehold tenure. (Cheers.)

Mr. Donaldson, M.L.A., said that the class of men he saw around him gave the lie direct to the class of articles appearing in the morning press as to the objects of the dinner party, more than all the talk that could be indulged in in three hours. His electorate had been wiped out, and he had to wrestle for a new seat, and he did not know if he would be in the next Parliament, but no Government would be tolerated that did not give justice to the country.

The chairman said he was sure the Country party would give Mr. Donaldson a chance for the seat.

Mr. Walter Bennett, in proposing the "Country party," said that if the Farmers and Settlers' Conference did not decide to form a separate entity it would only be masquerading and playing the fool. (Cheers.) The land laws were more liberal than ten years ago, but they were not liberal enough. He had read Mr. Wade's "whine" in the morning papers. If the Liberal party had been true to its claim the Labour Government would never have got to office. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. H. J. Stephens said there could be no greater condemnation of the Liberal party than the fact that the country constituencies went Labour because there was nothing better to vote for.

Mr. G. H. Blakemore suggested that if a country party were formed it should go to the Liberals or to the Labourites if they promised a railway.

MR. BEEBY'S SPEECH.

APPEAL FOR A NEW PARTY.

The Mayor of Woollahra (Alderman Magney) presided over a meeting held in the Town Hall last night to hear Mr. Beeby outline the policy of his new party. There was a good attendance, but the meeting was marked by considerable antagonism to the views put forward. The interruptions were so consistent that Mr. Beeby had to get one man removed and make appeals for a fair hearing. A majority of those who attended the "Farmer and Settler" dinner left the dining hall for the meeting place.

Mr. Beeby, who was received with applause, said he was taking action at the request of a large body of public men, who believed that the time had arrived when men who were not in accord with either of the parties in public life, should be heard. At various times in the history of countries public opinion moved in fixed channels. In course of time changes occurred, and people began to look for new outlets. At present many people felt that they should not bow to the domination of any cliques or parties of men. (Hear, hear.) They were beginning to realise that the time had arrived when a forward step should be taken to fill up their continent, and deal with other vastly important issues. (Hear, hear.)

INSISTENT ISSUES.

Wide issues in political life were becoming increasingly insistent, and they could not afford to neglect them. In New South Wales and in every State there were huge areas of unalienated land within easy access of their railways. While that condition of affairs was recognised the party war continued, and no step was taken with regard to regulated development. Men who desired to enter the political arena had to subscribe to a confession of faith put forward by one or other of the parties. He held that it was the absolute right of every man to submit himself to the electors, and not to any small coterie of individuals, who might turn him down or not just as the whim took them. (Applause.) He was told that this year would be the last in which he would be in public life. If that was the case, he said, it was the golden age of politics, for it gave him the opportunity of saying what he thought quite apart from the party machine. (Applause.)

The present system of selection led to a condition of affairs reminiscent of a game o' puss in the corner. (Hear, hear.) He had been in Parliament for six years, and learned that it was regarded as the duty of a Government to frame legislation and bludgeon its followers into passing its measures. Parliament had been reduced simply and solely into a body for the registration of factional decrees. (Applause.) He had been through the mill, and he thoroughly understood it. The Opposition had been reduced to offering factious opposition to all measures brought forward, and lost sight of the necessity of having some constructive policy to offer the people. (Applause.) The functions of the Government were administrative and legislative. Parliament was the body which should frame the legislation, and the Government should administer the statutes passed. Those functions could be restored, but drastic action was necessary before the reform could be effected.

PREFERENTIAL VOTING.

Mr. Beeby held that it was essential before the reform could be properly effected to introduce a system of preferential voting so that powerful minorities could get adequate representation. He urged that they had reached a position in which electoral reform was necessary to give them a wider selection of candidates, to break the party machine, and to strike a death blow at the degrading system of selection which candidates had to go through. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Beeby, who had been subjected to considerable interruption during his speech, was compelled to desist on account of a man shouting a counter address at the other end of the hall. The meeting was thrown into confusion, and it was some minutes before he could resume his speech.

LAND SETTLEMENT.

The speaker remarked that there were 129 million acres of idle land.

A voice: Why didn't you cut it up when you were Minister for Lands?

Mr. Beeby: Because I was tied to a machine that would not give me a chance. I was always met with bitter attacks from the men who should have stood by me in my effort.

Out of the 54,000,000 acres in Riverina, Mr. Beeby proceeded, only one million were under cultivation. On the tablelands there were 19,000,000 acres, of which only 400,000 were under cultivation. On the coastal districts the respective figures were 12,500,000 and 505,000. The country could swallow the United Kingdom and France and another European nation, and yet there were only 40,000 families on the land.

Mr. Beeby: That we should inscribe a new banner, with the words, "Use, or let others use." (Cheers.)

The speaker explained that he did not care twopence for the landowner, but the land should be brought into productive use. Between the two parties nothing was done. Certain districts should be proclaimed closer settlement areas, and if only one-twentieth of the holdings were opened up 500,000 acres would automatically come under production each year. Mr. Wade's statement in the morning papers that his proposal meant confiscation and robbery showed the gross dishonesty with which party politics were played in Australia to-day. He would never be a party to repudiation or confiscation.

A lady: Mr. Beeby, why don't you tell the same yarn to the country as you do in the town?

FREEHOLD v LEASEHOLD.

Mr. Beeby held that population was the vital principle which they had to consider. He would give to every man the freehold of the land allotted to him. (Applause.) While the Labour party was quibbling about shallow principles they neglected the vital issue.

A voice: You're a lovely twister, Beeby. You're another yes-no.

Mr. Beeby: If they brought into cultivation year after year huge areas of land in close proximity to their railways, freights would automatically reduce themselves 5 per cent. every year. It was possible to create a unanimity of opinion on the land question, which, if created, would lead to a solution of many of their difficulties.

Mr. H. D. Morton, M.L.A., moved the following resolution:—That, in the opinion of this meeting, the time has arrived for the adoption by Parliament of a scheme of Parliamentary reform, including preferential voting, and the modification of the present rigid system of party government.

Mr. Donaldson, M.L.A., seconded the motion, and it was carried.

COAL MINE ON FIRE.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Every effort has been made to combat the outbreak, but the flames are now reaching to a height of 20 feet from the tunnel mouth.

Dense volumes of smoke are issuing from a hole caused by subsidence, some distance from the tunnel, which the proprietors are making every effort to seal. The air shaft has already been sealed.

The pit has been idle for the past fortnight, owing to the owners having been notified that they must have a first-class driver to work the engines, whom they have been unable to procure.

Yesterday one of them went down the tunnel, and saw no signs either of smoke or fire.

WOLLONDILLY.

CANDIDATES NOMINATED.

John Gray Pearson, dentist, Camden, Independent.

The Premier (Mr. Holman) will speak in support of the Labour candidate at Moss Vale on Wednesday next. This will be his first political address since he returned from England and assumed the leadership.

Mr. Wade will speak at Moss Vale to-night in support of Mr. Badgery.

AN IMPASSE.

WAGES OF DAY LABOURERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

This afternoon the Assistant-Minister for Home Affairs (Mr. Kelly) issued the following statement:—

"Owing to the delayed resignation of the previous Government, the present Administration is placed in a very extraordinary position with regard to the payment of the wages of a section of Commonwealth employees.

"The first bi-monthly salaries of the Public Service during the new financial year fall due on July 15, and although it only took over on June 26, the Government has called Parliament together on July 9 to make provision for the payment of such expenditure. But in the meantime the wages of day-labour employees are falling due almost daily, and the present Government finds that its predecessors have made no financial provision whatsoever to meet a situation which they knew must arise, and of which they took no steps to warn their successors.

"The matter was first brought to my notice on July 1 by the officers of the department of which I am Acting Minister, and I brought this matter, on the same day, under the notice of my colleagues, who have with myself been seeking since to find a way out of the impasse in which our predecessors—whether by design or carelessness—have placed us. We are still seeking a way out from this position, and I still have a hope that employees, who have given their services, and are entitled to their pay, will not be compelled to wait for the same by reason of the late Government having fixed the elections so unprecedentedly late in the year, and given us so little time to discover the basis of payment of the day labour in the Commonwealth service.

BOXING.

SULLIVAN v BRADLEY.

A contest of more than usual interest will be staged at the Stadium to-night, when the English middleweight, Jim Sullivan, will be opposed to the unbeaten Pat Bradley. Bradley has had a remarkable career, having won practically all his contests by means of a knock-out, and he holds the welterweight championship of Australia. In Sullivan, he will be meeting the best man he has yet had to face, and a bigger and heavier man at that; but while he may not rank with Sullivan as a boxer pure and simple, his admirers expect his wonderful hitting power to pull him through. The contest will commence at half-past 8.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Moorefield Racing Club holds its July fixture this afternoon, and the interesting bill of fare for the occasion includes hurdle racing, and a contest for juveniles. The recent fine weather has benefited the track, and the general appointments are up to the customary standard. In addition to the ordinary traffic by rail to Kogarah, special trains will start from the Central Railway station at 11.15 a.m. (horses and attendants), 12.15, 12.34, 12.46, 12.55, 1.6, and 1.14 p.m., and the sport commences at 2.10 p.m., with the Hurdle Race, in which the places may go to Foothold, Monsieur, and Zoeholme. Multum in Parvo, Dion, and Malheur may get home as named in the Stewards' Mile, and the situations in the Kogarah Stakes may be occupied by Edinburgh, Willinera, and St. Moritz. Peel River, Doreen G., and Null may pass the judge in that order in the Juvenile Handicap; Scarlette Trent, Rubecula, and Riverbird may divide the honours in the Moorefield Handicap; and unless Multum in Parvo be reserved for the Welter Handicap, the places may be filled by Moville, War Star, and Colbine.

The scratchings notified yesterday in connection with the principal handicaps of the A.J.C. Spring Meeting were Ventura out of the Epsom Handicap, and Midnight Sun out of The Metropolitan.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the Moorefield July Meeting were Lord Castlereagh, Playwell, and Sir Rica out of all engagements; Fragrant out of the Juvenile Handicap; and Valido out of the Stewards' Mile.

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

The following are additional riders in the Grand National Hurdle Race to-morrow:—Flash Jack (S. Neary), Goldfish (F. Burn), Bill Taft (E. M'Taggart), Bonnie George (G. Woodburn), Recollect (H. W. Hustler).

VICTORIA RACING CLUB.

G.N. STEEPLECHASE MEETING.

ANTICIPATIONS.

Flemington will, this afternoon, be the Victorian sporting rendezvous, the attraction being the opening of the Grand National Steeplechase Meeting, and a highly interesting programme has been provided for the occasion. The card will be run through as under:—Maiden Hurdle Race, 1.30 p.m.; Iramoo Welter Handicap, 2.15 p.m.; G.N. Hurdle Race, 3 p.m.; Maiden Steeplechase, 3.35 p.m.; Myross Handicap, 4.10 p.m.; and Winter Handicap at 4.40 p.m. Large fields are promised, and high-class sport may be anticipated.

The most likely to figure prominently in the battle for the Maiden Hurdle Race are Gilowa, Porch, Golden Cairn, Gorlias, and Hispan, and the places may be filled by Gorlias, Gilowa, and Porch.

A big muster may be expected at the post for the Iramoo Welter, and at the weights, Atora, Meerut, Elvanite, Dewberry, and Peck o' Maut seem to have the best prospects, while the judge may declare for Atora, Elvanite, and Meerut.

Though the field for the Grand National Hurdle Race will not be so large as that for the corresponding event of last year's fixture, quality is well represented among the 22 acceptors. Obi, who heads the list with 11st 7lb, should, on his recent track form, be very hard to beat. Uxbridge has been asked to carry 12lb more than he had in the saddle when he secured the Australian Hurdle Race last August, and even with 11st 5lb he should run a good horse. The New Zealander, Wimmera, who ran second in the big race over the battens at Caulfield, has been similarly penalised for that performance, but he should also give a good account of himself. Eighteen Carat has not been overburdened with 11st 3lb; on the same mark Common King has no cause for complaint; and with 4lb less, Forest Prince has not been harshly treated. Hardrada reads nicely with 10st 9lb, and, with 6lb less, Dyor should be among the first flight towards the business end of the trip. The New Zealander Julian, with recent winning form on his side, has not improved his prospects by the knock he got on one of his knees when schooling in the early part of the week. Flash Jack seems to have an outside chance, and the prospects of Clontaft and Bill Taft seem the brightest of the others. A great contest may be expected, and the fighting-line towards the business end of the trip should include Obi, Wimmera, Forest Prince, Hardrada, Dyor, Flash Jack, Clontaft, and Bill Taft, and the numbers may be hoisted for Obi, Wimmera, and Dyor, unless separated by Forest Prince.

Westport, Goshen, and Tranbolt, read about the pick of the candidates for the Maiden Steeplechase, and they may occupy the situations.

The Myross Handicap should bring about a good race, in which Liquation, Jullundur, Bob Cherry, Miss Pat, and Cock-of-the-North, should be in evidence when the whips are cracking, and the honours may go to Bob Cherry, Liquation, and Jullundur.

The Winter Handicap brings the afternoon's sport to a close, and those with fair chances seem to be Loru, Mala, Orvieto, and Pearl King; and Loru, Mala, and Orvieto may pass the post in order.

BILLIARDS.

AIKEN v WILLIAMS.

The match at Alcock's Tournament Hall (Billiards, Ltd.) between Aiken and Williams was resumed yesterday. The overnight scores were:—

T. Aiken 5263

A. E. Williams (in play) 3987

The feature of the day's play was the resolute manner in which Williams battled to recover lost ground. Two nights ago he was 2000 points behind his rival; last night he reduced his deficit to 902, and he left off with 166 unfinished. At the end of the afternoon session the scores were:—

Williams 4655

EVENING SESSION.

The Scottish champion ran his 68 into 110 (full). His next nine visits to the table were remarkable, viz., 6, 0, 0, 0, 0, 2, 2, 0, 0. These profitless sticks were mainly due to Williams' safety play. Later on Aiken found openings, and put on 64, 114, 151, and 167. The Staffordshire man, however, was not to be denied, and, playing with his old-time freedom of execution, he compiled scores of 54, 71, 72, 76, 109, 158, 240, and 169 (unfinished). The closing scores were:—

Aiken 6587

Williams (in play) 5686

Play will be resumed at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. to-day.

A. Strudwick (rec. 265) beat G. Palmer (rec. 210) by 29.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The high pressure still covers the whole of the continent. Since Thursday it has worked further northwards, and gained very slightly in barometric values. The centre is now situated over Adelaide.

This is a good winter type of high pressure, and so far has resulted in many frosts and some fogs over New South Wales. At present the indications are for fine weather, with more cold nights and frosts.

A new Antarctic disturbance is in evidence to the south of the Leeuwin, while the one which has been operating over New Zealand for the past day or two shows signs of a slight retrogressive movement. The centre, which during Thursday was to the south-east of Wellington, is now to the south of the Bluff.

Ocean Forecast.—Rough and squally around Tasmania; becoming stormy around the Leeuwin, and later in the Western Bight.

DEMENTED MOTHER.

HANGS THREE CHILDREN.

AUCKLAND (N.Z.), Friday.

An inquest was held to day regarding the death of Isobel Hall, aged 10, at Warkworth.

Stanley Hall, a bright little boy, told how his father had gone to work last Friday to repair a bridge about half a mile from the farm. After dinner his mother told him to take his sister, Isobel, and his little brother, over to the barn, where they would play "gaol." All went over to the barn and started to play. The mother picked up some hay, and the children pretended to steal it from her. She then asked them to stand on boxes. Three long swing ropes were hanging from a beam overhead. As Lennie was too small to climb on to the box his mother lifted him up. The mother then tied a rope round each of the children's necks, telling them she would not hurt them. She then pulled the boxes away from under them, and they were left hanging by their necks.

"Both Lennie and I called out," said the witness, "but Isobel did not call out at all. Mother ran out and soon afterwards came back and untied the ropes round Lennie and myself." Mother then said to me, 'You run into the house and get a breadknife.' I ran to the house and got it, and gave it to mother. I then ran out of the barn with Lennie. Our necks were very sore. Mother came out of the barn crying. She then said, 'Go and tell your father I want him, I have hung Belle.' Witness ran on ahead and brought his father back."

FINANCIAL.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

ITS EFFECT ON INVESTMENT.

A MODERN INSTITUTION.

Few possibly realise the debt of gratitude that civilisation owes to the Stock Exchange. The popular conception of that institution, like most popular concepts, is wholly inaccurate. Paraphrasing the well-known lines of Dante they see writ large on its portals "All honesty abandon ye who enter here." As a matter of fact, the Stock Exchange has done, and is still doing, an immense service to humanity. It did not create thrift, but it has immensely stimulated that virtue, and made it effective. If this be doubted try to conjure up the state of affairs prevailing in the days that preceded the Stock Exchange, which, after all, is not much more than a century old. All over Europe, in the Doge's palace in Venice, in the Kaiser's home at Potsdam, at the scene of the debaucheries of the Louis at Versailles, in the Tower of London, at the Edinburgh and Dublin Castles, are to be seen samples of the strong boxes, some of wood, some of metal, with complicated locks, in which were secreted the savings or the plunderings of our ancestors. In pre-Stock Exchange days, the strong box, the stocking, the hole in the ground took the place now held by investments. It was a wasteful system. The robber band was tempted to raid, and the strong boxes had to be protected by armed hands. Besides, money in a box, or even in a hole in the garden, cannot breed. It would not increase by one farthing if left undisturbed a thousand years. So in one respect the workmen of to-day, with their savings banks or their few dividend-bearing shares in a co-operative store, are better off than were the Medici at the height of their power. Right up to 1783 the "tally" system was in vogue at the British Exchequer. To our minds, this system is the rankest barbarism. Tallies, which were either "tallies of pro" or "tallies of sol," were issued by the Treasurer as an acknowledgment of debt. When an investor of those days had a thousand pounds which he was desirous of putting into Government securities, he took his cash, not a cheque, along to the Exchequer, and received in return a "tally" or willow stick, som four or five feet long, and about an inch thick, with notches cut thereon, representing the amount of money deposited. The stick was split in half through the notches and the Exchequer authorities retained one half and the lender the other half. "Tallies of pro" were issued to enable the Treasurer to carry on when public loans had missed fire and were "pro."—that is, for the benefit of the person who held them. "Tallies of sol" on the other hand, were acknowledgments of sums paid (solutum) and were issued when loans were raised from the investing public. Such were the crude methods in vogue before the days of the Stock Exchange.

As we have said the Stock Exchange is little over a century old. It is true that there was a sort of exchange as early as 1773, held in a coffee-house in Threadneedle-street, to which any person was admitted on payment of 6d. Business was also done in the Rotunda of the Bank of England, but it was not till 1802 that a company was formed to erect a building in Capel Court near the bank, which, when it opened, had 500 members. This was in the days anterior to joint stock enterprise. There were companies in existence, but they were incorporated under royal charter, as is the Bank of Australasia, or by Act of Parliament, as are the Bank of New South Wales and the Australian Gaslight Company. There was no such thing as a Companies Act. Besides, many classes of companies that figure so largely in our Stock Exchange lists of to-day were quite absent. There were no steam ship companies, for the simple reason that the steamship had barely been invented by Fulton; there were no railway companies, because there were no railways. Life assurance companies did not exist for the all-sufficient reason that the principle of life assurance was then unknown. Fire insurance offices there were, but they were few in number, and, compared with those of to-day, of little importance. There were neither gas companies nor electric light companies in the era of tallow dips. Practically all the banks outside the Bank of England itself were family affairs, and failures were as common as swallows in springtime. No orders were urgently telegraphed from Exchange to foreign Bourse or from Bourse to Exchange, because the telegraph was still unknown. Cotton mills, woollen mills, and steel works were equally developments for the future. Refrigeration, telephony, wireless telegraphy, airships, and submarines are, of course, all of quite recent date, and were in the early days of the Stock Exchange scarcely dreamt of by sane intellects.

So the early Stock Exchange lists must have differed very markedly from those of present times. Nevertheless, it is largely due to the influence of the Stock Exchange that these wonderful twentieth century developments have taken place. Had the capitalist of recent years still laboured under the necessity of keeping his savings in a strong box the last century would have been as comparatively unprogressive as the centuries that preceded it. Of course Stock Exchanges would have been impotent had it not been for the discovery of the joint stock principle, but so, too, would the joint stock principle have been a poor and feeble thing had it not been supported by the Stock Exchange. Let anyone who doubts this assertion realise how difficult it almost invariably is to get rid of shares in companies that are not officially quoted. Often it is scarcely possible to ascertain their value even. But as far as the more important companies are concerned, the Stock Exchange has altered all this. It has made such securities absolutely liquid. No one who holds shares in any reputable company now need fear that, except, perhaps, in times of panic, he will be unable to find a buyer at a fair price. The idea that the stock and share broker is a mere parasite living on as an excrescence upon the community is a base libel. He performs a useful and indeed an invaluable task. How essential he is to the body politic will never be realised, for that would only be possible were we able to revert to the days of the strong boxes, the Exchequer "tallies," and such like barbarisms, which can never be.

COLONIAL SUGAR COMPANY'S CAPITAL.

As already intimated, the above company has convened a meeting of its shareholders for the purpose of authorising an increase in the company's capital. It will be proposed that the capital should be increased from £3,000,000 to £4,000,000 by the creation of 50,000 new shares of £20 each, and clause 3 of the deed of settlement amended accordingly. The special meeting on the 16th inst. will be followed by another special meeting to confirm the resolution. A further special meeting will then be held, when it is intended to propose that 12,500 of the new shares shall be issued to the proprietors by the transfer of £250,000 from available profits. This will have the effect of giving the proprietors one new share free for every 12 shares now held, while the capital will be raised from £3,000,000 to £3,250,000.

NEW RIVERINA FREEZING COMPANY.

The prospectus of the Southern Riverina Inland Freezing Company, Limited, appears elsewhere in our columns. It is to be registered under the New South Wales Companies Act, with a nominal capital of £50,000, in shares of £1 each, of which 25,000 are to be offered for public subscription, and the balance held in reserve. There are no bonus shares, nor will any discount or allowance of any kind be granted to any shareholder. The object of the company is to freeze meat and to go in for ham and bacon curing, with headquarters and registered office at Junee, which is readily accessible to the great markets of Sydney and Melbourne. The by-products, viz., blood, bones, manure, tallow, etc., will find a ready market locally. It is expected that the works will be able to handle an average of 2000 lambs per day. No estimates of probable profits are given, but the whole of the provisional directors, with a single exception, consists of graziers.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The oil market was firmer on receipt of cables advising advances in the principal British brands of linseed oil. Blundell's was up a halfpenny for prompt shipment, and even more for forward shipment, f.o.b. quotations being 2/1¾ prompt shipment, 2/2 shipment September to December, and 2/2½ shipment January to April next year. "Thistle" oil was cabled /1½ above the previous quotation, August shipment being advised at 2/0½ f.o.b., and September to December 2/0¾. In the latter case it was added that the market had a decidedly stronger tendency than the previous week. The higher prices are, of course, due to the rise in the raw material, linseed, advised in yesterday's report. Locally, though distributing rates were without alteration, 3/7 for raw and 3/9 for boiled, first brands, there was a decidedly firmer feeling, and merchants showed not the slightest disposition to cut. White lead was hardly so strong. Parcels of Champions were available at £51 per ton in cwt packages. The weaker position of pig lead had not improved matters. Turpentine was weak at 2/9 for parcels of Pinetree, and 3/ in distributing lots. Rosin was offering at various prices, c.i.f. and e., from New York, but it might be considered that the New York market was on yesterday's cables £1 above the lowest price reached within the last two months. For lots of G grade to arrive £13 was quoted.

Metals were quiet at unchanged rates. Some houses were obtaining £9/10/ for No. 10 black wire, but it was still possible to purchase at £9/5/. Some parcels were bought in Melbourne for this market, but the demand was so great that they had no influence on prices. A lot of .. tons, which arrived this week, was taken as quickly as it was landed. Galvanised wire was dull. Rabbit traps met with a normal demand. The rush had altogether exhausted itself, and a steady trade was expected for the next few months. A better inquiry was abroad for cement. Distributing lots were quoted at 13/6 to 14/ per cask. Prices of Australian makes were without alteration.

Another auction sale of tea was held yesterday, and consequently private business was at a standstill, buyers refraining from business, as they hoped to get things cheaper at the public sale, where 500 packages of Ceylons were submitted. Practically all the lines were cleared, prices ranging up to /10½. Competition was good, and full market rates were obtained.

Further reports of the mildew among the French vines resulted in a firmer feeling in tartaric acid and cream of tartar in forward positions. Canary seed, both Turkish and Argentine, near arrival, was worth £29 per ton c.i.f. and e. For September shipment £22/10/ c.i.f. and e. was asked. Distributers quoted 37/ for prompt delivery in their lists, but with a little pressing the seed could be obtained for 35/.

The jute market was absolutely without any animation. Merchant business was at a standstill. With cornsacks keeping so steady in Calcutta, August shipment being worth 6/2½ c.i.f. and e., there was little room for speculation, and besides, there was no inclination to speculate until news was received of the jute acreage. For cornsacks the quotations were unchanged. Branbags were generally quoted at 6/, though a firm offer in some quarters would bring the quotation down by a penny. Forward lots were without alteration. Woolpacks were stronger at 2/8. In all lines business with the country showed some improvement.

In timber during the last week or two, with the continuous rains, the trade has been dull, and to some extent there has been a falling away in orders, but now, with brighter weather, the merchants are taking a more hopeful view of affairs. The Oregon market is a little lower, owing to a continued decline in freights, and to some weakness being displayed by the f.o.b. market. Redwood, however, fairly maintains its import price. The f.o.b. market for Baltic timber and freight thence are extremely firm, and there is therefore no decline in prices of Baltic linings and weatherboards.

AVERAGE METAL PRICES.

The Australian Metal Company has received a cable giving the average prices of metals for June as under, prices for June of last year being also published for comparison.

BREADSTUFFS.

OFFALS FURTHER REDUCED.

The market for wheat was steady yesterday, at the prices quoted for business on the previous day. Wheat was freely offering at 3/7½, but buyers would not accept at that price unless for an occasional prime lot, or unless the parcel was just of the number of bags required for shipment. Otherwise, 3/7 was the buyer's price. There are a couple of ships on the berth now, and this fact has created a better disposition to buy, but as against that wheat is coming down in larger quantities from the country, so that shippers can get practically all they want from their own grain stacked at the railway stations. For growers' lots shippers were offering the equivalent prices of 3/5½ to 3/6½ ex trucks Sydney. In the overseas market, an Australian cargo, off coast, sold on Wednesday at 36/9, but on Thursday there was a better feeling as regards prices, because American advices were better, and disquiet was exhibited over the news from the Balkans.

Flour was unchanged at late rates. Prices of offals were reduced 5s a ton, bran and pollard being quited at £4 10s. Although quotations, in Melbourne were £5 a ton, it was found that the Victorians were cutting so severely in this market that a reduction was imperative.

FLOUR EXPORT TO SINGAPORE.

Although our trade in flour with the Straits Settlements somewhat declined last year, this was principally due to our smaller production, and not to any falling off in the demand. This year to date, the exports to Singapore and Java from this State show an increase of 5000 tons. In a recent report, Mr. J. B. Suttor, the New South Wales Trade Commissioner in the East, states that the Singapore flour market is always a fairly steady one, as will be seen from the statistics given, although it will be noted the imports for 1912 show a decrease of about £14,000 compared with 1911. There is a decided preference for Australian flour, but of late American exporters have been very busy in pushing their product. The local conditions are more in favour of the Australian trade than American, there being direct shipping from Sydney to Singapore, whereas the American flour generally finds its way via Hongkong, with transhipment at Hongkong, there being no direct service from Pacific ports to the Straits Settlements, with the exception of a tramp steamer now and again. The statistics for the last six years, with c.i.f. rates per ton delivered at Singapore, are as follow:—

PRICES UNCHANGED.

Another long sale took place at the Redfern Railway Markets yesterday, some 118 trucks being placed in position. Practically nothing of interest occurred, and competition generally was rather dull. As usual, wheaten chaff was the largest offering. There was a fairly good demand for choice quality chaff, but medium was rather dull of sale. The top price was 5/8 for a consignment of Lyndhurst chaff, a second truckload from another place being disposed of at 5/6. Oaten chaff was rather more plentiful than usual. None was of really prime quality, and the best had to be passed at 4/8, the reserve price being 5/. Several consignments of oaten hay were offered, but only two were disposed of. Only five consignments were offered, and none were of prime quality. Sales were effected at 2/11, 4/1, and 4/9. The potato market was dull, as usual.

Produce placed in position for sale totalled 118 truckloads, and consisted of—hay 10, chaff 84, wheat 3, oats 1, and potatoes 20.

THE ELECTRON THEORY.

At the Royal Society's House, Elizabeth-street, last evening, Mr. O. U. Vonwiller, assistant professor of physics at Sydney University, read an interesting paper to the members of the Electrical Association of New South Wales on the electron theory of metallic conduction. The chair was occupied by the president of the association, Mr. A. E. C. Burgess.

Mr. O. Vonwiller said that the theory is that in a metal there are, at any instant, in the spaces between the molecules electrons travelling with high velocity in different directions. When no external force is applied there is superposed on the natural velocities an accelerated velocity due to the new force acting on each electron, and though the additional velocities acquired may be small compared with the initial velocities, there is a drift of the electrons as a whole in the direction of the electric intensity, or rather against it, if the usual convention of signs be followed.

Mr. Vonwiller then described the consequences that would be worked out, and exhaustively elaborated the theory.

PARADE POSTPONED.

The review of troops and parade of cadets, who are to be taken over by the citizen forces, has again been postponed owing to Centennial Park being unfit for military evolutions. The young brigade will now be drafted into their respective regiments without the formality of a review.

MINING.

A COLOURLESS MARKET.

BARRIERS VARIABLE.

ARDLETHANS EASIER.

It is sometimes difficult to describe any one section of the market in a phrase, whilst it is often wholly impossible to make a phrase apply to any two or more sections. Yesterday morning was a case in point.

The quotations of the London Stock Exchange on Thursday did not disclose the least signs of returning strength, or vitality. A recovery of 10/ in the price of lead did not appear to have the slightest effect upon share values. Indeed, one would be disposed to the opinion that the low forward rate quoted for lead was the cause of the colourless quotations recorded.

As to the local market, it was likewise colourless in character. Indeed, there was very little character about it. It is true that Barriers were a little more in evidence, and that in several instances business was booked on sound lines, but the extent of that business was said to be limited. The, to most people, unexpected declaration by the Amalgamated Zinc Co. of a dividend of 1/9 per share (1/ was generally expected), only improved the sale rate 1½d, which shows the slack character of the market.

Broken Hill Proprietary eased 6d, Broken Hill Norths sold unchanged at 45/3, and Broken Hill Souths (paid) at £7/7/, but the contributing scrip receded a fraction. Radium Hill (old) sold steady at £11/15/. Solid offers for Broken Hill Junction North failed to draw sellers, but Broken Hill Junction (ord.) were untaken at a fractional concession, though the stock did not show inherent weakness.

Sulphide Corporation were in request, but sellers were undeclared. Buyers of British Broken Hill (old) quoted low, but holders would not make the least concession on the last sale rate. A similar remark will apply to Zinc Corporation (ord.), New Burragorang (contg) were called for, but sellers quoted wide.

In the copper division, Wallaroo and Moonta sold under late rates, whilst Hampden-Cloncurry were offered a fraction lower, with only a 1½ commission separating buyer and seller. Improved offers were made for Mount Elliotts. This is believed to be due primarily to the shortness of scrip locally, though it is stated in other quarters that Mr. Corbould, the general manager, taking advantage of the closing down of the smelters, consequent on the labour trouble over the contract system, has got the mine into first-class order, and that when smelting is resumed he will be in a position to increase his ore output. Local operators have had to cable to London for shares, and have paid 95/. Buyers offered 92/6, but sellers were undeclared.

Those who expected Mount Morgans would recede, consequent on the reduced output for June, were very much disappointed. Buyers offered 67/6, but sellers held firmly for 68/. The cause of this firmness was a puzzle to those who expected a fall. Hampden-Cloncurry eased 3d, the same being the case with Mount Oxide Options, but Mount Lyells commanded firm offers.

The Ardlethan group of tin shares disclosed an all-round weakness, sales being booked on the easy side. A member of the Sydney Stock Exchange explains that the fact of 100 contributing shares in the Southern Cross Company having settled transactions covering the sales of 5000 shares dealt in by the members of the Stock Exchange, proves that the stock is not over-sold.

The attention of the Stock Exchange was principally devoted in the afternoon to Ardlethan stocks, and largely to the exclusion of other sections of the market. This does not mean, however, that a large amount of business was transacted. It was a case of "Much cry, but very little wood," because the trend of values was downwards, hence holders did not care to unload to any extent on a falling market. Though Carpathias continued to weaken, it says much for the support accorded to the stock that towards the close of the day the downward trend was arrested and was followed by a slight reaction. This was in face of the fact that the other surrounding Ardlethan stocks still showed weakness, especially White Crystals, Wild Cherry, Southern Cross, and Ardlethan Options.

Both the copper and gold sections were quiet, whilst in Barriers, both B.H. Junctions (ord.) and B.H. Junction North, commanded firm support, especially the latter.

Our Melbourne correspondent telegraphs:—"The brisk dealing in Junction North shares on the Melbourne Stock Exchange towards the close of to-day (Friday) was on account of information reaching the market that a contract has been entered into for the sale of the company's production of zincy concentrates. It is understood that there are about 6000 or 7000 tons of this product accumulated."

MINING NOTES.

At the Newcastle tin mine, on the Bygoo end of the Ardlethan tin field, the rain in the early part of last week, and the necessity of sinking a second time to properly locate this lode, delayed the sending of a second parcel of stone to Newcastle. There is quite a depth of alluvial and kaolin to go through, before the solid body is reached. The sinking is all done by the pick. The manager reports that the sinking is in a net-work of lodes, hence he considers the property a valuable one.

The dredgemaster of the Associated Golddredging Company reports that owing to a fresh in the river dredging operations were delayed, and only a little time of actual dredging was done. The wash up will take place next week.

Operations at the B.H. Junction North mine for the fortnight ended June 28 are officially recorded as follows:—No. 4 level: The 4/23 winze advanced to 40ft in hanging wall country. No. 5 level: The 5/23 rise met the old stope at 32ft, and advanced in stope filling to 40ft. The 5/22 winze advanced to 33½ft in filling of old stopes, and connected with 6/22 rise. No. 10 level: The 10/23 footwall drive was started from the main crosscut and advanced to 14ft. No. 12 level: The 12/12 winze was sunk to 45ft, but as the last 10ft was in very low-grade ore the winze was diverted eastward at 40ft, and is following the payable ore downwards. No. 13 level: The north main drive has been advanced to 84ft. Repair gangs have made good progress with repairing timbers of Nos. 8 and 9 levels, which were affected by the recent movement in the stopes. Erection of mechanical stoker with No. 5 Babcock and Wilcox boiler has been completed. The boiler has been tested, and is being built in.

The managing director of the Kyloe copper mines, in his report to June 28, states: "Hunting's shaft sunk 30ft since taking over the mine, and is now 83ft. The lode has averaged 2ft in thickness, with a value of 11.6 per cent. for copper. A little water is making, and the ore is now a very nice-looking sulphide in a quartz gangue. West's shaft continued 6ft, and is now 24ft deep. The lode has widened out to 15 inches, carrying nice sulphides, with an average value of 7 per cent. in copper; this lode appears to be still widening, and looks very promising. Surface: The frame for blacksmith's shop and store has been erected, and foundations for winding engine and boiler are in. The pit head frame is in course of erection. Owing to the heavy rains the teams have been unable to take out the machinery now lying at Tenterfield, but it is anticipated that they will be able to do so next week."

Mr. W. P. Crawford, acting secretary of the Homeward Bound Consolidated Tin Mines, Ltd., writes: "Word has been received from the manager of the Homeward Bound Consolidated properties that he is now cutting down the north shaft on the Homeward Bound block, to enable hauling to be done by whip instead of windlass. When completed, driving will be resumed. The south shaft has been sunk to 48ft, with ore coming in. The concentrating plant at Bredalbane is now complete, and ore is on the way from several properties at Ardlethan for treatment. The first run will be on ore from the Homeward Bound 'seconds' dump belonging to the original owners."

The Broken Hill Proprietary Company, Ltd., received a cable message dated London, July 3, giving the following quotations:—Silver 2/2 7-8 (official quotation), lead £20/5/ (buyers' price), company's shares £1/14/3 (buyers' price), spelter £20/15/ (buyers' price), copper £63/8/9 (buyers' price).

SOUTHERN CROSS TIN MINE.

THE RECENT LODE FIND.

Mr. S. G. Anderson, of Pitt-street, writes that in the course of his business as a wheat buyer, he last week visited the Ardlethan tin field, and the remembrance of a client's heavy losses, as a result of operations in certain Ardlethan shares, made him anxious to see the reported discovery of a tin-bearing lode in the Southern Cross mine. Mr. Anderson then proceeds to relate what he saw.

"The facts are," he writes, "that the reported find is 2ft below the surface, and to those not familiar with mining phraseology, a good description of it is that it is a plug of stone, with a face no larger than the drawer of an ordinary cutler desk. When I was at the pot hole, there was much discussion as to which way the lode ran. I couldn't see that it was a lode, or that it 'ran' anywhere. It just looked like stopping there, until it was blown, or picked, out. . . . An old miner's impressions was that the bit of stone showing was merely a surface 'floater' covered with a couple of foot of earth. The truth could easily be arrived at. A few hours' work would open up on the 'find;' but, no! The Ardlethan policy apparently is, when you strike anything leave it as the shot left the stone. It is so much safer to 'sit on your dump and look wise.' The analysis given in the Southern Cross find is a staggerer—29 per cent. metallic tin, when I can say authoritatively that two fair samples taken assayed slightly under half a unit and a fraction over one unit, respectively. The press reports also mention the Southern Cross having commenced sinking a tank. I saw no work of this nature, and at present rate of development, money would be saved by utilising the water at the bottom of an apparently abandoned shaft not far from the extraordinary Southern Cross find."

OFFICIAL ANSWER.

The statements contained in Mr. Anderson's letter were brought under the notice of the legal manager of the company, Mr. L. V. Pockle, of Pitt-street, who replied:—"The mine manager is Mr. F. S. Rowe, who was appointed on the highest credentials. The directors have every confidence in Mr. Rowe's integrity, and are satisfied he would not make an untruthful report. The report published in the 'Herald' was absolutely word for word with Mr. Rowe's letter to the directors. As to Mr. Anderson's statement that of two fair samples taken by him, one assayed slightly under half a unit of tin, and the other a fraction over one unit, it is a well known fact that in sampling most ore bodies, values vary considerably in a few feet, or, perhaps, inches. As to Mr. Anderson's statement that the Ardlethan policy apparently is to cease work directly anything is struck, the manager reported that as soon as he completed the brace and logging of the shaft on July 30 (last Monday) he intended sinking on the ore as fast as possible. That does not show an intention on the part of the directors to sit on the dump and look wise!'.

"As to Mr. Anderson's failing to see any signs of a start being made to build a dam, that is correct; but here is the accepted tender for the work, which is to be started at once. In conclusion, I may say that a stamper battery and plant have been purchased by the directors. A battery manager has been appointed, and he will start at once to bring it from Victoria and erect it on the mine."

TONGKAH COMPOUND.

The Tongkah Compound return for June shows that the dredge worked 412 hours, and treated 51,500 cubic yards, for 56 tons 10cwt of tin oxide.

This shows that the material treated gave the excellent average of 2.45lb of tin oxide per cubic yard handled.

MOURAMBA COPPER MINES, LTD.

The manager's fortnightly report, dated July 2, states:—

Main Shaft:—The water in the main shaft is now down 57½ feet, below No. 5 level. Engine house: Foundations for the three blowers are complete, and three blowers and one engine are on the foundations. New furnace house: All principal and purlings are in position, and roof now being covered. The dome on No. 2 furnace is complete. The new boilers are being installed, and all other work being pushed ahead.

FOOTBALL.

RUGBY UNION.

TO-DAY'S FIXTURES.

In addition to the Inter-'Varsity game at the University Oval, the usual competition games will be played in all grades. Interest centres in the matches at St. Luke's and Hurstville Ovals, as if South Sydney and Glebe win against Western Suburbs and St. George respectively, both will meet North Sydney for fourth place, and the consequent admission to the A division contestants, who will compete for the premiership. In that contingency, matches will have to be played off between the three clubs to decide which shall join Eastern Suburbs, Newtown, and University in the final dash for the championship of the season. After to-day's games the other six clubs will play off for the B division honours. Following is the draw for to-day's fixtures:—

First Grade.

South Sydney v Western Suburbs, St. Luke's, 3.15 (O. H. Harding); Eastern Suburbs v Balmain, Rushcutter Bay, 3.15 (A. Thornton); St. George v Glebe, Hurstville, 3.30 (F. W. Dunn); Newtown v Manly, Manly, 3.25 (C. Butt).

NEW ZEALAND UNIVERSITIES.

FIRST MATCH TO-DAY.

The fifth series of Inter-'varsity Rugby contests between Sydney and New Zealand will commence to-day at 3.15, at the University Oval. As in the past, the visit is sure to provide some excellent games, more especially as the tourists have come to Sydney with splendid reputations in University, club, and inter-provincial football. The three colleges (Auckland, Wellington, and Christchurch) occupy prominent positions in their local senior competitions; a fact which speaks highly for the calibre of the visitors; therefore, this afternoon's game should provide a fine exhibition. The local University will be at full strength for the first time for many weeks, as the captain, R. J. A. Massie, the giant forward, will be available. The Sydneyites' chief characteristics is their ability to rise to the occasion, and to-day they will strive hard to reverse the results of the last matches, two years ago, when New Zealand won. The teams are:—

Some further alterations have been made in the New South Wales team to visit Brisbane. Messrs. Wogan, Tasker, Tremain, and Walters being unavailable, the following have been selected:—B. B. Fusedale (South Sydney), H. S. Daly (Lithgow), A. Rosenthal (Balmain), and T. Cooney (University).

RUGBY LEAGUE.

SECOND ROUND BEGINS TO-DAY.

This afternoon the second round of Rugby League competition matches will begin. Only one club, the premiers (Eastern Suburbs), went through the first round undefeated, and finished with a lead of four points. To-day, as in the opening round, their opponents will be Newtown at the Sydney Cricket Ground. In the first round Newtown were defeated by 2 points only—17 to 15—and gave the premiers a great shock. Subsequently the Blues won four, lost one, and drew one of the remaining six matches of the round, and at present are playing well. A great contest should be witnessed. In the first round Balmain beat Annandale by 7 to 5, Glebe beat North Sydney 19 to 15, and South Sydney defeated Western Suburbs by 33 to 11. To-day the conquered will be given an opportunity of avenging their earlier defeats. Following is the list of matches:—

FIRST GRADE.

Newtown v Eastern Suburbs, Cricket Ground, 3.15 (T. M'Mahon); Annandale v Balmain, Birchgrove Oval, 3.15 (A. Norton); Glebe v North Sydney, Wentworth Park, 3.15 (C. Hedley); Western Suburbs v South Sydney, Sports Ground, 3.15 (A. Farrow).

SECOND GRADE.

South Sydney v Redfern, Sports Ground, 2 p.m. (T. Dimmon); Balmain v Sydney, Birchgrove Oval, 2 p.m. (L. Hansen); Glebe v Mosman, Wentworth Park, 2 p.m. (E. Shaw); Eastern Suburbs v Grosvenor, Cricket Ground, 2 p.m. (A. Ballerum); North Sydney v Annandale, North Sydney Oval, 3.15 p.m. (A. Bolton); Newtown v West Sydney, Erskineville Oval, 3.15 p.m. (G. Boyd); Western Suburbs v Marrickville, Pratten Park, 2.15 p.m. (H. M. Poulton).

THIRD GRADE.—"A" DIVISION.

AUSTRALIAN.

THE COMPETITION GAMES.

To-day's series of games will all be played on enclosed grounds, and each match will be of more than ordinary interest by reason of the positions the competing clubs hold in regard to qualifying for the semi-final games. Sydney and Newtown, who will meet at the Australian Football Ground, will probably prove the most attractive match, as both teams have been showing good form, especially the premiers, Sydney. South Sydney and East Sydney should provide a good contest at Hampden Oval, especially if the Easterners can place their best team in the field. Paddington should win from Balmain, at the Sydney Cricket Ground No. 2, as the latter have not borne out of late the early promise they gave. Following are the fixtures:—

League.

Public Schools' Match.

Selected A and B teams, Hampden Oval, 1.30 p.m.

Owing to the death of Mr. Harry Marshall, who was treasurer of the Second Grade Association, the practice match between the first and second teams, set down for to-day, has been cancelled.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

AN INTERESTING PROGRAMME.

The second round for the State championship opens to-day, and the principal game, Newtown v Merewether, should provide a fine fixture, especially as the northern team comprises such known players as Doyle, Elliott, Thorpe, and Price. Sydney and Glebe will decide their game at Birchgrove, where the leading teams in the second league—Balmain and Glebe—will contest the early fixture. With the "big" games disposed of, a full programme of fixtures has been drawn for the afternoon, and no games will be more keenly contested than those in the junior division. Following is the draw for to-day's events:—

STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS.

GARDINER CHALLENGE CUP COMPETITIONS.

Newtown v Merewether, Epping, 3.15 p.m. (W. A. Wright); Granville v Canterbury, Epping, 1.45 p.m. (G. H. Hargett); Sydney v The Glebe, Birchgrove, 3.15 p.m. (W. Lincoln); Balmain v Royal Navy, Easton Park, 3.15 p.m. (W. Sym).

As the competition rules state that extra time must be played in the event of drawn games, all matches must commence promptly at the time notified in the fixture list.

First League.

First Reserve League.

Annandale v Sydney, Federal Park, 3.15 (A. Gemmell); Canterbury v The Glebe, Campsie, 3.15 (E. Ratcliffe); Balmain v Y.M.C.A., Easton Park, 1.45 (A. Parberry); Newtown v Burns Club, Sydenham, 3.15 (A. W. Hunt); Northern Suburbs v Metropolitan Police, Bourke-street, 3.15 (J. Rowell); Royal Navy v West Sydney, deferred.

Second League.

Callan Park v Rozelle, Callan Park, 2.30 (I. Davidson); Annandale v Botany, Bourralee Park, 3.15 (J. Gibson); Northern Suburbs v Burns Club, 18 Moore Park, 3.15 (N. Wynne); Gladesville v Sydney, Gladesville, 2.30 (J. McDonald); Balmain v The Glebe, Birchgrove, 1.45 (A. Smith); Y.M.C.A. have the bye.

Second Reserve League.

Balmain v Railway, 2 Moore Park, 1.45 (A. Lane); Annandale v Burns Club, Federal Park, 1.45 (W. McPire); H.M.A.S. "Tingira" v Pyrmont Church, Lyne Park, 3.15 (E. Lukemann); Botany v Drummoyne, 2 Moore Park, 3.15 (F. Lane); Scottish Rifles have received default from The Glebe, and Caledonians have the bye.

Early matches, which have been arranged for competition prior to State championship games, must be started punctually to advertised times to admit of the Gardiner Challenge Cup rules being fully availed of, if necessary.

State Junior Championship.

Richardson Challenge Cup.

Allsop Junior Competition.

Rockdale A v Victoria Park, at University Reserve, 3.15 (R. Chalkley); Pyrmont Rangers v St. David's, 19 Moore Park, 3.15 (W. A. Greaves); Caledonians v Rockdale B, Rockdale, 3.15 (C. Knight); Glebe United v Pyrmont Royal, Federal Park, 1.45 (W. Lawson); Kogarah District v St. Paul's, Moorefields, 3.15 (E. N. Charters); St. Paul's v Balmain Kia-Ora deferred; Lancashire Society and Kogarah District have received forfeits.

S.C.A.T. CARS. "A remarkable experience of Mr. Burditt Laycock, of Melbourne, with a 22-h.p. N.B. SELF-STARTING S.C.A.T. is worth recording. He purchased the car in 1909, and has since then covered fully 100,000 miles with it. Most of this has been done on Australian roads. But last year he went to England, and toured through that country, France, Belgium, Germany, and Switzerland. Then he handed the car to Messrs. Newton and Bennett, Ltd., to be packed and sent back to Melbourne. On arrival there—after being on the water eight weeks—the car was started up out of the case on the wharf by the N.B. Self-starter. Since then he has taken a tour of 1800 miles through Victoria and New South Wales, covering some very hilly country, including the Blue Mountains and Mt. Kosciusko, to within one mile of the top, where the party were stopped by a snowdrift." Call and Inspect the S.C.A.T.S. G. W. HOWE, 2 Botany-street, Redfern. Sole Agent for N.S.W. and Queensland.

"OVERLANDS" IN ACTUAL USE.

Mr. A. J. Cotton is high authority, having a long experience with different cars. This unsolicited letter is the best testimonial any car could have in Australia:—

"Dear Sirs,—I promised to let you know how I liked the Overland which I purchased from you.

"It has turned out beyond my expectations. I have just completed a journey of 2096 miles, registered by the Speedometer, starting from the Cloncurry district, round by Burketown and Camooweal, across into the Northern Territory, 250 miles, and back to Longreach, via Boulia, Urandangie, and Winton.

"The Radiator did not boil once, and we have had no trouble whatever, although travelling all kinds of roads.

"No sand creeks required any but her own power to negotiate easily.

"Please ship me another 30-h.p. Single-seater on the Kyarra to Bowen to-morrow.

"You are at liberty to make use of this if you wish. Yours faithfully, "(Signed) A. J. COTTON."

You owe it to yourself to see the full line of Overland Cars fitted with the greatest Electric Starter and Lighting Equipment ever shown on any car.

BUICK.

THE CAR WHICH GLIDES.

Standard European Motor Cars cost nearly twice as much as Standard American Buick Motor Cars, but they won't last twice as long; and any sensible, unbiased motor mechanic will tell you so.

We know of hundreds of American Buick Cars purchased some five and more years ago that are still clipping off the miles in a positive consistent manner. We are aware, too, that hundreds of English and Continental Cars have performed equally as well—possibly better; but even so, we are going to prove to you that the American-made Buick is the proper Car to purchase.

The Buick Company, representing a capitalisation of approximately £2,000,000 sterling, and covering 180 acres of land, is the largest motor manufacturing concern in the world. They have more money, more ground space, more plant, and finish more cars per day (300) than any other manufacturer. Their enormous purchasing capacity allows them to buy car building material of a quality unobtainable by others of a lesser financial status.

A good English or Continental Car of any power at all demands an expenditure on your part of from £650 up. Buick Cars in their fine beautiful commodious styles range from £275 to £525, and they are guaranteed for two years; meaning that you can come in here and get a full-powered, sturdy, dependable Buick Motor for half what you could an English or Continental Car, same power. Four years from now you can sell it for about half what you paid, and by the addition of another few pounds, come back and get a brand-new, up-to-the-minute Buick. Understand us, two new cars of an unsurpassed style and quality, each possessing an absolute guarantee of two years, for less than the actual cost of an English or Continental Motor Car.

"TRIUMPHS" SCOOP THE POOL AT ARMIDALE.

Armidale Motor Cyclists arranged very hard trials for their recent hill climbs and open speed competition. The hill chosen for the hill contests was a steep grade, and owing to misty, damp weather, was in a very greasy state.

Under such conditions the fact that "Triumphs" secured First, Second, and Third positions, in fast time, proves their dependability, while their great pace was conclusively demonstrated by First Place in the 800 yards open speed contest.

You'll be satisfied with a "Triumph." It will give you splendid service, and a lot of pleasure. Examine models at our showrooms; or write for Free Illustrated Catalogue.

The following are the detailed results: ½-mile Speed Hill-climb: Arthur Roberts (Triumph), 1st; Geo. Roberts (Triumph), 2nd; and Bert Skinner (Triumph), 3rd. Times: A. Roberts, 34½ secs.; G. Roberts, 41¼ secs.; B. Skinner, 37¼ secs. In the Flexibility Hill-climb, Arthur Roberts again proved victorious, and Geo. Roberts came second, Bert Skinner taking third place.

The fastest time for roadster machines was made by Bert Skinner on a Roadster Triumph, in 37¼ secs., for the course. A. Roberts, on a racing Triumph, secured fastest time for the day, 34½ secs.

HOW TO SAVE POUNDS

That is what everyone is endeavouring to do, but not always does he meet with success. We can show the motoring public how to save POUNDS in its Tyre Bills and how to double the life of the Tyres. Everyone knows that the greatest damage done to Tyres is caused through water rotting the canvas in consequence of failure to have small cuts filled up. This being so, we offer this solution to the problem.

"RENO" PLUG-DOH.

By this means the motorist can easily effect a quick and efficient repair of all cuts in the covers or tubes. No heat is required, and a repair can be effected in five to ten minutes.

NO MOTORIST SHOULD BE WITHOUT A PLUG-DOH OUTFIT.

Let us send you our descriptive leaflet, or better still, call in and ask for a demonstration.

There are lots of good, bad, and indifferent Motor Cycles, but there can be only one BEST.

THE L.M.C. MOTOR CYCLE

is built for our rough Australian roads by MEN WHO RIDE MOTOR CYCLES. They are NOT designed by the man in the frock coat and top hat, who does his motor cycling in a Limousine Car.

Every inch of the L.M.C. has been designed and built by a practical brain and a master hand. Compare the simple everyday commonsense fittings on the L.M.C. with the monstrosities fitted to the Motor Cycles competing against it.

Strength of frame, size and gauge of rims and tyres, accessibility of engine, etc., are of vital importance to you. If we excel in these, think of the hundred and one other points needing attention never seen by the man who just rides. They are there and perfect in the L.M.C. nevertheless. Ask the engineer.

Telba Station, Gunnedah, 28/3/13.

Messrs. G. C. Hamilton, Ltd., Elizabeth-street, Sydney.

Dear Sirs,—Having now had my 22/30 Cottin and Desgouttes Car for twelve months, I feel that I should like to let you know what I think of her. During the 12 months she has covered 10,000 miles, one trip alone being 1500 miles in 12 days. During this trip I never lifted the bonnet for any adjustment whatever. Your recent thorough overhaul showed everything in perfect order, your charge being simply for dismantling, examining, and reassembling, the replacements being limited to a magneto contact lever and a small tappet part. She is very light on tyres, as my average mileage is 5000 miles per cover, and one of the original Michelin covers on the car did 8400. My petrol consumption averages about 18 miles to the gallon, and she is also very economical with lubricating oil. She is very fast, as well as being flexible and easily handled in traffic on top speed. I have yet to know what it is to have an involuntary stop on the road, and I have tested the car over some of the worst roads and hills in the State. I took her as an unknown car, it being the first one you imported, and am pleased to say my first impressions have been more than justified. I feel I could not buy a better car, and think that you could not have a better commendation for these cars than the fact that my brother purchased a 12/16 Cottin and Desgouttes from you a few months ago.—I am, yours sincerely, (Sgd.) A CAR FOR AUSTRALIAN USE MUST BE AS LIGHT AS POSSIBLE, CONSISTENT WITH THE STRENGTH REQUIRED.

A LIGHT CAR is economical on petrol and tyre wear and can be taken over any roads in any weather.

A HEAVY CAR is expensive to run, and is useless on wet, boggy roads.

WHY THROW MONEY AWAY IN OIL AND TYRES ON A HEAVY CAR?

In addition to being very light Cars, Clement-Bayards are scientifically sprung to further reduce tyre wear.

MACHINERY.

SPEED AND EFFICIENCY ARE THE MODERN FACTORS IN PROGRESSIVE SHOPS.

Waste of all kind has to be cut out. Waste time, waste hands, waste material. Every factor has to be keyed up to its highest to get results. If you have an old machine that you know is not the best for its purpose, you should cut it out. It's waste.

Others are doing this every day, and if you don't you'll get left behind. It's the trend of the times to make every second count in production. That's why it pays to instal fast, efficient machines to do the work—and more of it—of old tools.

It means laying out a little money, of course, but you get it back quickly in increased profits and more business. It puts you in a better position to compete for trade and enables you to turn out better work.

Under our system of extended terms you can easily effect this installation. Come in and talk it over or ask our expert to wait on you with details.

PITTLER FULL AUTOMATIC SCREW MACHINES.

This machine makes quantities of the same part very quickly and cheaply. It is simple but solid—so simple in operation that one operator can attend to from six to ten machines according to the kind of work being done. The turret head is located horizontally and slides in long, secure guides to prevent any play while working. You ought to get acquainted with its possibilities.

PITTLER PIN AND STUD MACHINES.

These machines automatically produce, drill, and cut off plain pins, nuts, and similarly-shaped articles from accurately drawn or rough rolled bars of metal. When provided with threading attachment, little short screws or plain pins may be produced to advantage. Pittler's use the finest material and the action is entirely automatic. After the machine has been set up the operator has only to replace the bars as they are used.

BROADBENT LATHES.

These lathes have the duplex back gearing that gives a big range of speeds. The hollow spindles enable long rods to be worked. Massive in construction, and beautifully finished, the Broadbent Lathes fulfil every requirement of the machine shop. With one in your shop you will be much nearer to the full possibilities of the business.

It never does any harm to discuss your machinery problems with an expert. In this respect our long experience is at your service. A 'phone call, City 6427-8, will fix it. Cash or terms.

IF YOU ARE GOING TO BUILD A NEW HOME, or remodel the old one, you cannot be fair to yourself without thoroughly investigating SPRIGGS' ASBESTOS SHEETS AND SLATES. The eminent qualities of our Sheets and Slates are not solely the result of the mixture of Asbestos to the Cement, but to the enormous amount of Asbestos Fibre (25 layers alone in our 5/32in thickness Sheets), together with the great pressure to which the Slabs are subjected, so that the Asbestos Fibre becomes closely united with the Cement, and produces in the hardened Sheets and Slates the same result as of iron in armed Cement, virtually reinforced concrete, in sheet and slate form. Our Sheets absolutely free from Lime. DOUBLE COMPRESSED Sheets a speciality. Slates thickest made. Write or call for a pamphlet, showing photographs of exterior and interior views. Numerous testimonials. F. A. SPRIGGS, Direct Importer. Sydney Agents: E. R. Spriggs and Co., 39 Goulburn-street, Sydney. 'Phone, City 3391. Large Stocks at Sydney, Newcastle, Katoomba.

KEYLOCK IS THE TRUE AUSTRALIAN BUILDING MATERIAL. It is invented by an Australian, who saw the imperfections of other materials. It is made for Australian conditions—to withstand the trying sudden changes of the weather, the moistness of the air, etc. "KEYLOCK" has proved its great merit from one end of the State to the other. Costs so little, yet is actually as neat, attractive, and durable as brick. Is fire and water proof. Needs no painting. Used for cottages, houses, churches, hotels, factories, garages. Is used for ceilings, walls, fences, and linings, partitions, foundations, etc. Write for full details to THE INTERLOCKING STEEL LATHING CO., LTD., Pyrmont Bridge-road and Wattle-crescent, opp. Saxton and Binns, PYRMONT.

WUNDERLICH ART METAL CEILINGS.

When an admirer stands in contemplation of a WUNDERLICH ART METAL CEILING, he may naturally feel that such beauty and value cost much money. Let no man be deterred from investigating through any such fear. WUNDERLICH CEILINGS are comparatively cheap. They have first-instance cheapness—they cost very little at the outset. They have permanence cheapness—they need neither upkeep nor repair.

By their hygienic virtues they harbour neither dust, vermin, nor germ; by their economy and permanence—they neither crack nor discolour—by the sheer artistry of their design and execution, Wunderlich Ceilings are supreme. They have imitators, but no rivals.

Painted to suit any scheme of colouring, Wunderlich Art Metal can be adapted to any style of architecture or furniture. Wunderlich Art Metal is made only at Wunderlich Factories, and is equally suitable for town and country residences. We have ceilings for all classes of homes, offices, and public buildings. Freight is lower than for any other ceiling materials on the market.

FILL IN THE ATTACHED COUPON, and a Copy of Our Illustrated Art Catalogue, showing photographic reproductions of WUNDERLICH Manufactures, and full instructions for fixing, will be sent post free.

WHAT A CANDID CUSTOMER ADMITTED AT DANKS'.

The Advertising Manager happened to be present on the Gasfittings and Electric Light Fittings Floor the other morning when a customer remarked:—"Without doubt, they have the finest selection of Fittings in town. I have been to all the places having a look, and am buying here. Even in Electric Fittings they have a far better stock and better styles than houses selling Electric Light goods exclusively."

In our advertising we have said "We have one of the largest and finest displays in the Commonwealth." Our customer, however, is not so modest, and said something more direct as to the extent of our Show of Fittings compared with any in Sydney.

You, Mr. Reader, can call and judge for yourself; and we would specially impress upon you that THE VALUES ARE RIGHT. Our Catalogue is free to all inquirers.

SPECIAL MENTION.

Very much admired are our Quaint Hall Lights, both for Gas and Electricity; also the very latest from America in Electric Table Lamps, with exceedingly artistic stand designs, and metal-lace shades.

"Tara" is a most delightful place to stay at—the situation is magnificent—having a vast view of the Pacific Ocean and Coogee Beach. The pleasant tram ride to town is only a matter of 25 minutes, and the business man will find "Tara" convenient, as well as beneficial to his health. ELECTION ADVERTISEMENTS.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF N.S.W.

FORTHCOMING GENERAL ELECTIONS.

PARRAMATTA ELECTORATE.

TO THE ELECTORS.—Ladies and Gentlemen,—

I have the honour to inform you that I have submitted my name to the Liberal Association for selection as a candidate, and in order that you may have a voice in the selection it will be necessary to join one of the Liberal Leagues in the electorate.

As doubtless you are aware, I have been associated with the Liberal Party from its infancy, and had the honour of acting as organising secretary when the Liberals of Parramatta drew first blood by piloting Mr. Dowell O'Reilly to victory. I claim to have the time, capacity, and determination to serve you faithfully and well, and should you honour me with your confidence you may rest assured that I will use my utmost ability to assist in raising Parliament from the gutter of political degradation into which it has fallen.

The Liberal Platform represents the true interests of the people as a whole, but the Party requires infusion of new blood and more strenuous and faithful representation if its policy is to be effectively carried out.

"The Sydney Morning Herald" is a stanch upholder of Liberal principles, in a striking article in its leading columns on the 3rd July, deals with the many defects in party selection and administration, and clearly points out that it is a negation of true Liberalism to cling to any member simply because he has, in times gone by, represented a constituency. In short, it is all against Liberalism and progress that an individual should have a lien over any constituency.

Recognising the truth of these principles, I feel justified in having offered my name for selection. After long association with the district I have no doubts as to my ability to adequately represent all classes in this large and important constituency irrespective of party or creed. In this connection I address myself to erstwhile supporters of the State Labour party as well as to those who favour the Liberal platform.

Selfish and inexperienced legislation by the present Government has operated to the detriment of the workers all over the State, and I appeal to those who have been misled and made use of by the political adventurers now in power to support a platform which has as its chief plank "LEGISLATION BY THE PEOPLE, AND FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE PEOPLE," instead of legislation for the benefit of a set of political parasites who "Live on the game" at the expense of the people, for whose welfare they profess to be so concerned. So much for general principles; details of my political views generally and on matters of purely local interest will be fully dealt with in addresses to be shortly delivered in various parts of the electorate.

I therefore invite all Liberal-minded and progressive people to join one of the Leagues in the electorate in order that the selection of a candidate may be made a representative function.

Now is the time to bring about the changes so greatly desired by all those who have the welfare of the State at heart, and I place myself in your hands in the confidence that you will select the best man offering to contest the electorate in your interests.

I have the honour to be, Ladies and Gentlemen,
Yours sincerely,
G. H. MOBBS.

A SIMPLE RECIPE FOR BLACKHEADS.

The best way to keep the complexion free from Blackheads, Pimples, and Blemishes is to keep the pores clean. Here is a simple means of keeping the skin clear. Get some Puritol Wax from the chemist or draper, and apply at night, and then remove it by means of a soft cloth—notice how it removes the dirt—apply a little more, and wash off in the morning. Then lap a little cold water ten times on the face with the hands, allowing it to go thoroughly round the closed eyes. The treatment undoubtedly accounts for many of the clear complexions so much admired by those who do not yet know the secret. See that you get the right kind. It will not injure the most delicate complexion.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR POSITIVELY AND PAINLESSLY CURED BY SAVARENA.

Ladies, allow me to personally make known to you this Wonderful Treatment for removing Superfluous Hair. It positively destroys the cyst and follicle without pain or injury to the skin. In every case I guarantee to remove all hair at first treatment, leaving the skin smooth and clear, without sign of its former blemish. I also treat successfully country clients by post. The Savarena method of Massage includes Electrical, Medical, and Plastic. Savarena Skin Food removes blackheads, wrinkles, and all imperfections of the skin. Free Trial treatments. Terms moderate. Each case receives my personal attention and supervision. MADAME ELENORE DE SOULE, L'Institut Savarena, Suite 24 Fitzevan-chambers, 23 Castlereagh-street, opposite Moore-street.

Mrs. FRANCES A. VINEY, of 52 Burlington-street, Crow's Nest, North Sydney, who was a sufferer from Rheumatism and Sciatica, writes the following account, and strongly recommends Dr. Parker's Great Indian Rheumatic Remedy—the antidote for all Uric Acid Diseases. She says:—In reply to your inquiry, I wish to state that I was afflicted with Rheumatism and Sciatica. The pain was most severe, at times like a knife being forced into the knee joint, while the hip felt as if the bone was being gnawed away. In the morning, generally after a sleepless night, my neck would be stiff and aching, my finger joints stiff and swollen, and I suffered much from giddiness and nervousness. Every remedy recommended to me was tried, but it remained for Dr. Parker's Great Indian Rheumatic Remedy to give me almost instant relief, and I can therefore strongly recommend it to anyone similarly afflicted.

A REMINDER TO THE LADIES WHO ARE VISITING SYDNEY FROM THE SPECIALIST WHO IS WELL KNOWN AND RENOWNED FOR THE PERMANENT REMOVAL OF THESE DISFIGURING

SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS

TO COME TO HER for that Free Trial Treatment you have all read and heard so much of. It will

AND MUST CONVINCE

each one of you when you see the hair-root that it is not a surface treatment, but that both the HAIR-ROOT and FOLLICLE must themselves be destroyed. You can take the hairs away and have them examined under a microscope. This offer is made, not only to intending patients, but to any woman similarly afflicted, who will permit her to thus prove the efficacy of her treatment. She offers, further, to give to anyone who can prove that she has failed to destroy the hairs removed by her process. It is trusted that the readers will recognise the fairness of the above offers.

AND MOLES, which are no longer considered beauty spots, and are now very properly regarded as blemishes of the skin, can be effectually removed, sometimes in one operation.

WHY NOT HAVE THICK, GLOSSY HAIR AS NATURE INTENDED?

If your hair has lost the beauty and healthy appearance that you used to think so much of years ago, do not despair. If you will allow me to study your case and prescribe treatment, I am confident of being able to greatly improve your hair.

Don't think that because you have tried to remedy matters by the use of Tonics that your case is hopeless. My treatment is carried out along different lines altogether.

I AM A HAIR SPECIALIST and have made a special study of scalp diseases. I make a personal examination of each case, and then prescribe expert treatment according to the nature of the trouble. This is the only way to bring about a really satisfactory cure.

LADIES IN THE COUNTRY CONSULT ME BY POST.

I make a feature of individual home treatment, and you may rely on receiving my prompt personal attention. If unable to call, send me a fresh combing of your hair; explain the nature of your trouble, and enclose 3d Stamps for reply. I will then make a microscopical examination of your hair, and advise you what to do to effect a cure.

ADVICE COSTS YOU NOTHING AND PLACES YOU UNDER NO OBLIGATION.

Will you write to me Now? Remember, hair trouble is serious and must not be neglected.

LET ME REMOVE THOSE SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS OR MOLES.

I can remove these unsightly blemishes quite painlessly by Electrolysis. This is the only reliable method known to Medical Science.

FACE MASSAGE.

Try a course of this treatment. Massage is invaluable for improving the contour of the face, promoting a healthy glow, and is most delightfully refreshing.

Consult me to-day, either personally or by post. My fees are most moderate and within the reach of every woman.

MISS CARRINGTON, Hair Specialist and Electrolysis Expert, Dept. S.M.H., 38 CASTLEREAGH-STREET, SYDNEY. (Opp. Hotel Australia.) Hours: 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. 'Phone, City 7272.

THE WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

testify to the fact that Valaze is a beautifier of the complexion—its preserver and restorer. It is a skin food which revitalises the tissue and gives a smooth, flawless skin. Its use ensures against wrinkles, lines, and crowsfeet, skin blemishes, and ruin of the complexion by sun, wind, or cold. It keeps your skin beautiful, perfect, enviable.

Unaided by massage or rubbing—and only by mere contact with the skin—Valaze sinks down, down into the deeper layers of the skin, and stimulates, exhilarates, feeds, and beautifies it. The price of this invaluable preparation is 3/6 and 6/6 a jar. Postage 6d.

Because Valaze does not pose as a cure-all, Mme. Rubinstein recommends the following exclusive preparations:—Valaze Blackhead and Open Pore Cure, which banishes these disfigurements, cures a greasy, coarse skin, and assists in preserving a healthy complexion. Price, 2/10 posted.

Valaze Liquidine, a remarkable preparation, which, acting directly on the pores and freeing them from the waste matter which clogs them, prevents blackheads, pimples, redness, coarseness, and shine. Price, 5/ and 8/6. Postage 6d.

Mme. Rubinstein is the first Complexion Specialist to differentiate between the dry, moist, oily, shiny, and normal skin when advising the use of powder. She, therefore, supplies Valaze Complexion Powder for greasy, over-moist and shiny skins, and Novena Poudre for dry and normal skins, each in three tints, 2/, 3/, and 5/ a box. Postage 3d.

Valaze Hair Tonic goes to the root of all hair troubles, restores the vital principle to the hair follicles, and produces luxuriant growth where the natural process is sluggish. Its antiseptic qualities are on a par with the power it possesses of preserving the hair and giving it softness and gloss. Price 3/6 a bottle. Postage 6d. This tonic is very easily, effectively, and economically applied by means of the Pneumatic Comb. Passing the Comb through the hair the fluid runs imperceptibly through the hollow teeth right down into the scalp without at all disturbing the most elaborate coiffure. Price 2/9 posted.
